Russ: U.S. Gloating

MOSCOW — A Soviet newspaper charged yesterday that the United States is gloating over hostilities between Russia and Communist China, manifested in another border clash this week in which both sides suffered casualties.

A Soviet provincial official called for new civil defense laws to protect Russia in case of war.

Troops in N. Ireland

LONDON — Three hundred British troops entered this riot-stricken city in Northern Ireland yesterday and set up barbed wire barricades around the worst flashpoints to separate Catholics and Protestants whose fighting brought Northern Ireland close to civil war.

Northern Ireland Premier James Chichester-Clark told an emergency session of Parliament in Belfast the rioting was part of a conspiracy to overthrow him.

Czech Army Readied

PRAGUE — The government of Czechoslovakia, calling the political situation "grave," announced yesterday it had called out the army and the Peoples Militia to quell any demonstration on the first anniversary of the Soviet invasion, Aug. 20-21.

Never before have authorities announced in advance that the army and militia would stand by during a crisis.

Peace Talks 'Dimmed'

PARIS — The United States and South Vietnam declared at yesterday's session of the peace talks that current military attacks by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have dimmed hopes for fruitful negotiations.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. negotiator, said the Communists have "been preparing systematically for a new offensive," while the United States is withdrawing 25,000 troops and contemplating additional withdrawals.

SERIOUS INTEREST is shown in the face of Karen Monk, 3, as she works on an art project in Schaumburg Park District's Tot-Lot. Most summer programs in Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park have now ended, but park officials are making ready for full activities to fill the recreational desires of area residents.

Willow Still One-Way

Willow Road will continue as a one-way street in the Lexington Fields subdivision of Schaumburg, the village board decided Tuesday.

Willow is one-way west between 6 and 9 a.m. and one-way east between 4 and 7 p.m. to prevent cars from detouring through the subdivision while Higgins Road is being widened.

Dr. Martin Coniglio, a Lexington Fields resident, protested the continuation, but the Lexington Fields Homeowners Association unanimously asked that it be continued.

In addition, "No Through Street" signs will be placed at Martingale and Lexington Field Drive to warn motorists that the subdivision has no outlet.

THE ORDINANCE creating the one-way street was passed last month and became effective July 28. Five days later the one-way signs were defaced with black spray paint.

The oversized signs must be painted by the county, Edwin Denman, public works director, said Tuesday. As of Tuesday, the county hadn't finished the signs, he said.

Lexington Fields residents attending the board meeting said traffic is starting to pick up again.

Dr. Coniglio said most Lexington Fields residents don't use Willow Road and are not inconvenienced by the one-way. "I use Willow Road 99 per cent of the time," he said.

He noted that the one-way is an inconvenience for service vehicles such as milk trucks and school buses. He said such vehicles have ignored the one-way signs.

"THE NUMBER of cars entering Willow from Meacham Road is negligible. On July 9, between 6 a.m. and 7:30 a.m., only seven cars came that way," Dr. Coniglio said. He requested that the ordinance be repealed.

Thomas O'Rourke, president of the homeowners, replied, "It's a case of the board satisfying one individual or the majority of residents."

Trustee Mathew Helsper said, "We can't lose sight of the fact that these are public streets."

A resident said that traffic was eliminated during the five days the signs were up.

MAYOR ROBERT O. Atcher said, "We have to be fair to everyone. What we do for the people of Lexington Fields, we have to do for all other residents. If we took this kind of action in other subdivisions, you wouldn't be able to get through Schaumburg."

The residents of Lexington Fields said their's was a unique situation that couldn't happen in other subdivisions.

Police Chief Martin Conroy said he has posted a traffic officer at Meacham and Higgins Road between 6 and 8 a.m. and 4 and 6 p.m.

"This has been more beneficial. It has cut down traffic going through Lexington Fields," he said.

Conroy said he was informed by the school bus service for Dist. 54 that three buses use Willow between 6:30 and 8:30 a.m.

Lexington Fields residents said buses could use other entrances into the subdivision.

Policy Rate Same

Insurance rates for students in Dist. 211 will remain the same this year although the board has negotiated changes in benefits over the policy offered last year.

When students pay their school fees next week, $4.75 of the $22 will be for insurance coverage during school hours and while attending school functions.

The non-duplicating clause in last year's policy has been eliminated, making payment possible regardless of family insurance carried on a student.

James Lawrence, Dist. 211 business manager, in explaining the new policy to parents at a July board meeting, said it is important for parents to file a claim within 30 days of an injury. "We have trouble collecting for a claim when parents and the physician make reports which are contradictory."

A STUDENT MIGHT explain an injury to a physician and his parents explain it differently in their report. "This is because parents and doctors don't see each other before the reports are filed," Lawrence said.

School insurance covers a student while riding the school bus or walking to school each day, but it does not cover students driving private cars to and from school. All school activities and school-sponsored events are covered, although students are not covered in fights. Broken glasses are not covered in this year's policy, but extended dental coverage includes all teeth.

If an ambulance is necessary in an accident, cost will be covered regardless of whether the student is admitted to a hospital.

BEFORE ACCEPTING an insurance company, the business manager screened five companies. In 1967, the board decided all students must be included in the insurance plan. Parents who feel their insurance policies are adequate may sign a waiver which releases the school district from obligation.

For students participating in football, a $20 premium is required. "All other sports are covered, except skiing and horseback riding," Lawrence said. "Football is a greater risk and injuries cost more."

Complete coverage will be provided for football injuries, through recurrence of an identical injury is not obligatory on the insurance company. "If a boy breaks his ankle the first time and his knee the next, he will be covered for both injuries. But if he breaks the same ankle twice, he will not necessarily be covered the second time."

May Endorse Candidate

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

The Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) will probably endorse a candidate for the vacancy on the Schaumburg Village Board.

The village has called an election to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of Trustee Wilfred Meyer for Oct. 7, the same date as the 13th District Republican primary.

Township Committeeman Donald Totten told the Herald Wednesday that the central committee voted "overwhelmingly" in favor of screening potential candidates and making an endorsement at a meeting Monday.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher, also a ROOST member, said, "I wouldn't be surprised if it happens. I don't think there would be too much resistance to the idea."

THIS MARKS THE first time that ROOST has formally entered Schaumburg village politics. A ROOST picked slate of candidates was easily elected in April in the Hoffman Estates election.

Totten said mechanics for the interviews have not been established but ROOST will probably follow the pattern used before the Hoffman Estates election.

Totten said persons interested in being interviewed may contact him.

The interviews will be conducted by members of the organization and elected members of the Schaumburg Village Board, Totten said.

"This should spark the race," Totten said.

He added that "this doesn't preclude that we'll do anything in Schaumburg's 1971 election."

Atcher said if the national party becomes involved, there "still won't be the use of the party name. The activity will be of an endorsement nature, not selection," he said.

ATCHER SAID THE entire village board are Trustees Raymond Kessell, Donald De Vale, Gordon Mullins, Mathew Helsper and James Guthrie, Village Clerk Sandy Carsello and Atcher.

Atcher said ROOST members who sit in on interviews, should be limited to Schaumburg precinct captains, excluding Hoffman Estates or Hanover Park precinct captains.

Atcher also noted that the entrance of national parties on the local scene might be inevitable. "As the village grows, it becomes more apparent that an independent candidate can't cover the whole area by himself, so organization becomes an important thing," he said.

In April, three trustee candidates backed by the village board ran unopposed. Atcher said there seems to be more interest in the vacancy this time.

"I THINK MANY are interested in running. Five people have come in to see me about it. I haven't told any of them I would endorse them," Atcher said.

He said all five were Republicans. The person elected Oct. 7 will serve until April, 1971.

National parties have not endorsed candidates in Northwest suburban communities except for Hoffman Estates and Palatine. In both of those communities, Republican slates have been elected. Republican candidates endorsed by the Palatine Township organization were not elected in Rolling Meadows in April.

Family of GI Killed In Viet Gives Flag

A United States Flag presented to a Schaumburg family when their son was killed in Vietnam will fly over the Schaumburg Village Hall.

The family of Sgt. Phillip Essig is presenting the flag to the village at 10 a.m. today on the first anniversary of his death.

Annexation Denied

A 6.2-acre tract of land owned by Mrs. Dorothy Meyer will not become a part of Hoffman Estates. This decision came from the village board Monday night when they decided not to annex the property.

The board accepted the decision of the plans commission that the property was of "no value" to the village despite the pleading of Theodore Meyer, son of Mrs. Meyer, and his attorney.

The land is located off Ela Road and is completely surrounded by the forest preserve district. The Meyers plan to subdivide the property into six lots of about one acre each.

Plans Commission Chairman James Kopp, in a letter recommending that the village not annex the property, said the area would have to use private water and sewer facilities. Also a road to the area is inadequate in width, which would cause the fire department to maintain a tank truck they are currently planning to get rid of. He concluded the property would cost more to service than it would bring in revenue to the village.

MEYER AND HIS attorney argued that the police department currently services the area and that fire protection will be taken care of by the Palatine Fire District until the nearby Winston Knolls development is completed, which would require Hoffman Estates to service the area anyway.

Meyer's attorney quoted a letter from Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman Robert Valentino to Kopp as saying the land is "very desirable for annexation."

An attorney for an adjoining property owner told the board that his client objected to the annexation of the land because additional traffic on a road leading to the Meyer property would devalue his property.

Kopp told the board the Plans Commission's consideration of the fire and police service problem was secondary in the commission's reason for not recommending the annexation.

The main reason was that there is "no advantage to the village to have an isolated part of the community," Kopp said. He quoted a portion of the proposed comprehensive plan for the village to this effect.

Larsen Reappointed To P R Committee

Jack Larsen was reappointed to Schaumburg's public relations committee, a committee of one by the village board Tuesday.

Larsen served in that capacity until a year ago when he became president of the local Jaycee chapter. He agreed to return to the position when his tenure as president ended.

The board also concurred with the appointment of Mel Garbark to the police pension board. Garbark is active in the Lions Club and has painted many signs for the village.

A new map showing the correct locations of the Jubilee events appears in Section 3, Page 11.

Splash Party Is for Adults

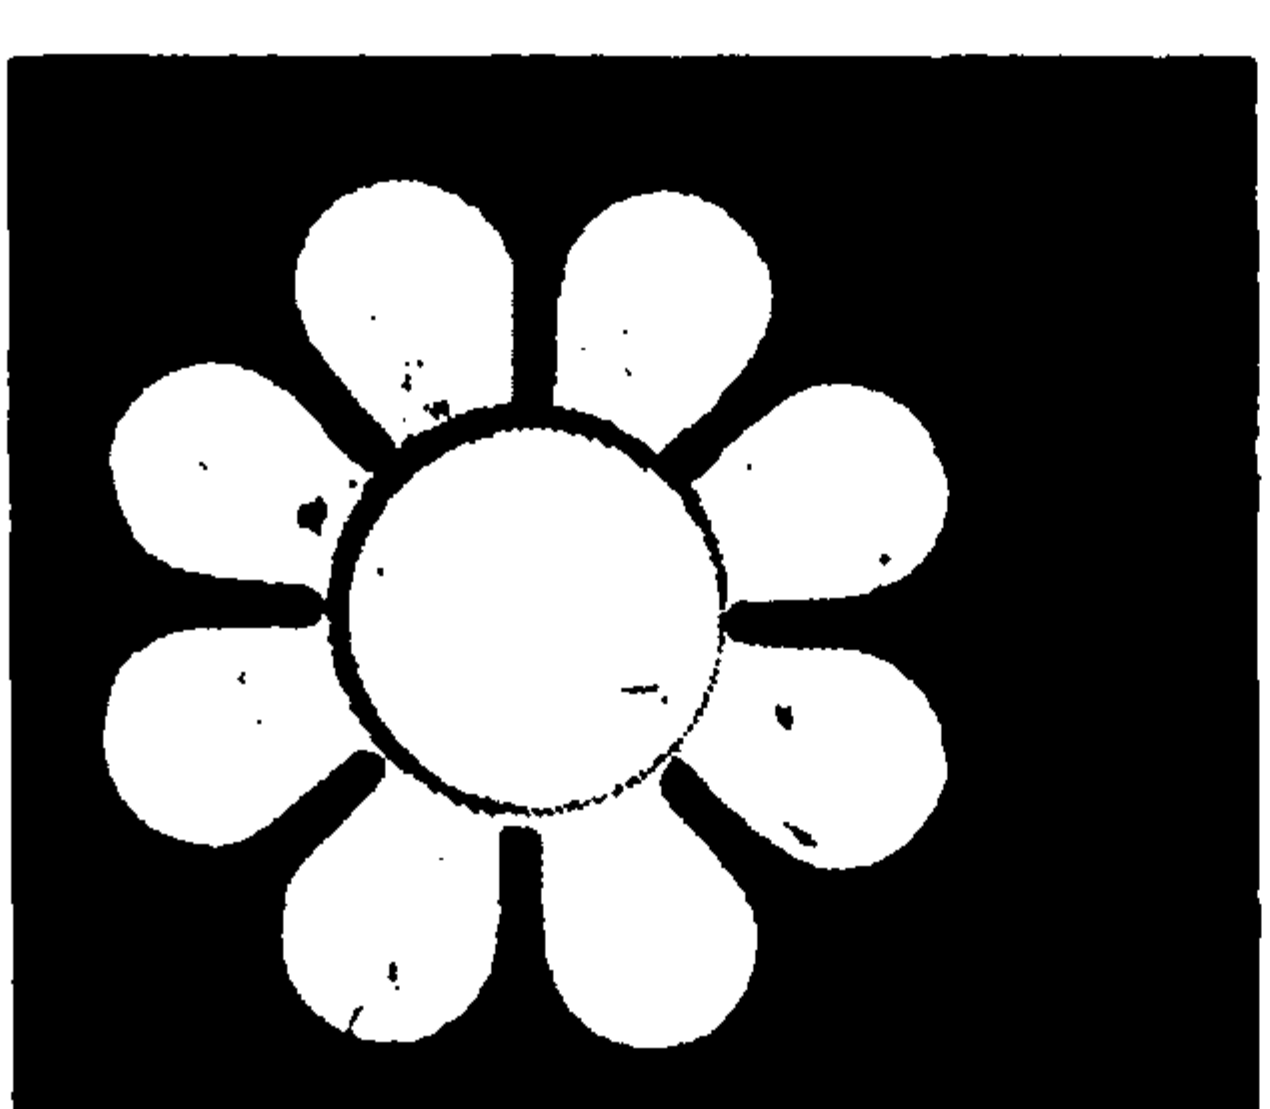

An adults-only splash party will be held tonight at the Schaumburg pool between 9 and 11 p.m. The party is free.

Paul Derda, Schaumburg Park District director, said, "We decided to do something for the adults since we've had so many splash parties for teens."

ALL SCHAUMBURG Park District residents are welcome to attend and "bring their friends and neighbors," Derda said. The only requirement is that attendants be 21 or older.

There will be dancing to records. Another free splash party for adults will be held Aug. 29.

The park district will have its swim finale with clowns, water ballet, races, awards and demonstrations, Aug. 22, at 7 p.m. at the pool.

Annex Delayed

An "economy move" that could possibly save Winston-Muss Corp. more than a quarter-million dollars was proposed Monday to the Hoffman Estates Village Board.

A change in the pre-annexation agreement with the village concerning Winston-Knolls Unit III was presented by Donald Kirk, senior vice president of operations for Winston-Muss Corp.

Unit III is a development of 470 homes bordering on Ela Road. Under a present pre-annexation agreement, a forced sewage line would have to be built 25 miles east to Algonquin and Plum Grove roads. Estimated costs for the extension are between $175,000 and $325,000.

Kirk's request was that Winston-Muss be allowed to build a temporary forced line that would extend north to the Howie-in-the-Hills sewage pumping station at an estimated cost of $50,000.

The line Kirk proposed would be used for two or three years until the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) builds an interceptor for sewage in the Algonquin-Plum Grove roads area. The newly proposed line would then have to be abandoned for one that connects with the MSD's interceptor.

Trustee Howard Noble questioned the proposal. The annexation agreement calls for Winston-Muss to finance any sewage line extensions during the subdivision's development.

Once the area is annexed to Hoffman Estates, Unit III residents would be taxed $2.5 cents a month until the developer is reimbursed for the extension.

ALTHOUGH THE 25-mile extension represents a sizable additional cost, it would be useful for years to come, Noble said. He is wary of a $50,000 expenditure that would eventually fall on the village's shoulders only to be abandoned a few years later.

Kirk's proposal will be brought up with the plan commission and the public works committee before final action is taken by the village board.

Board Meet Time Change

The Schaumburg Village Board has changed its regular meeting time from the fourth Thursday to the fourth Tuesday, of each month, effective Aug. 26.

In addition, the board will meet regularly the second Tuesday of the month. Meetings start at 8 p.m. in the Great Hall.

Solicitors Denied Lists

Updated mailing lists of Hoffman Estates residents were denied to private businesses at Monday's village board meeting.

The denial was based on a written recommendation by Mrs. Laura Reedy, administrative assistant for the village.

The recommendation said that providing mailing lists would be an administrative burden for village employees and an infringement on the privacy of residents.

A POLL OF neighboring villages showed that mailing lists are uniformly kept from potential solicitors.

The list, updated each month to include new residents, is made available only to newspapers, church groups and civic organizations.

Henry Ralston of Ralston Electronics attended the meeting hoping to persuade the village board to make the list available. "We want the mailing list only to make letters more personal than when they are addressed to occupants," he said.

Area Study Authorized

The Schaumburg Village Board Tuesday authorized Barton-Aschman, plan consultants, to make an engineering study for water and sewer service in areas north of Golf Road.

The study will cost about $15,000 and will be charged to special assessments that developers north of Golf Road will pay, Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Several apartment complexes are planned for the area west of Roselle and north of Golf. Developers will extend main lines from Plum Grove Road to Roselle Road.

Their costs will be reimbursed through waived tap-on fees. The improvements will become part of the village system.

IN RELATED ACTION Tuesday, the board authorized J. P. Miller Co. to start testing for water well sites at the Woodfield Shopping Center site. Tests are expected to cost less than $1,000.

The well to serve the center must have a capacity of 500 gallons per minute, said Edwin Denman, public works director.

Atcher pointed out that total construction valuation in Schaumburg for the first seven months of 1969 totaled $30 million. The 1968 total for the village was $28 million.

The board also approved an agreement to pay for a well and storage tank serving Polo Foods and other industries located in the Plum Grove Industrial Park. The $186,000 cost will be financed through a bank loan payable over a 10 year period at 5 per cent interest. The loan is being paid off through water and sewer fees charged to Polo.

Festivities Begin Today

Wheeling opens its Diamond Jubilee tonight, and jubilee officials want the turnout to be "astronomical."

"We hope that the reception for the jubilee will outdo what happened in downtown Chicago for the astronauts Wednesday," joked John Koeppe, chairman of the Diamond Jubilee Committee.

Koeppe qualified his prediction by saying, "Of course the crowd will be on a ratio scaled down to the size of the village."

The jubilee committee has publicized the village birthday festivities "in every town around," said Koeppe.

"SO WE HOPE IT is a good crowd, because the 10-day celebration is really going to be worth seeing," Koeppe added.

The carnival, steak cook-out, and teen dance tonight at Wheeling High School will kick-off the activities.

"The ball Saturday night, featuring the Ted Weems Orchestra is going to be great fun," Koeppe said. "The queen of the jubilee will be announced, and there will be dancing to good music."

The Ted Weems Orchestra, under the direction of Warren Bills, consists of 13 musicians and vocalist Kim Vaughan.

The ball will be at the Chevy Chase Country Club on Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling, Saturday night at 9:30. Old-fashioned costumes may be worn, although they are not mandatory.

MORE ENTERTAINMENT will come on Sunday. The "Up With People" youth group will have a concert in the Wheeling

High School theatre at 7:30 p.m. The group has appeared all over the nation and has performed in several television specials.

In addition to the group, a German band and a quartet will round out the concert. Admission is $1.

A beer garden, featuring a German band will be held at 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the large parking lot on the corner of Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue.

"The pageant that will run five of the jubilee celebration days, is really going to be unique and entertaining," Koeppe says. "There has never been anything like it in this area; there's so much to it."

NOT ONLY WILL THE pageant depict Wheeling's history through song and dance, but it includes "Laugh-In" parts and will have two movie screens going in conjunction with the show. Ron Nash, producer of the spectacular, has taken from 300 to 400 slides and some old-time movies to project on the screens. About 300 Wheeling residents make up the cast of the show, called "Wheeling Thru the Years."

The historical pageant will be held in the Wheeling High School Stadium, and will be staged across the entire football field. It starts at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 19 and runs through Aug. 23.

"There will also be a lot of action during the afternoons at the Heritage Park Building and Holmes Junior High School," Koeppe says. This will include contests, style shows, exhibits, athletic events, tournaments, and parties.

Utility Buy Expected Soon

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson revealed that the village might soon be able to sell its bonds and buy the Buffalo Utility Co.

Thompson reported at Monday's village board meeting: "Bond buyers are starting to make overtures."

The bonds, which have been for sale since last winter, have gone unsold because of a poor bond market.

A bond ordinance allowing the sale of $4 million in bonds was passed by the village board last winter after the village and officials of the utility had finally agreed on the sale price of the utility.

The village has been trying for several years, unsuccessfully, to buy the utility.

SHORTLY AFTER the bonds were offered for sale, a buyer was found. However, the buyer backed out of the deal.

Recently, officials of the village and the utility worked out additional contracts for sewer interchanges between the sewers of the village and the utility. The contracts would allow construction of the interchange before the village buys the utility.

Previously, the village had planned to build the interchange using part of the $4 million it was to receive from the sale of its bonds.

But the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) filed a suit against the utility, charging it with polluting Buffalo Creek. Action on the suit was held up pending the interchange contract between the village and the utility.

EFFORTS TO BEGIN construction on the interchange were held up, however, when the MSD refused to grant a permit for the construction.

Thompson said at Monday's village board meeting, "The MSD first told us the pollution would have to be stopped before the interchange could be built."

Thompson said, however, he later received a letter from the MSD saying the interchange would be permitted if certain conditions were met. Thompson did not specify what those conditions were.

Move Budget Meeting

The Dist. 23 budget hearing will be held Aug. 18 in the cafeteria of MacArthur High School at 7:30 p.m.

Originally the meeting was scheduled to be held in the west trailer on the MacArthur School grounds. However, Dist. 23 administrators moved the meeting to the cafeteria after they learned a large number of people planned to attend the meeting.

Approve Payment For Repair Work

Payment of 80 per cent of the bill for street and sidewalk repair in Wheeling was approved by the village board Monday.

Trustee Peter Egan, chairman of the board's streets, public buildings and grounds committee, told the board members that the repair companies had begun work on driveways. The board had refused payment on the contracts last week because residents complained of poor workmanship on the repairs.

The Albin Carlson Co. received $13,800 in partial payment for the sidewalk repair and replacement program. The Skokie Valley Asphalt Co. was paid $13,000 as partial payment for the street repair.

The remainder of the bills will be paid upon completion of the repairs.

Alcott School in Buffalo Grove. The commission's summer program officially ends Saturday with a penny carnival at Emmerich Park in Buffalo Grove.

Manager Leaves On Request

Voting 3 to 2 in favor of accepting the apparent forced resignation of Gary Machunze, Rolling Meadows city manager, the city council Tuesday night approved Machunze's resignation effective today.

Machunze said, "They asked me to resign. I have never received any official reasons. They have no seen fit to give me any."

Mayor Roland Meyer said he had no comment about the reasons for the resignation.

Alderman Thomas Waldron, who cast one of the "no" votes, said "I am sorry it did not work out. It shows we're not ready for a full manager yet."

Aldermen Kenneth Retzke and Donald Weber said they had no comment on the reasons for the resignation.

ALDERMAN DONALD WINN said as conditions were, things weren't working out. He said for Machunze's interests and the city's interests it was best for him not to be there. He said he was not involved with any bitterness concerning Machunze's resignation.

Alderman William Ahrens declined to comment, and said he didn't feel the need to comment since the city "hasn't been given a fair shake by the newspaper in view of what the paper has been writing."

Other aldermen could not be reached. Machunze, who took the job as city manager in March of 1968, said in his resignation, "It is with regret that I am being forced to resign. Unfortunately, the whole process of my removal has been conducted without giving me a chance to answer any of the objections the individual elected officials may have had to my actions."

His letter continues: "I feel that over this past year the concept of a professional general administrator as established by ordinance, was not given a fair trial. Thus, the authority and responsibilities due this position were not honored from the day I commenced work. This was quite clearly a direct violation of the concepts of the democratic process and an abrogation of the responsibilities delegated to the elected officials by the city of Rolling Meadows."

"THE INABILITY of a number of elected officials to understand the nature of political authority consistently thwarted my efforts to establish innumerable acceptable administrative procedures that are recognized in both private and public organizations."

"This situation will prevent the ability of the various municipal functions to execute their responsibilities effectively on a continuing basis."

Machunze has no plans at the present for what he will do.

A special meeting will be called next Tuesday to decide what the council will do, said Meyer. He said they had no plans for new manager yet, and might consider a different form of government without a city manager.

Rolling Meadows first instituted the city manager form of government in January, 1967, when R. D. Heninger was named the first city manager.

Heninger was comptroller before his promotion to city manager. Machunze succeeded him as Rolling Meadows' second city manager.

MACHUNZE GOT his bachelor's degree in political science from Whittier College, and earned his master's degree in public administration from the University of Kansas.

He interned as an administrative assistant in Winnetka. He wrote his master's thesis on inter-municipal co-operation between cities and municipalities of north Cook County.

Before taking the city manager job, Machunze, 28, was a budget analysis officer for the State of Kansas.

Youth Drowns in Lake

A Rolling Meadows youth drowned Wednesday while playing with friends in a lake at Holiday Park, north of Grayslake in Lake County, the Lake County coroner said.

Larry Grieshaber, 14, of 3203 Thrust Lane, was playing in Druce Lake when he lost his footing and plunged into the water, Lake County police said.

The accident occurred about noon and police said a Fox Lake rescue unit was administering mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to Grieshaber when they arrived.

Lifeguards at the lake pulled the teenager's body from the water and treated him before the rescue unit arrived.

POLICE SAID the body was recovered from eight feet of water. Grieshaber was pronounced dead on arrival at Hainpsher's Funeral Home in Fox Lake.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Val Grieshaber. Grieshaber is an assemblyman for an electrical company in Chicago.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Delay Discussion On Use of Land

Discussion of an agreement between Dist. 23 and the Prospect Heights Park District on mutual land use was postponed at Monday's park district meeting.

Park commissioners decided to postpone the discussion until a committee formulates more specific plans for the mutual use of land by the park district and the school district.

Originally, the park-school agreement, which would allow mutual use of facilities, was drawn up broad in scope," according to John Haas, park district attorney.

"Unless we come up with a plan of what we want to use the land for, the plan is insignificant," Haas said. "We have to know what the park district wants and then decide what we're willing to give the school district," he added.

Race Against Deadline

by JOAN KLUSMANN

Clusters of classrooms in hexagonal design are rapidly taking shape on north Arlington Heights Road as workmen race against a back-to-school deadline.

This week, as painters covered the new walls of Rand Junior High School, staff members planned programs and schedules designed to give each student a chance to shine as an individual.

Dr. Todd Fouty, director of junior high school education for School Dist. 23, says that teachers at Rand will be faced with making decisions they have never had to think about in the past. They will have to take a hard look at class schedules and decide who will profit from more algebraic equations and which student will fare better working on his own.

FOUTY STRESSES that "there is no magic in the 45-minute mathematics or science period" and that varying time allotments are necessary for students who differ widely in interest and ability.

While teachers in other schools usually meet in mathematics or English department sessions, the Rand staff will work in grade-level teams. Primary purpose of the switch is to encourage teachers to thrash out problems of the students during planning hours, rather than to emphasize subject matter.

Fouty, formerly a principal at South Junior High School, says the system should allow principal and assistant principal to get more involved in teacher discussions. "I know I could make a greater contribution in talks about the kids and their needs than I could to a discussion of new math concepts."

WHEN A STUDENT'S interests and strong points are known, the Rand staff hopes to give everyone an opportunity to succeed at something and to spark a thirst for future learning. Principal James Riebeck, equating Fouty in enthusiasm and hope for the coming year, lauds the success theory. "When a child receives satisfaction from a task accomplished well, he is, in turn, more motivated for the next challenge."

In an effort to have a glimmer of student interests in advance, the staff has contacted parents and teachers of incoming sixth-grade students. Questions center on what the child can do well, what he likes to do the most and how he learns the best.

TEACHERS AT THE new school are "volunteers." During the year Fouty talked to staff members describing plans for Rand and asking those interested in the venture to get in touch with him. The staff this year will include 26 teachers, a learning specialist, and librarian. Three "paraprofessionals," who will work with small groups of children under teacher guidance, were also employed recently.

The hub of activity is expected to be the library material center, a huge hexagon which will also house tapes, records and other tools designed for self-teaching. Three smaller hexagons for classrooms branch out from the library center, with two more clusters slated for future building.

THIS YEAR students will use one cluster for social studies and a second for language arts. The third and largest will serve mathematics and science needs. A long corridor leading from the library center goes to the lunch room, gymnasium, home economics and shop sections. In the second phase of the building program, a large gym-auditorium, kitchen and cafeteria will be added.

Schedules are set so teachers will have time for team planning while the youngsters are at the other end of the building in gym or shop.

To encourage innovation in teaching methods, classrooms are physically flexible. Rooms will have no doors but will open into a small learning center serving all classes in the cluster. Removable partitions separating the classrooms are chest high and, when standing, a teacher may supervise activities in two places at once.

The learning centers may be used for small groups of students working on similar activities but their precise use will emerge as time and experimentation go by.

ON OPENING DAY one cluster will not be fully completed. The five rooms were included in original plans for the school but spiraling costs forced board members to eliminate the section to remain within the budget. Resident approved a new building program this March and negotiations were quickly made for the additional construction.

Students entering junior high school for the first time all require a period of adjustment to a new way of life, and pupils entering Rand this fall will also have to cope with last minute construction and temporary "make do" conditions. But the atmosphere of accentuating the positive in each child should help make the adjustment a pleasant one.

Rand innovations will also set the pace for future district activities. While some of the new features will be tried in other schools this year, others will be incorporated as their success is proven in the new school.

Belnap Report Due

The long-awaited Belnap Report, a comprehensive survey of all aspects of education in School Dist. 23, will be presented at the Sept. 8 board meeting

Authorization for Dr. Ralph Belnap of Northern Illinois University to conduct the survey was granted by the Prospect Heights area school board in 1968. The report was to have been completed several months ago.

Belnap will attend the Sept. 8 board meeting to read his report and discuss it with board members and administrators.

Included in the report will be a study of enrollment, finances, building, curriculum, administration and related aspects of Dist. 23. Also included will be a projection of the future needs of the district.

"The Belnap report will tell us what we have and what we can do to improve our system," explained Dist. 23 Superintendent Edward Grodzky.

Melius Is Named Head Of MacArthur Science

LeRoy Melius was appointed chairman of the science department at MacArthur Junior High School Monday night by the Dist. 23 School Board.

Melius is returning to teaching duties in the district this fall after taking a leave of absence for the 1968-69 school year. During that time he taught school in Germany.

Prior to taking a leave of absence, Melius taught in the Prospect Heights school system for nine years.

In other action, the board appointed 15 teachers to positions in Dist. 23 and accepted the resignations of four teachers.

Fire Dept. May Form

Work has begun on the formation of a municipal fire department in Buffalo Grove.

"I would like to see that the necessary steps to form a municipal fire department are taken," Trustee Allan Thorud said at Monday's village police and fire committee.

Thorud wants a meeting arranged between the fire department and the village board later this month. "It will be an informal meeting, open to the public," Thorud said.

The Buffalo Grove Volunteer Fire Department is now a separate organization, under contract to the Wheeling Fire Protection District.

Included in the same district is the Wheeling department. The district also pays a sum to the Prospect Heights Volunteer Fire Department.

Under the current arrangement, the fire protection district collects taxes each year from residents in its boundaries. Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and a small part of Prospect Heights are included in the district.

THE DISTRICT, in turn, disperses its revenues under contracts it has signed with area fire departments.

"When we become a municipal fire department, we will withdraw from the fire protection district," said Wayne Winter, chief of the Buffalo Grove department.

He said that when the fire department becomes a municipal fire department, it will come under village board control.

"However, the village wouldn't support the fire department out of the general fund. Instead, a special fire department tax would be levied," said Winter.

To decide whether the department will become a municipal fire department, a referendum will be held, with only Buffalo Grove residents voting.

Winter outlined the primary reasons the department wants to come under village control: "First, fire protection districts can collect only as much as 20 per cent per $100 assessed valuation. A village with a municipal department is allowed to collect at least twice as much. Only with a higher tax rate could the village afford a full-time department.

"SECOND, right now some portions of the village are in the Long Grove Fire Protection District. With the creation of a municipal department, the entire village will be protected by our fire department."

Even if the unit becomes a municipal department, it will still operate on a volunteer basis, Winter said, however, "In three years, we could have nine to 10 full-time men."

Winter said the department receives $15,000 this year from the district. He said the village supplements that amount with another $10,000 from the civil defense fund.

The meeting to be held later this month "is for us to work out operating rules for the municipal fire department with the village. Before we become a municipal department, we want to see the village board use the rules we have used for the past five years," Winter said.

Winter said he thinks the village board is in favor of the formation of a municipal department.

Manager Leaves On Request

Voting 8 to 2 in favor of accepting the apparent forced resignation of Gary Machunze, Rolling Meadows city manager, the city council Tuesday night approved Machunze's resignation effective today.

Machunze said, "They asked me to resign. I have never received any official reasons. They have no seen fit to give me any."

Mayor Roland Meyer said he had no comment about the reasons for the resignation.

Alderman Thomas Waldron, who cast one of the "no" votes, said "I am sorry it did not work out. It shows we're not ready for a full manager yet."

Aldermen Kenneth Retzke and Donald Weber said they had no comment on the reasons for the resignation.

ALDERMAN DONALD WINN said as conditions were, things weren't working out. He said for Machunze's interests and the city's interests it was best for him not to be there. He said he was not involved with any bitterness concerning Machunze's resignation.

Alderman William Ahrens declined to comment, and said he didn't feel the need to comment since the city "hasn't been given a fair shake by the newspaper in view of what the paper has been writing."

Machunze, who took the job as city manager in March of 1968, said in his resignation, "It is with regret that I am being forced to resign. Unfortunately, the whole process of my removal has been conducted without giving me a chance to answer any of the objections the individual elected officials may have had to my actions."

His letter continues: "I feel that over this past year the concept of a professional general administrator as established by ordinance, was not given a fair trial. Thus, the authority and responsibilities due this position were not honored from the day I commenced work. This was quite clearly a direct violation of the concepts of the democratic process and an abrogation of the responsibilities delegated to the elected officials by the city of Rolling Meadows.

"THE INABILITY of a number of elected officials to understand the nature of political authority consistently thwarted my efforts to establish innumerable acceptable administrative procedures that are recognized in both private and public organizations.

"This situation will prevent the ability of the various municipal functions to execute their responsibilities effectively on a continuing basis."

Machunze has no plans at the present for what he will do.

A special meeting will be called next Tuesday to decide what the council will do, said Meyer. He said they had no plans for new manager yet, and might consider a different form of government without a city manager.

Rolling Meadows first instituted the city manager form of government in January, 1967, when R. D. Heninger was named the first city manager.

Heninger was comptroller before his

Russ: U.S. Gloating

A Soviet provincial official called for new civil defense laws to protect Russia in case of war.

Troops in N. Ireland

LONDON — Three hundred British troops entered this riot-stricken city in Northern Ireland yesterday and set up barbed wire barricades around the worst flashpoints to separate Catholics and Protestants whose fighting brought Northern Ireland close to civil war.

Northern Ireland Premier James Chichester-Clark told an emergency session of Parliament in Belfast the rioting was part of a conspiracy to overthrow him.

Czech Army Readied

PRAGUE — The government of Czechoslovakia, calling the political situation "grave," announced yesterday it had called out the army and the Peoples Militia to quell any demonstration on the first anniversary of the Soviet invasion, Aug. 20-21.

Never before have authorities announced in advance that the army and militia would stand by during a crisis.

Peace Talks 'Dimmed'

PARIS — The United States and South Vietnam declared at yesterday's session of the peace talks that current military attacks by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have dimmed hopes for fruitful negotiations.

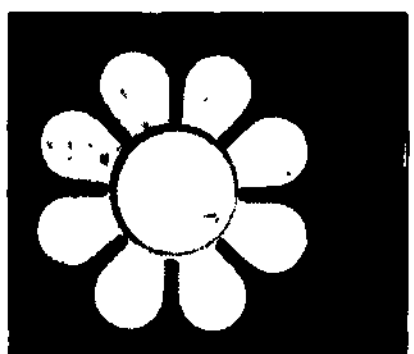

Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. negotiator, said the Communists have "been preparing systematically for a new offensive," while the United States is withdrawing 25,000 troops and contemplating additional withdrawals.

But the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) filed a suit against the utility, charging it with polluting Buffalo Creek. Action on the suit was held up pending the interchange contract between the village and the utility.

EFFORTS TO BEGIN construction on the interchange were held up, however, when the MSD refused to grant a permit for the construction.

Thompson said at Monday's village board meeting, "The MSD first told us the pollution would have to be stopped before the interchange could be built."

Thompson said, however, he later received a letter from the MSD saying the interchange would be permitted if certain conditions were met. Thompson did not specify what those conditions were.

Move Budget Meeting

The Dist. 23 budget hearing will be held Aug. 18 in the cafeteria of MacArthur Junior High School at 7:30 p.m.

Approve Payment For Repair Work

Payment of 80 per cent of the bill for street and sidewalk repair in Wheeling was approved by the village board Monday.

Trustee Peter Egan, chairman of the board's streets, public buildings and grounds committee, told the board members that the repair companies had begun work on driveways. The board had refused payment on the contracts last week because residents complained of poor workmanship on the repairs.

The Albin Carlson Co. received $13,800 in partial payment for the sidewalk repair and replacement program. The Skokie Valley Asphalt Co. was paid $13,000 as partial payment for the street repair.

The remainder of the bills will be paid upon completion of the repairs.

The five rooms were included in original plans for the school but spiralling costs forced board members to eliminate the section to remain within the budget. Resident approved a new building program this March and negotiations were quickly made for the additional construction.

Students entering junior high school for the first time all require a period of adjustment to a new way of life, and pupils entering Rand this fall will also have to cope with last minute construction and temporary "make do" conditions. But the atmosphere of accentuating the positive in each child should help make the adjustment a pleasant one.

Rand innovations will also set the pace for future district activities. While some of the new features will be tried in other schools this year, others will be incorporated as their success is proven in the new school.

Belnap Report Due

The long-awaited Belnap Report, a comprehensive survey of all aspects of education in School Dist. 23, will be presented at the Sept. 8 board meeting.

Authorization for Dr. Ralph Belnap of Northern Illinois University to conduct the survey was granted by the Prospect Heights area school board in 1968. The report was to have been completed several months ago.

Belnap will attend the Sept. 8 board meeting to read his report and discuss it with board members and administrators.

Included in the report will be a study of enrollment, finances, building, curriculum, administration and related aspects of Dist. 23. Also included will be a projection of the future needs of the district.

"The Belnap report will tell us what we have and what we can do to improve our system," explained Dist. 23 Superintendent Edward Grodsky.

Melius Is Named Head Of MacArthur Science

LeRoy Melius was appointed chairman of the science department at MacArthur Junior High School Monday night by the Dist. 23 School Board.

Melius is returning to teaching duties in the district this fall after taking a leave of absence for the 1968-69 school year. During that time he taught school in Germany.

Prior to taking a leave of absence, Melius taught in the Prospect Heights school system for nine years.

In other action, the board appointed 15 teachers to positions in Dist. 23 and accepted the resignations of four teachers.

Delay Discussion On Use of Land

Discussion of an agreement between Dist. 23 and the Prospect Heights Park District on mutual land use was postponed at Monday's park district meeting.

Park commissioners decided to postpone the discussion until a committee formulates more specific plans for the mutual use of land by the park district and the school district.

Originally, the park-school agreement, which would allow mutual use of facilities, "was drawn up broad in scope," according to John Haas, park district attorney.

"Unless we come up with a plan of what we want to use the land for, the plan is insignificant," Haas said. "We have to know what the park district wants and then decide what we're willing to give the school district," he added.

Fire Dept. May Form

Work has begun on the formation of a municipal fire department in Buffalo Grove.

"I would like to see that the necessary steps to form a municipal fire department are taken," Trustee Allan Thorud said at Monday's village police and fire committee meeting.

Thorud wants a meeting arranged between the fire department and the village board later this month. "It will be an informal meeting, open to the public," Thorud said.

The Buffalo Grove Volunteer Fire Department is now a separate organization, under contract to the Wheeling Fire Protection District.

Included in the same district is the Wheeling department. The district also pays a sum to the Prospect Heights Volunteer Fire Department.

Under the current arrangement, the fire protection district collects taxes each year from residents in its boundaries. Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and a small part of Prospect Heights are included in the district.

THE DISTRICT, in turn, disperses its revenues under contracts it has signed with area fire departments.

"When we become a municipal fire department, we will withdraw from the fire protection district," said Wayne Winter, chief of the Buffalo Grove department.

He said that when the fire department becomes a municipal fire department, it will come under village board control.

"However, the village wouldn't support the fire department out of the general fund. Instead, a special fire department tax would be levied," said Winter.

To decide whether the department will become a municipal fire department, a referendum will be held, with only Buffalo Grove residents voting.

Winter outlined the primary reasons the department wants to come under village control: "First, fire protection districts can collect only as much as 20 per cent per $100 assessed valuation. A village with a municipal department is allowed to collect at least twice as much. Only with a higher tax rate could the village afford a full-time department.

"SECOND, right now some portions of the village are in the Long Grove Fire Protection District. With the creation of a municipal department, the entire village will be protected by our fire department."

Even if the unit becomes a municipal department, it will still operate on a volunteer basis. Winter said, however, "In three years, we could have nine to 10 full-time men."

Winter said the department receives $15,000 this year from the district. He said the village supplements that amount with another $10,000 from the civil defense fund.

The meeting to be held later this month "is for us to work out operating rules for the municipal fire department with the village. Before we become a municipal department, we want to see the village board use the rules we have used for the past five years," Winter said.

Winter said he thinks the village board is in favor of the formation of a municipal department.

Russ: U.S. Gloating

MOSCOW — A Soviet newspaper charged yesterday that the United States is gloating over hostilities between Russia and Communist China, manifested in another border clash this week in which both sides suffered casualties.

A Soviet provincial official called for new civil defense laws to protect Russia in case of war.

Troops in N. Ireland

LONDON — Three hundred British troops entered this riot-stricken city in Northern Ireland yesterday and set up barbed wire barricades around the worst flashpoints to separate Catholics and Protestants whose fighting brought Northern Ireland close to civil war.

Northern Ireland Premier James Chichester-Clark told an emergency session of Parliament in Belfast the rioting was part of a conspiracy to overthrow him.

Czech Army Readied

PRAGUE — The government of Czechoslovakia, calling the political situation "grave," announced yesterday it had called out the army and the Peoples Militia to quell any demonstration on the first anniversary of the Soviet invasion, Aug. 20-21.

Never before have authorities announced in advance that the army and militia would stand by during a crisis.

Peace Talks 'Dimmed'

PARIS — The United States and South Vietnam declared at yesterday's session of the peace talks that current military attacks by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have dimmed hopes for fruitful negotiations.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. negotiator, said the Communists have "been preparing systematically for a new offensive," while the United States is withdrawing 25,000 troops and contemplating additional withdrawals.

Utility Buy Expected Soon

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson revealed that the village might soon be able to sell its bonds and buy the Buffalo Utility Co.

Thompson reported at Monday's village board meeting "Bond buyers are starting to make overtures."

The bonds, which have been for sale since last winter, have gone unsold because of a poor bond market.

A bond ordinance allowing the sale of $4 million in bonds was passed by the village board last winter after the village and officials of the utility had finally agreed on the sale price of the utility.

The village has been trying for several years, unsuccessfully, to buy the utility.

SHORTLY AFTER the bonds were offered for sale, a buyer was found. However, the buyer backed out of the deal.

Recently, officials of the village and the utility worked out additional contracts for sewer interchanges between the sewers of the village and the utility. The contracts would allow construction of the interchange before the village buys the utility.

Previously, the village had planned to build the interchange using part of the $4 million it was to receive from the sale of its bonds.

But the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) filed a suit against the utility, charging it with polluting Buffalo Creek. Action on the suit was held up pending the interchange contract between the village and the utility.

EFFORTS TO BEGIN construction on the interchange were held up, however, when the MSD refused to grant a permit for the construction.

Thompson said at Monday's village board meeting, "The MSD first told us the pollution would have to be stopped before the interchange could be built."

Thompson said, however, he later received a letter from the MSD saying the interchange would be permitted if certain conditions were met. Thompson did not specify what those conditions were.

Move Budget Meeting

The Dist. 23 budget hearing will be held Aug. 18 in the cafeteria of MacArthur Junior High School at 7:30 p.m.

Originally the meeting was scheduled to be held in the west trailer on the MacArthur School grounds. However, Dist. 23 administrators moved the meeting to the cafeteria after they learned a large number of people planned to attend the meeting.

Approve Payment For Repair Work

Payment of 80 per cent of the bill for street and sidewalk repair in Wheeling was approved by the village board Monday.

Trustee Peter Egan, chairman of the board's streets, public buildings and grounds committee, told the board members that the repair companies had begun work on driveways. The board had refused payment on the contracts last week because residents complained of poor workmanship on the repairs.

The Albin Carlson Co. received $13,000 in partial payment for the sidewalk repair and replacement program. The Skokie Valley Asphalt Co. was paid $13,000 as partial payment for the street repair.

The remainder of the bills will be paid upon completion of the repairs.

Alcott School in Buffalo Grove. The commission's summer program officially ends Saturday with a penny carnival at Emmerich Park in Buffalo Grove.

Manager Leaves On Request

Voting 8 to 2 in favor of accepting the apparent forced resignation of Gary Machunze, Rolling Meadows city manager, the city council Tuesday night approved Machunze's resignation effective today.

Machunze said, "They asked me to resign. I have never received any official reasons. They have no seen fit to give me any."

Mayor Roland Meyer said he had no comment about the reasons for the resignation.

Alderman Thomas Waldron, who cast one of the "no" votes, said "I am sorry it did not work out. It shows we're not ready for a full manager yet."

Aldermen Kenneth Retzke and Donald Weber said they had no comment on the reasons for the resignation.

ALDERMAN DONALD WINN said as conditions were, things weren't working out. He said for Machunze's interests and the city's interests it was best for him not to be there. He said he was not involved with any bitterness concerning Machunze's resignation.

Alderman William Ahrens declined to comment, and said he didn't feel the need to comment since the city "hasn't been given a fair shake by the newspaper in view of what the paper has been writing."

Other aldermen could not be reached. Machunze, who took the job as city manager in March of 1968, said in his resignation, "It is with regret that I am being forced to resign. Unfortunately, the whole process of my removal has been conducted without giving me a chance to answer any of the objections the individual elected officials may have had to my actions."

His letter continues, "I feel that over this past year the concept of a professional general administrator as established by ordinance, was not given a fair trial. Thus, the authority and responsibilities due this position were not honored from the day I commenced work. This was quite clearly a direct violation of the concepts of the democratic process and an abrogation of the responsibilities delegated to the elected officials by the city of Rolling Meadows."

"THE INABILITY of a number of elected officials to understand the nature of political authority consistently thwarted my efforts to establish innumerable acceptable administrative procedures that are recognized in both private and public organizations."

"This situation will prevent the ability of the various municipal functions to execute their responsibilities effectively on a continuing basis."

Machunze has no plans at the present for what he will do.

A special meeting will be called next Tuesday to decide what the council will do, said Meyer. He said they had no plans for new manager yet, and might consider a different form of government without a city manager.

Rolling Meadows first instituted the city manager form of government in January, 1967, when R. D. Heninger was named the first city manager.

Heninger was comptroller before his promotion to city manager. Machunze succeeded him as Rolling Meadows' second city manager.

MACHUNZE GOT his bachelor's degree in political science from Whittier College, and earned his master's degree in public administration from the University of Kansas.

He interned as an administrative assistant in Winnetka. He wrote his master's thesis on inter municipal co-operation between cities and municipalities of north Cook County.

Before taking the city manager job, Machunze, 28, was a budget analysis officer for the State of Kansas.

Youth Drowns in Lake

A Rolling Meadows youth drowned Wednesday while playing with friends in a lake at Holiday Park, north of Grayslake in Lake County, the Lake County coroner said.

Larry Grieshaber, 14, of 3203 Thrust Lane, was playing in Druce Lake when he lost his footing and plunged into the water, Lake County police said.

The accident occurred about noon and police said a Fox Lake rescue unit was administering mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to Grieshaber when they arrived.

Lifeguards at the lake pulled the teenager's body from the water and treated him before the rescue unit arrived.

POLICE SAID the body was recovered from eight feet of water. Grieshaber was pronounced dead on arrival at Hampshire Funeral Home in Fox Lake.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Val Grieshaber. Grieshaber is an assembly for an electrical company in Chicago.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Delay Discussion On Use of Land

Discussion of an agreement between Dist. 23 and the Prospect Heights Park District on mutual land use was postponed at Monday's park district meeting.

Park commissioners decided to postpone the discussion until a committee formulates more specific plans for the mutual use of land by the park district and the school district.

Originally, the park-school agreement, which would allow mutual use of facilities, "was drawn up broad in scope," according to John Haas, park district attorney.

"Unless we come up with a plan of what we want to use the land for, the plan is insignificant," Haas said. "We have to know what the park district wants and then decide what we're willing to give the school district," he added.

Race Against Deadline

by JOAN KLUSSMANN

Clusters of classrooms in hexagonal design are rapidly taking shape on north Arlington Heights Road as workmen race against a back-to-school deadline.

This week, as painters covered the new walls, of Rand Junior High School, staff members planned programs and schedules designed to give each student a chance to shine as an individual.

Dr. Todd Fouty, director of junior high school education for School Dist. 23, says that teachers at Rand will be faced with making decisions they have never had to think about in the past. They will have to take a hard look at class schedules and decide who will profit from more algebraic equations and which student will fare better working on his own.

FOUTY STRESSES that "there is no magic in the 45-minute mathematics or science period" and that varying time allotments are necessary for students who differ widely in interest and ability.

While teachers in other schools usually meet in mathematics or English department sessions, the Rand staff will work in grade-level teams. Primary purpose of the switch is to encourage teachers to thrash out problems of the students during planning hours, rather than to emphasize subject matter.

Fouty, formerly a principal at South Junior High School, says the system should allow principal and assistant principal to get more involved in teacher discussions. "I know I could make a greater contribution in talks about the kids and their needs than I could to a discussion of new math concepts."

WHEN A STUDENT'S interests and strong points are known, the Rand staff hopes to give everyone an opportunity to succeed at something and to spark a thirst for future learning. Principal James Riebeck, equating Fouty in enthusiasm and hope for the coming year, lauds the success theory. "When a child receives satisfaction from a task accomplished well, he is, in turn, more motivated for the next challenge."

In an effort to have a glimmer of student interests in advance, the staff has contacted parents and teachers of incoming sixth-grade students. Questions center on what the child can do well, what he likes to do the most and how he learns the best.

TEACHERS AT THE new school are "volunteers." During the year Fouty talked to staff members describing plans for Rand and asking those interested in the venture to get in touch with him. The staff this year will include 26 teachers, a learning specialist, and librarian. Three "paraprofessionals," who will work with small groups of children under teacher guidance, were also employed recently.

The hub of activity is expected to be the library material center, a huge hexagon which will also house tapes, records and other tools designed for self-teaching. Three smaller hexagons for classrooms branch out from the library center, with two more clusters slated for future building.

THIS YEAR students will use one cluster for social studies and a second for language arts. The third and largest will serve mathematics and science needs. A long corridor leading from the library center goes to the lunch room, gymnasium, home economics and shop sections. In the second phase of the building program, a large gym-auditorium, kitchen and cafeteria will be added.

Schedules are set so teachers will have time for team planning while the youngsters are at the other end of the building in gym or shop.

To encourage innovation in teaching methods, classrooms are physically flexible. Rooms will have no doors but will open into a small learning center serving all classes in the cluster. Removable partitions separating the classrooms are chest high and, when standing, a teacher may supervise activities in two places at once.

The learning centers may be used for small groups of students working on similar activities but their precise use will emerge as time and experimentation go by.

ON OPENING DAY one cluster will not be fully completed. The five rooms were included in original plans for the school but spiraling costs forced board members to eliminate the section to remain within the budget. Resident approved a new building program this March and negotiations were quickly made for the additional construction.

Students entering junior high school for the first time all require a period of adjustment to a new way of life, and pupils entering Rand this fall will also have to cope with last minute construction and temporary "make do" conditions. But the atmosphere of accentuating the positive in each child should help make the adjustment a pleasant one.

Rand innovations will also set the pace for future district activities. While some of the new features will be tried in other schools this year, others will be incorporated as their success is proven in the new school.

Buffalo Grove Boys To See Mighty Cubs

Boys participating in Buffalo Grove Recreation Association baseball will attend a Cubs' baseball game Aug. 19. Tickets at $2 each which included transportation are available from Bob Dinschel, 692 Hickory.

The B.G.R.A.'s annual managers', coaches', and impires', softball game will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at St. Mary's field.

The association will meet at 8 p.m. at Bill's Buffalo House Aug. 13 to discuss future plans including children's bowling and football programs and a nominating committee for officer elections.

Belnap Report Due

The long-awaited Belnap Report, a comprehensive survey of all aspects of education in School Dist. 23, will be presented at the Sept. 8 board meeting.

Melius Is Named Head Of MacArthur Science

LeRoy Melius was appointed chairman of the science department at MacArthur Junior High School Monday night by the Dist. 23 School Board.

Melius is returning to teaching duties in the district this fall after taking a leave of absence for the 1968-69 school year. During that time he taught school in Germany.

Prior to taking a leave of absence, Melius taught in the Prospect Heights school system for nine years.

In other action, the board appointed 15 teachers to positions in Dist. 23 and accepted the resignations of four teachers.

Belnap will attend the Sept. 8 board meeting to read his report and discuss it with board members and administrators.

Included in the report will be a study of enrollment, finances, building, curriculum, administration and related aspects of Dist. 23. Also included will be a projection of the future needs of the district.

"The Belnap report will tell us what we have and what we can do to improve our system," explained Dist. 23 Superintendent Edward Grodsky.

Two Schools Are on Time

Dist. 15's two new elementary schools, Hunting Ridge and Lake Louise, will open their doors to students the first day of school Sept. 2, the school board was told Wednesday night by Richard Kiendl, general contractor for the schools.

Kiendl said Hunting Ridge school will be completed with the exception of the ceiling in the office area. Lake Louise, where construction began in February, will have classrooms and the main hallway completed, but not the office area or the gymnasium.

School administrators will be able to begin moving furniture, supplies and equipment into Hunting Ridge Aug. 25 and Lake Louise Aug. 30. Because of the tight construction schedule, kindergarten children and new students to the district who will attend Hunting Ridge school will register at Pleasant Hill school Aug. 21.

Those from Lake Louise will register at Virginia Lake School and will go to Virginia Lake for book rental day Aug. 28.

"SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS will cooperate in every way to give the contractor as much time as possible in the schools before the opening day," Supt. E.S. Castor said. "We've moved in like this before, so I know the situation will be temporary."

Kiendl told the board that his work in the schools will be completed by Sept. 12. "We have had crews in there six days a week to complete the projects," he said. Adverse weather conditions since the Lake Louise school was started have slowed construction. "We couldn't get our trucks onto the site with all the mud," Kiendl said.

Apparently an equipment breakdown in the factory supplying ceiling tile has contributed to delayed completion of the schools.

"WE HAVE ALSO had to carry supplies by hand about half a block to the Lake Louise school because the builder has not completed installation of the street," Kiendl said.

Crews are beginning to clean up outside areas so playgrounds can be finished before school starts. The board directed Bill Tremelling, assistant business manager, to advertise for bids to blacktop service driveways and playgrounds so they will be completed before school opens.

SEWERS FOR BOTH schools are expected to be connected by Aug. 18 and electrical power installed in Lake Louise Aug. 20. Hunting Ridge already has electrical power.

Neither school has permanent telephone lines installed. "We have been working on this all summer," Castor said. "We will have to put phone lines into the schools when school opens."

Sidewalks to the school entrances will be poured next week. Those along Illinois Avenue near Hunting Ridge will also be finished when school starts.

"We will be most grateful to have the classrooms even though we won't have office area," Castor said. "Teacher orientation and book rental days will be adjusted to allow the contractor as much time as possible. Teachers for Lake Louise will be at Virginia Lake School for book rental day."

School administrators are expecting to spend the Labor Day weekend cleaning Lake Louise School and moving furniture in. "We may have to go back the weekend after school begins to clean and wax floors," Tremelling said.

Hunting Ridge should be cleaned up and ready for book rental day Aug. 28.

Tax Decrease Aids Citizens

Rolling Meadows residents won't have to pay as much next year to keep city operations going.

The effect to homeowners of the estimated tax rate decrease will amount to about $2, city Mgr. Gary Machunze said. Machunze's resignation, which was requested, is effective today.

If a homeowners tax bill is approximately $300, about $25 goes to the city, he said. The rest is for schools and other governments.

Although sales tax receipts skyrocketed this year and city officials discussed the possibility of not levying a tax, other factors make the levy necessary.

Machunze said the tax rate in Rolling Meadows has been stabilized over the years, so no extreme variations will occur in the tax rate.

Machunze said the city council is thinking of ways to return the savings to the taxpayer in other ways than a reduced tax rate.

THIS MIGHT show up in a reduced garbage collection fee or for other services.

He said the city can't count on the increased sales returns. At this time the city has no indication of how long the payments will continue.

Increase in sales tax is due to an unknown business in Rolling Meadows paying back taxes to the state.

A levy of $249,118 was presented to the city council at Tuesday's meeting. Last year's levy was $241,216 with a tax rate of .398 established.

A tax rate of .354 is anticipated to be set for next year's levy, Machunze said. This is based on an estimated increase in assessed valuation of six million, bringing the total to 67 million.

THE CITY BUDGET includes the library budget. The major part of the budget goes for the police, he said.

The balance of the 1.3 million budget is made up of revenue collected by the city, fees and motor fuel tax for example.

A total budget of $1,268,767 was adopted for the last fiscal year. Earlier this year, lower estimates of the tax rate were made due to escalating revenue from sales tax and building permits, and rising assessed valuation of the city.

The sun was hot, the dogs were panting and uneasy but from the showmanship of the kids holding leads of 50 family pets entered in the Palatine Park District dog show, you might have thought it was the most important pedigree dog show in the country.

According to the rules, each pet had to be cleaned and groomed and under control on a lead. There was only one incident where two of the "untrained" dogs didn't follow their masters' instructions.

But they were as proud of their dogs as any master could be of his show dog. During the judging of best groomed dog, one of the judges asked Susan Westhusing why her 8-month-old dachshund Fritzie was so shiny.

"He lies in the sun all the time," she said.

Kathryn Barrett was showing her family's dog, Laddie, an English setter. Laddie has hayfever and doesn't get outside much, but he was patiently waiting for the judging to end.

Joan Vesely gives her two-and-a-half year-old schnauzer, Tina, a shower rather than a bath because it's easier. And Bruno, the black great dane who won Best of Show, bounded out of the ring with mistress Sue Shayne in tow. It was the first time she had won a prize showing their pedigree dog.

For those who placed first, second, or third in the five categories, there was a Ken-L Ration T-shirt and a ribbon.

First place also received a pen and pencil set from the co-sponsors of the show, Quaker Oats and the Palatine Jewel-Osco store.

Joan Greco, Cory Lestina and Joan Vesely had pets which won the top three places in the best groomed contest.

Marcy Pease, Sue Shayne, and Barbara Winthrow had the largest dogs in the show, two great danes and a St. Bernard.

Bill Stevenson's four and one-half pound white poodle was the smallest dog, though Diane Honeyek's chihuahua and Candi Preston's poodles came close.

A fireman's hat on the head of his bas-sett sitting in a wagon won Cory Lestina the best costumed award. Beverly Henne's schnauzer wore a hand sewn ruffe and a hat for second place, and Linda Zbiegien's pet wore a satin cape in third place.

Jumping through a hoop won John Gieske's poodle first place in the best trick contest, Nancy Hagan and Kevin Murray placed second and third.

Ouster Asked

Parents from four Northwest suburban Head Start centers presented a petition Wednesday night to Norwesco. In the petition parents asked that the Head Start contract be taken from Norwesco and be made a contract in itself.

Parents also requested that David Fankhauser, director of the four Head Start centers, be removed from his position. They also requested that Mrs. Dorothy Adams be re-employed as a teacher in the Arlington Heights Head Start Center.

FINALLY, THEY requested that Alice Payne be removed as teacher at the Palatine Head Start Center.

Accompanying the petition was a letter to Mrs. Jane Broten, Norwesco president, saying, "We as parents in Head Start are dissatisfied with the program as it exists now. Our participation was requested and then ignored and information regarding what our participation consists of was never properly given."

A meeting between Norwesco board members and general members of Norwesco and parents on the advisory committee at the four centers was scheduled last night at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows to discuss the matter further.

They are also requesting that funding for the program be channeled through an agency other than Norwesco.

The controversy arose last week over a dispute between Fankhauser and Mrs. Dorothy Adams, Head Start teacher at the Southminster United Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Adams, Fankhauser asked her to quit her job if she would not confine her activities to teaching the children. Mrs. Adams said Fankhauser further requested her to refrain from contact with Head Start parents and stop attending Norwesco meetings.

Mrs. Adams said it would be impossible for her to meet these conditions.

Head Start parents, acting in support of Mrs. Adams, have boycotted Head Start classes in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Wheeling this week.

Gleich Issue in Stalemate

With a request still pending from a private utility company for permission to serve the 66-acre Elmer Gleich property in Palatine Township, formal plans for the $12 million project remain at a standstill.

For almost a year now, Ray DiVito of Ferndale Heights Utility Co., has been waiting for a "certificate of convenience" from the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) in order to serve the property.

Based on the belief that Palatine public utilities could better serve the property, village officials have attempted to block the certification.

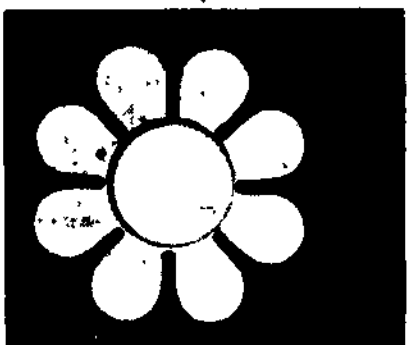

THE VILLAGE'S MOST recent gain came last week when the ICC hearing was continued until September.

Not only utilities, but rezoning of the property at Baldwin, Hicks and Northwest Highway were necessary before Gleich could begin work on his proposed project of apartments, offices and homes.

Since May of 1968, he has worked to obtain rezoning of the land which presently is a nine-hole golf course.

After several delays and the disappearance of Palatine's official objection to rezoning, the Cook County Board of Supervisors granted the necessary zoning change in June.

IN THE MEANTIME, Gleich presented a petition for annexation to Palatine. Now, whether the project is built within Palatine's boundaries, the local developer is concerned about water and sewer facilities.

Peace Talks 'Dimmed'

PARIS — The United States and South Vietnam declared at yesterday's session of the peace talks that current military attacks by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have dimmed hopes for fruitful negotiations.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. negotiator, said the Communists have "been preparing systematically for a new offensive," while the United States is withdrawing 25,000 troops and contemplating additional withdrawals.

Barrington Cyclist Injured in Collision

An auto-motorcycle accident at Route 14 and Warren Avenue sent a Barrington youth to Northwest Community Hospital for treatment Tuesday night.

Gerald R. Smith, 19, was riding a motorcycle east on Route 14 at about 8 p.m. when a car driven by Thomas E. Sullivan, 16, Mount Prospect, pulled into the east-bound lane, Palatine police said. Smith was treated for lacerations and bruises at Northwest Community Hospital.

Sullivan was charged by police for entering a highway through a private drive and not yielding to traffic.

Sullivan and a passenger in his car, Ed Stow of Mount Prospect, were not injured.

Rolling Meadows) was approved by the board of education Wednesday night.

Because of heavy traffic, hazardous crossings, construction, high school buses and the lack of sidewalks, Walter Tinsley, director of transportation, recommended that transportation be provided to two areas bordering on Quentin Road near Hunting Ridge School.

He also recommended free busing for students living in an area bounded by Washington, Hellen, Plum Grove Road and Oak Street. These students were reassigned from Stuart Paddock School and will join pupils from surrounding areas who already are being transported to Pleasant Hill School.

FREE TRANSPORTATION is offered primarily because of hazardous walking conditions. However, busing for students living in the Winston Park Unit 6 area on the south side of Palatine Road was not discussed. Those pupils must cross the junior expressway at Winston or Windsor drives in order to attend classes at Winston Park or Virginia Lake Schools.

Areas near Hunting Ridge School which will receive free transportation are bounded by Palatine, Dorset and Quentin roads and Harrison Street. Another section includes boundaries of Hellen, Illinois and Quentin roads and Elm Street.

The board directed the transportation committee to study over-all policy concerning the busing of students who have been re-assigned to schools where walking paths are considered hazardous.

ROOST To Pick Candidate

by MARY REIPSCHNEIDER

The Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) will probably endorse a candidate for the vacancy on the Schaumburg Village Board.

The village has called an election to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of Trustee Wilfred Meyer for Oct. 7, the same date as the 13th District Republican primary.

Township Committeeman Donald Totten told the Herald Wednesday that the central committee voted "overwhelmingly" in favor of screening potential candidates and making an endorsement at a meeting Monday.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher, also a ROOST member, said, "I wouldn't be surprised if it happens. I don't think there would be too much resistance to the idea."

THIS MARKS THE first time that ROOST has formally entered Schaumburg village politics. A ROOST picked slate of candidates was easily elected in April in the Hoffman Estates election.

Totten said mechanics for the interviews have not been established but ROOST will probably follow the pattern used before the Hoffman Estates election.

Totten said persons interested in being interviewed may contact him.

The interviews will be conducted by members of the organization and elected members of the Schaumburg Village Board, Totten said.

"This should spark the race," Totten said.

He added that "this doesn't preclude that we'll do anything in Schaumburg's 1971 election."

Atcher said if the national party becomes involved, there "still won't be the use of the party name. The activity will be of an endorsement nature, not selection," he said.

ATCHER SAID THE entire village board are Trustees Raymond Kessell,

Donald De Vale, Gordon Mullins, Mathew Helsper and James Guthrie, Village Clerk Sandy Carsello and Atcher.

Atcher said ROOST members who sit in on interviews, should be limited to Schaumburg precinct captains, excluding Hoffman Estates or Hanover Park precinct captains.

Atcher also noted that the entrance of national parties on the local scene might be inevitable. "As the village grows, it becomes more apparent that an independent candidate can't cover the whole area by himself, so organization becomes an important thing," he said.

In April, three trustee candidates backed by the village board ran unopposed. Atcher said there seems to be more interest in the vacancy this time.

"I THINK MANY are interested in running. Five people have come in to see me about it. I haven't told any of them I would endorse them," Atcher said.

He said all five were Republicans.

The person elected Oct. 7 will serve until April, 1971.

National parties have not endorsed candidates in Northwest suburban communities except for Hoffman Estates and Palatine. In both of those communities, Republican slates have been elected. Republican candidates endorsed by the Palatine Township organization were not elected in Rolling Meadows in April.

OK Harper Budget

Harper Junior College Board, all in one breath, approved the 1969-70 budget, moved into new quarters and approved a new three-year contract for college Pres. Robert Lahti last night.

The budget, which will require $2 million in tax funds for the educational and building funds, was passed unanimously by the board.

No members of the 15-man audience raised any objections to the budget.

The $2 million in tax funds represents only a portion of funds needed for Harper. About one third of Harper's money comes from state aid and another third comes from tuition.

BOARD MEMBERS THEN walked across the dark and nearly completed campus at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine to new quarters in the just-opened administration building.

Shortly after the second meeting had opened, Lahti was granted a three-year contract at $33,000 a year.

The vote was six to one with only Larry Moats, the newest and youngest member of the board, dissenting.

After the vote, Lahti thanked the board, said Harper is still a new and developing institution and said he will continue to devote his full efforts as many hours as necessary, to get the job done.

Moats said his dissenting vote did not represent a vote of no confidence, but meant he favors only a one-year contract.

SIX YEAR-OLD Lisa Steinken, 106 S. Elm St., participated in the Palatine Park District's summer ballet classes for 6 to 14-year-old children. Taught by Diane Rosendahl, the classes performed during the last class period this week for parents and friends.

Ouster Asked

Parents from four Northwest suburban Head Start centers presented a petition Wednesday night to Norwesco. In the petition parents asked that the Head Start contract be taken from Norwesco and be made a contract in itself.

Parents also requested that David Fankhauser, director of the four Head Start centers, be removed from his position. They also requested that Mrs. Dorothy Adams be re-employed as a teacher in the Arlington Heights Head Start Center.

FINALLY, THEY requested that Alice Payne be removed as teacher at the Palatine Head Start Center.

Accompanying the petition was a letter to Mrs. Jane Broten, Norwesco president, saying, "We as parents in Head Start are dissatisfied with the program as it exists now. Our participation was requested and then ignored and information regarding what our participation consists of was never properly given."

A meeting between Norwesco board members and general members of Norwesco and parents on the advisory committee at the four centers was scheduled last night at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows to discuss the matter further.

They are also requesting that funding for the program be channeled through an agency other than Norwesco.

The controversy arose last week over a dispute between Fankhauser and Mrs. Dorothy Adams, Head Start teacher at the Southminster United Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Adams, Fankhauser asked her to quit her job if she would not confine her activities to teaching the children. Mrs. Adams said Fankhauser further requested her to refrain from contact with Head Start parents and stop attending Norwesco meetings.

Mrs. Adams said it would be impossible for her to meet these conditions.

Head Start parents, acting in support of Mrs. Adams, have boycotted Head Start classes in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Wheeling this week.

Gleich Issue in Stalemate

With a request still pending from a private utility company for permission to serve the 66-acre Elmer Gleich property in Palatine Township, formal plans for the $12 million project remain at a standstill.

For almost a year now, Ray DiVito of Ferndale Heights Utility Co., has been waiting for a "certificate of convenience" from the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) in order to serve the property.

Based on the belief that Palatine public utilities could better serve the property, village officials have attempted to block the certification.

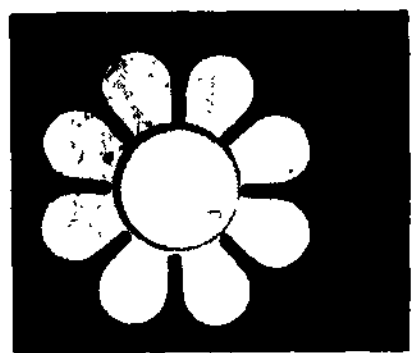

THE VILLAGE'S MOST recent gain came last week when the ICC hearing was continued until September.

Not only utilities, but rezoning of the property at Baldwin, Hicks and Northwest Highway were necessary before Gleich could begin work on his proposed project of apartments, offices and homes.

Since May of 1968, he has worked to obtain rezoning of the land which presently is a nine-hole golf course.

After several delays and the disappearance of Palatine's official objection to rezoning, the Cook County Board of Supervisors granted the necessary zoning change in June.

IN THE MEANTIME, Gleich presented a petition for annexation to Palatine. Now, whether the project is built within Palatine's boundaries, the local developer is concerned about water and sewer facilities.

Barrington Cyclist Injured in Collision

An auto-motorcycle accident at Route 14 and Warren Avenue sent a Barrington youth to Northwest Community Hospital for treatment Tuesday night.

Gerald R. Smith, 19, was riding a motorcycle east on Route 14 at about 8 p.m. when a car driven by Thomas E. Sullivan, 18, Mount Prospect, pulled into the east-bound lane. Palatine police said. Smith was treated for lacerations and bruises at Northwest Community Hospital.

Sullivan was charged by police for entering a highway through a private drive and not yielding to traffic.

Sullivan and a passenger in his car, 161 Stow of Mount Prospect, were not injured.

Rolling Meadows) was approved by the board of education Wednesday night.

Because of heavy traffic, hazardous crossings, construction, high school buses and the lack of sidewalks, Walter Tinsley, director of transportation, recommended that transportation be provided to two areas bordering on Quentin Road near Hunting Ridge School.

He also recommended free busing for students living in an area bounded by Washington, Hellen, Plum Grove Road and Oak Street. These students were reassigned from Stuart Paddock School and will join pupils from surrounding areas who already are being transported to Pleasant Hill School.

Areas near Hunting Ridge School which will receive free transportation are bounded by Palatine, Dorset and Quentin roads and Harrison Street. Another section includes boundaries of Hellen, Illinois and Quentin roads and Elm Street.

The board directed the transportation committee to study over-all policy concerning the busing of students who have been re-assigned to schools where walking paths are considered hazardous.

ROOST To Pick Candidate

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

The Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) will probably endorse a candidate for the vacancy on the Schaumburg Village Board.

The village has called an election to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of Trustee Wilfred Meyer for Oct. 7, the same date as the 13th District Republican primary.

Township Committeeman Donald Totten told the Herald Wednesday that the central committee voted "overwhelmingly" in favor of screening potential candidates and making an endorsement at a meeting Monday.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher, also a ROOST member, said, "I wouldn't be surprised if it happens. I don't think there would be too much resistance to the idea."

THIS MARKS THE first time that ROOST has formally entered Schaumburg village politics. A ROOST picked slate of candidates was easily elected in April in the Hoffman Estates election.

Totten said mechanics for the interviews have not been established but ROOST will probably follow the pattern used before the Hoffman Estates election.

Totten said persons interested in being interviewed may contact him.

The interviews will be conducted by members of the organization and elected members of the Schaumburg Village Board, Totten said.

"This should spark the race," Totten said.

He added that "this doesn't preclude that we'll do anything in Schaumburg's 1971 election."

Atcher said if the national party becomes involved, there "still won't be the use of the party name. The activity will be of an endorsement nature, not selection," he said.

ATCHER SAID THE entire village board are Trustees Raymond Kessel, Donald De Vale, Gordon Mullins, Mathew Helsper and James Guthrie, Village Clerk Sandy Carsello and Atcher.

Atcher said ROOST members who sit in on interviews, should be limited to Schaumburg precinct captains, excluding Hoffman Estates or Hanover Park precinct captains.

Atcher also noted that the entrance of national parties on the local scene might be inevitable. "As the village grows, it becomes more apparent that an independent candidate can't cover the whole area by himself, so organization becomes an important thing," he said.

In April, three trustee candidates backed by the village board ran unopposed. Atcher said there seems to be more interest in the vacancy this time.

"I THINK MANY are interested in running. Five people have come in to see me about it. I haven't told any of them I would endorse them," Atcher said.

He said all five were Republicans. The person elected Oct. 7 will serve until April 1971.

National parties have not endorsed candidates in Northwest suburban communities, except for Hoffman Estates and Palatine. In both of those communities, Republican slates have been elected. Republican candidates endorsed by the Palatine Township organization were not elected in Palatine in April.

OK Harper Budget

Harper Junior College Board, all in one breath, approved the 1969-70 budget, moved into new quarters and approved a new three-year contract for college Pres. Robert Lahti last night.

The budget, which will require $2 million in tax funds for the educational and building funds, was passed unanimously by the board.

No members of the 15-man audience raised any objections to the budget.

The $2 million in tax funds represents only a portion of funds needed for Harper. About one third of Harper's money comes from state aid and another third comes from tuition.

BOARD MEMBERS THEN walked across the dark and nearly completed campus at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine to new quarters in the just-opened administration building.

Shortly after the second meeting had opened, Lahti was granted a three-year contract at $33,000 a year.

The vote was six to one with only Larry Moats, the newest and youngest member of the board, dissenting.

After the vote, Lahti thanked the board, said Harper is still a new and developing institution and said he will continue to devote his full efforts as many hours as necessary, to get the job done.

Moats said his dissenting vote did not represent a vote of no confidence, but meant he favors only a one-year contract.

GOOD MORNING!

Buick Complaints Are Discussed

by GERRY DeZONNA

John Zimmerman, acting village manager, and John Mufich, owner of Mufich Buick on Rand Road in Mount Prospect, met yesterday to resolve neighbors' complaints that Mufich is not complying with the zoning variation on his property.

"John and I discussed all the complaints made by residents in the area, and these complaints are being taken care of by the village and Mufich Buick. John has always been very cooperative with village officials, and we're working out these problems as soon as possible," Zimmerman said.

Mrs. Caroline Hoppe, 106 E. Rand Road, presented a list of complaints to the village board Aug. 5 charging that Mufich is not complying with the zoning requirements.

ONE OF MRS. HOPPE'S complaints is that a six-foot fence which is to serve as a buffer zone between Mufich Buick and the residences on Henry and Lewis streets has not been rebuilt.

The fence toppled over during a heavy rainstorm June 26. The fence is now being rebuilt and it will be inspected, upon its completion by Bill McManamon, village engineer.

"The workmen are rebuilding the fence now. Mufich is just as concerned about mending the fence as the residents. If there is a day when the workmen cannot work on the fence, he phones me to reassure the village and residents that this is only a temporary halt in construction," Zimmerman said.

Mrs. Hoppe, the spokesman for the unhappy neighbors, also told the village board that Mufich has permitted truck traffic on residential streets and the delivery of car shipments in the early morning.

"WE DISCUSSED the truck traffic problem on Henry and Lewis streets, and this is a problem that the village must solve. The village must solve. I'm going to recommend to the board that the village erect signs on Henry Street between Lewis Street and Rand Road to prohibit all trucks from parking or stopping on that street."

"Part of the problem is that the truck drivers work for independent transporting companies. They're not employed by Mufich or General Motors, so John can't handle the problem by himself. Also, deliveries are not made by the same truck drivers and each time a new driver delivers a shipment he just parks wherever he finds a spot. He's not familiar with Mufich Buick or the area," Zimmerman said.

Mufich told Zimmerman that he's been trying to control the truck traffic on the residential streets and it's been two or three weeks since there's been trouble. Mufich agreed that signs posted by the village would help control the problem.

Residents are also complaining that Mufich leaves the parking lot lights on all night, which they say is a nuisance to them because their houses and yards are bathed in brilliance late at night. They charged that Mufich had promised to install non-glare parking lights, which was not done.

THE VILLAGE BOARD will have to discuss the problem with the parking lights and the type of lights used on the lot. I don't know if the lights are non-glare or minimum glare. This is something which will have to be discussed by the board and the engineer," he said.

Zimmerman will report to the board on his meeting with Mufich and recommend that village officials and Mufich cooperate in solving the complaints.

"John's always been very cooperative with the board and I don't see any problems for resolving this issue. We want to get the situation cleared up as soon as possible for everyone's benefit," Zimmerman said.

The next village board meeting is scheduled for Aug. 19.

Ask Dismissal Motive

The director of four local Head Start centers was forced last night by parents of children in the program to explain his reasons for dismissing a teacher from the Arlington Heights center.

The explanation was given at a meeting of Norwesco board members and parents on the advisory committees of the four centers.

David Fankhauser, the director, said the reasons primarily concerned the alleged refusal of Mrs. Dorothy Adams, the dismissed teacher, to follow supervision.

"Mrs. Adams will not accept supervision, is disrespectful of people in the program and tends to lead people in the program rather than guide them," said Fankhauser.

The parents feel that Mrs. Adams is a fine teacher who has presented their feelings and they have petitioned to Norwesco for Fankhauser's dismissal.

The parents also listed what they consider shortcomings of the Head Start program. Their complaints centered around the lack of participation they were allowed in the program.

In addition, they said that if the program is short on funds to run the school, discussion of the purchase of a station wagon was inappropriate. There were also complaints that the discipline in the classes is too strict.

The parents of the children in Head Start classes in four suburban locations decided Monday night to present their petition directly to Norwesco Wednesday instead of their original plan to go to the CCOEO, which provides funds to Norwesco.

In their petition the parents demand that funding for the children's educational program be switched from Norwesco to another agency, and that David Fankhauser be removed from his post as Head Start director.

They also request that an Arlington

Heights teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Adams, be allowed to stay in her position with "no strings attached."

THE "STRINGS" ARE limitations put on Mrs. Adams' activities last week by Fankhauser. He said she must confine her activities to the classroom, refrain from all contact with parents, and stay away

Seek Boycott Aid

More than 50 persons from six suburban communities gathered at St. John's Church in Arlington Heights last night to hear proponents of the nationwide grape boycott call for community action against local food stores.

Leading the discussion were the Rev. Robert Kolze of the National Council of Churches; Mrs. Lynn Heidt, local activist in the boycott; and Elisemo Medino, Chicago area coordinator for the California grape pickers.

Medino told his audience about the plight of the American farm worker, his lack of compensation and his susceptibility to large farm corporations.

"The farm worker is still living in the 1930s," Medino said. "But we are here not to cry but to tell you about it."

"IN MEXICO THEY HAVE a saying, 'You don't have to worry about falling off the bed if you sleep on the floor.'"

"We have nothing to lose," Medino said. "We want to be treated not as animals off the farms but as people."

The Chicago coordinator told the audience that the Department of Defense and the federal government as a whole contribute to the unfair practices against California grape pickers.

According to Medino, in 1969 four million pounds of grapes were purchased by federal agencies, a major portion for shipment to forces overseas.

Medino also charged that farm workers are suffering from the effects of pesticides, which cause sores and possibly cancer.

"The governors of the Great Lakes states talked about pesticides killing Coho Salmon," Medino said. "When did they talk about the people?"

THE ACTIVIST THEN turned to the question of local boycotts against supermarkets. Medino said that the boycott will continue against the Jewel Food Stores because Jewel controls 40 per cent of all retail food sales in the Chicago area.

A resident of Mount Prospect told the group that local stores "get shaken," when customers pledge to take their business elsewhere.

Representatives from Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Schaumburg all said they would continue to remain active in the boycott.

At the close of the meeting members of the audience broke into groups representing their own suburbs and made attempts to continue plans to support the boycott.

In a last-minute plea for support Rev. Kolze told the audience that the National from Norwesco board meetings.

Mrs. Adams maintains that these conditions on her employment are "impossible," and will force her to leave.

When parents heard of the potential resignation Monday, they agreed to boycott Head Start classes this week and to petition for the changes.

Bands, Clowns At Randhurst

by BRAD BREKKE

As you entered the mall, you could hear a big brass band and the rolling of drums that sounded like your stomach at 3 a.m.

A little further in, clowns could be seen smiling from behind a mask of greasepaint that not even Barnum and Bailey's spotlight could penetrate, handing out laughs and helium-filled balloons to the kids, who kicked their heels and dragged their moms along to see the show.

The show was a miniature circus held in the Randhurst mall to celebrate the shopping center's seventh anniversary.

Apparently, quite a few grandmas were babysitting yesterday, and while the babies were watching the tight-rope walkers, acrobats, and stuffing popcorn into their mouths, they took time out to rest on a bench and watch the crowd.

THE UPSTAIRS hallway in the mall was packed, with mothers and youngsters hanging over every available railing space to see the show. Balloons were dangling from the ceiling while janitors swept through the crowd, dancing to the music, with their large brooms.

They wore all manners of dress, from mod to hippie, grubby to casual, with a healthy amount of Madison Avenue types sprinkled in. The older kids wore shorts, sandals and sweatshirts.

"Hey ma, can I have some cotton candy?"

"Watch out you don't fall over the railing, Tommy."

"All hold hands now kids, so we don't get separated in this crowd."

"Wow, did you see that, a double flip onto a little stool."

THE CIRCUS marked the opening of Randhurst's nine-day celebration, during which circus coloring books will be given to each child.

Circus acts will perform in the mall during the celebration at 10:30 a.m., 3 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Performances tomorrow will be 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., with no Sunday performance.

ONE-YEAR OLD ELSIE Valdez, daughter of Mrs. Gloria Valdez, of Palatine, fell fast asleep yesterday in a shopping cart after she visited with the clowns and saw a miniature circus at Randhurst's seventh birthday celebration, which will run through Aug. 22.

Call Meeting On Pool Plans

River Trails Park Board met last night to discuss plans for the Aug. 23 swimming pool referendum and opened bids for the administrative and recreation building to be located at Burning Bush Park.

A public meeting will be held at River Trails Junior High School Tuesday at 8 p.m. to display pool plans and to answer any questions. Park board members and Marvin Weiss, park director will be at the meeting.

The total of the low bids for the proposed building is about $5,000 more than the architect's estimate of building cost.

The low bid of eight general contractors was Aspen Enterprises with a bid of $59,874. The low heating bid came from North Lake Engineering for $8,800. Low bidding in the plumbing department was from Phillips Co. for $10,365.

Two low bidders are contending for the electrical contract with the option of overhead or under ground installation.

Thorne Electric's basic bid on the electrical work was $5,953 with an additional $259 for the underground work. M&M of Skokie would charge $5,313 for the initial work, but an additional $1,397 to complete the underground service.

The low general contractor believes he can complete the work in 120 days.

All the bids will be reviewed before considering changes in building plans that would reduce construction cost.

Day for the Dogs

JUDY BRANDES

The sun was hot, the dogs were panting and uneasy but from the showmanship of the kids holding leads of 50 family pets entered in the Palatine Park District dog show, you might have thought it was the most important pedigree dog show in the country.

According to the rules, each pet had to be cleaned and groomed and under control on a lead. There was only one incident where two of the "untrained" dogs didn't follow their masters' instructions.

But they were as proud of their dogs as any master could be of his show dog. During the judging of best groomed dog, one of the judges asked Susan Westhusing why her 8-month-old dachshund Fritz was so shiny.

"He lies in the sun all the time," she said.

Kathryn Barrett was showing her family's dog, Laddie, an English setter. Laddie has hayfever and doesn't get outside much, but he was patiently waiting for the judging to end.

Joan Vesely gives her two-and-a-half year-old schnauzer, Tina, a shower rather than a bath because it's easier. And Bruno, the black great dane who won Best of Show, bounded out of the ring with mistress Sue Shayne in tow. It was the first time she had won a prize showing their pedigree dog.

For those who placed first, second, or third in the five categories, there was a Ken-L Ration T-shirt and a ribbon.

First place also received a pen and pencil set from the co-sponsors of the show, Quaker Oats and the Palatine Jewel-Osco store.

Joan Greco, Cory Lestina and Joan Vesely had pets which won the top three places in the best groomed contest.

Marcy Pease, Sue Shayne, and Barbara Winthrop had the largest dogs in the show, two great danes and a St. Bernard. Bill Stevenson's four and one-half pound white poodle was the smallest dog, though Diane Homeyck's chihuahua and Candi Preston's poodles came close.

A fireman's hat on the head of his bas-sett sitting in a wagon won Cory Lestina the best costumed award. Beverly Henne's schnauzer wore a hand sewn ruffle and a hat for second place, and Linda Ziegler's pet wore a satin cape in third place.

Jumping through a hoop won John Giescke's poodle first place in the best trick contest. Nancy Hagan and Kevin Murray placed second and third.

FROM UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Russ: U.S. Gloating

MOSCOW — A Soviet newspaper charged yesterday that the United States is gloating over hostilities between Russia and Communist China, manifested in another border clash this week in which both sides suffered casualties.

A Soviet provincial official called for new civil defense laws to protect Russia in case of war.

Troops in N. Ireland

LONDON — Hundreds of British troops moved into Londonderry, Northern Ireland, yesterday to help stem three days of religious rioting that was pushing Northern Ireland toward civil war.

In the capital of Belfast new violence was reported, including shooting and fire-bombing. The Belfast rioting started between Protestants and Roman Catholics shortly after 11 p.m. when the bars closed.

Czech Army Readied

PRAGUE — The government of Czechoslovakia, calling the political situation "grave," announced yesterday it had called out the army and the Peoples Militia to quell any demonstration on the first anniversary of the Soviet invasion, Aug. 20-21.

Never before have authorities announced in advance that the army and militia would stand by during a crisis.

Peace Talks 'Dimmed'

PARIS — The United States and South Vietnam declared at yesterday's session of the peace talks that current military attacks by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have dimmed hopes for fruitful negotiations.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. negotiator, said the Communists have "been preparing systematically for a new offensive," while the United States is withdrawing 25,000 troops and contemplating additional withdrawals.

Buick Complaints Are Discussed

by GERRY DEZONNA

John Zimmerman, acting village manager, and John Mufich, owner of Mufich Buick on Rand Road in Mount Prospect, met yesterday to resolve neighbors' complaints that Mufich is not complying with the zoning variation on his property.

"John and I discussed all the complaints made by residents in the area, and these complaints are being taken care of by the village and Mufich Buick. John has always been very cooperative with village officials, and we're working out these problems as soon as possible," Zimmerman said.

Mrs. Caroline Hoppe, 108 E. Rand Road, presented a list of complaints to the village board Aug. 5 charging that Mufich is not complying with the zoning requirements.

ONE OF MRS. HOPPE'S complaints is that a six-foot fence which is to serve as a buffer zone between Mufich Buick and the residences on Henry and Lewis streets has not been rebuilt.

The fence toppled over during a heavy rainstorm June 26. The fence is now being rebuilt and it will be inspected, upon its completion by Bill McManamon, village engineer.

"The workmen are rebuilding the fence now. Mufich is just as concerned about mending the fence as the residents. If there is a day when the workmen cannot work on the fence, he phones me to reassure the village and residents that this is only a temporary halt in construction," Zimmerman said.

Mrs. Hoppe, the spokesman for the unhappy neighbors, also told the village board that Mufich has permitted truck traffic on residential streets and the delivery of car shipments in the early morning.

"WE DISCUSSED the truck traffic problem on Henry and Lewis streets, and this is a problem that the village must solve. The village must solve. I'm going to recommend to the board that the village erect signs on Henry Street between Lewis Street and Rand Road to prohibit all trucks from parking or stopping on that street.

"Part of the problem is that the truck drivers work for independent transporting companies. They're not employed by Mufich or General Motors, so John can't handle the problem by himself. Also, deliveries are not made by the same truck drivers and each time a new driver delivers a shipment he just parks wherever he finds a spot. He's not familiar with Mufich Buick or the area," Zimmerman said.

Mufich told Zimmerman that he's been trying to control the truck traffic on the residential streets and it's been two or three weeks since there's been trouble. Mufich agreed that signs posted by the village would help control the problem.

Residents are also complaining that Mufich leaves the parking lot lights on all night, which they say is a nuisance to them because their houses and yards are bathed in brilliance late at night. They charged that Mufich had promised to install non-glare parking lights, which was not done.

THE VILLAGE BOARD will have to discuss the problem with the parking lights and the type of lights used on the lot. I don't know if the lights are non-glare or minimum glare. This is something which will have to be discussed by the board and the engineer," he said.

Zimmerman will report to the board on his meeting with Mufich and recommend that village officials and Mufich cooperate in solving the complaints.

"John's always been very cooperative with the board and I don't see any problems for resolving this issue. We want to get the situation cleared up as soon as possible for everyone's benefit," Zimmerman said.

The next village board meeting is scheduled for Aug. 19.

Ask Dismissal Motive

The director of four local Head Start centers was forced last night by parents of children in the program to explain his reasons for dismissing a teacher from the Arlington Heights center.

The explanation was given at a meeting of Norwesco board members and parents on the advisory committees of the four centers.

David Fankhauser, the director, said the reasons primarily concerned the alleged refusal of Mrs. Dorothy Adams, the dismissed teacher, to follow supervision.

"Mrs. Adams will not accept supervision, is disrespectful of people in the program and tends to lead people in the program rather than guide them," said Fankhauser.

The parents feel that Mrs. Adams is a fine teacher who has presented their feelings and they have petitioned to Norwesco for Fankhauser's dismissal.

The parents also listed what they consider shortcomings of the Head Start program. Their complaints centered around the lack of participation they were allowed in the program.

In addition, they said that if the program is short on funds to run the school, discussion of the purchase of a station wagon was inappropriate. There were also complaints that the discipline in the classes is too strict.

The parents of the children in Head Start classes in four suburban locations decided Monday night to present their petition directly to Norwesco Wednesday instead of their original plan to go to the CCEO, which provides funds to Norwesco.

In their petition the parents demand that funding for the children's educational program be switched from Norwesco to another agency, and that David Fankhauser be removed from his post as Head Start director.

They also request that an Arlington

Heights teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Adams, be allowed to stay in her position with "no strings attached."

THE "STRINGS" ARE limitations put on Mrs. Adams' activities last week by Fankhauser. He said she must confine her activities to the classroom, refrain from all contact with parents, and stay away from Norwesco board meetings.

Mrs. Adams maintains that these conditions on her employment are "impossible," and will force her to leave.

When parents heard of the potential resignation Monday, they agreed to boycott Head Start classes this week and to petition for the changes.

Seek Boycott Aid

More than 50 persons from six suburban communities gathered at St. John's Church in Arlington Heights last night to hear proponents of the nationwide grape boycott call for community action against local food stores.

Leading the discussion were the Rev. Robert Kolze of the National Council of Churches; Mrs. Lynn Heidt, local activist in the boycott; and Eliseo Medino, Chicago area coordinator for the California grape pickers.

Medino told his audience about the plight of the American farm worker, his lack of compensation and his susceptibility to large farm corporations.

"The farm worker is still living in the 1930s," Medino said. "But we are here not to cry but to tell you about it."

"IN MEXICO THEY HAVE a saying, 'You don't have to worry about falling off the bed if you sleep on the floor.'"

"We have nothing to lose," Medino said. "We want to be treated not as animals off the farms but as people."

The Chicago coordinator told the audience that the Department of Defense and the federal government as a whole contribute to the unfair practices against California grape pickers.

According to Medino, in 1968 four million pounds of grapes were purchased by federal agencies, a major portion for shipment to forces overseas.

Medino also charged that farm workers are suffering from the effects of pesticides, which cause sores and possibly cancer.

"The governors of the Great Lakes states talked about pesticides killing Cobo Salmon," Medino said. "When did they talk about the people?"

THE ACTIVIST THEN turned to the question of local boycotts against supermarkets. Medino said that the boycott will continue against the Jewel Food Stores because Jewel controls 40 per cent of all retail food sales in the Chicago area.

A resident of Mount Prospect told the group that local stores "get shaken," when customers pledge to take their business elsewhere.

Representatives from Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Schaumburg all said they would continue to remain active in the boycott.

At the close of the meeting members of the audience broke into groups representing their own suburbs and made attempts to continue plans to support the boycott.

In a last-minute plea for support Rev. Kolze told the audience that the National Council of Churches has taken action in support of the boycott. "This is a history making epoch," Kolze said. "You have a chance to make history."

Bands, Clowns At Randhurst

by BRAD BRENKE

As you entered the mall, you could hear a big brass band and the rolling of drums that sounded like your stomach at 3 a.m.

A little further in, clowns could be seen smiling from behind a mask of greasepaint that not even Barnum and Bailey's spotlight could penetrate, handing out laughs and helium-filled balloons to the kids, who kicked their heels and dragged their moms along to see the show.

The show was a miniature circus held in the Randhurst mall to celebrate the shopping center's seventh anniversary.

Apparently, quite a few grandmas were babysitting yesterday, and while the babies were watching the tight-rope walkers, acrobats, and stuffing popcorn into their mouths, they took time out to rest on a bench and watch the crowd.

THE UPSTAIRS hallway in the mall was packed, with mothers and youngsters hanging over every available railing space to see the show. Balloons were dangling from the ceiling while janitors swept through the crowd, dancing to the music, with their large brooms.

They wore all manners of dress, from mod to hippie, grubby to casual, with a healthy amount of Madison Avenue types sprinkled in. The older kids wore shorts, sandals and sweatshirts.

"Hey ma, can I have some cotton candy?"

"Watch out you don't fall over the railing, Tommy."

"All hold hands now kids, so we don't get separated in this crowd."

"Wow, did you see that, a double flip onto a little stool."

THE CIRCUS marked the opening of Randhurst's nine-day celebration, during which circus coloring books will be given to each child.

Circus acts will perform in the mall during the celebration at 10:30 a.m., 3 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Performances tomorrow will be 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., with no Sunday performance.

ONE-YEAR OLD ELSIE Valdez, daughter of Mrs. Gloria Valdez, of Palatine, fell fast asleep yesterday in a shopping cart after she visited with the clowns and saw a miniature circus at Randhurst's seventh birthday celebration, which will run through Aug. 22.

OK Harper Budget

Harper Junior College Board, all in one breath, approved the 1969-70 budget, moved into new quarters and approved a new three-year contract for college Pres. Robert Lahti last night.

The budget, which will require $2 million in tax funds for the educational and building funds, was passed unanimously by the board.

No members of the 15-man audience raised any objections to the budget.

The $2 million in tax funds represents only a portion of funds needed for Harper. About one third of Harper's money comes from state aid and another third comes from tuition.

BOARD MEMBERS THEN walked across the dark and nearly completed campus at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine to new quarters in the just-opened administration building.

Shortly after the second meeting had opened, Lahti was granted a three-year contract at $33,000 a year.

The vote was six to one with only Larry Moats, the newest and youngest member of the board, dissenting.

After the vote, Lahti thanked the board, said Harper is still a new and developing institution and said he will continue to devote his full efforts as many hours as necessary, to get the job done.

Moats said his dissenting vote did not represent a vote of no confidence, but meant he favors only a one-year contract.

Move Budget Meeting

The Dist. 23 budget hearing will be held Aug. 18 in the cafeteria of MacArthur Junior High School at 7:30 p.m.

Call Meeting On Pool Plans

River Trails Park Board met last night to discuss plans for the Aug. 23 swimming pool referendum and opened bids for the administrative and recreation building to be located at Burning Bush Park.

A public meeting will be held at River Trails Junior High School Tuesday at 8 p.m. to display pool plans and to answer any questions. Park board members and Marvin Weiss, park director will be at the meeting.

The total of the low bids for the proposed building is about $5,000 more than the architect's estimate of building cost.

The low bid of eight general contractors was Aspen Enterprises with a bid of $50,874. The low heating bid came from North Lake Engineering for $8,900. Low bidding in the plumbing department was from Phillips Co. for $10,365.

Two low bidders are contending for the electrical contract with the option of overhead or under ground installation.

Thorne Electric's basic bid on the electrical work was $5,953 with an additional $259 for the underground work. M&M of Skokie would charge $5,313 for the initial work, but an additional $1,397 to complete the underground service.

The low general contractor believes he can complete the work in 120 days.

All the bids will be reviewed before considering changes in building plans that would reduce construction cost.

LAUGH TIME

"Lucky thing I had the top up."

DRUMS ROLLED AS a team of acrobats performed in the mall at Randolph yesterday. The miniature circus is in celebration of the shopping center's seventh anniversary, which will run through Aug. 22.

Day for the Dogs

JUDY BRANDES

The sun was hot, the dogs were panting and uneasy but from the showmanship of the kids holding leads of 50 family pets entered in the Palatine Park District dog show, you might have thought it was the most important pedigree dog show in the country.

According to the rules, each pet had to be cleaned and groomed and under control on a lead. There was only one incident where two of the "untrained" dogs didn't follow their masters' instructions.

But they were as proud of their dogs as any master could be of his show dog. During the judging of best groomed dog, one of the judges asked Susan Westhusing why her 3-month-old dachshund Fritzle was so shiny.

"He lies in the sun all the time," she said.

Kathryn Barrett was showing her family's dog, Laddie, an English setter. Laddie has hayfever and doesn't get outside much, but he was patiently waiting for the judging to end.

Joan Vesely gives her two-and-a-half year-old schnauzer, Tina, a shower rather than a bath because it's easier. And Bruno, the black great dane who won Best of Show, bounded out of the ring with mistress Sue Shayne in tow. It was the first time she had won a prize showing their pedigree dog.

For those who placed first, second, or third in the five categories, there was a Ken-L Ration T-shirt and a ribbon.

First place also received a pen and pencil set from the co-sponsors of the show, Quaker Oats and the Palatine Jewel-Osco store.

Joan Greco, Cory Lestina and Joan Vesely had pets which won the top three places in the best groomed contest.

Marce Pease, Sue Shayne, and Barbara Winthrow had the largest dogs in the show, two great danes and a St. Bernard. Bill Stevenson's four and one-half pound white poodle was the smallest dog, though Diane Homeyck's chihuahua and Candi Preston's poodles came close.

A fireman's hat on the head of his bas-sett sitting in a wagon won Cory Lestina the best costumed award. Beverly Henne's schnauzer wore a hand sewn ruffe and a hat for second place, and Linda Zbieglen's pet wore a satin cape in third place.

Jumping through a hoop won John Gieske's poodle first place in the best trick contest, Nancy Hagan and Kevin Murray placed second and third.

Best of Show was selected from audience clapping for one of the first place winners. Sue Shayne won first with her great dane, Cory Lestina second with his bas-sett, and Joan Greco third with her coon dog.

RAND JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL construction is continuing at a rapid pace and doors will open for 450 students this fall. The new school on N. Arlington Heights Road will draw pupils north of Palatine

Road and alleviate overcrowding at Thomas Junior High School. Additional classrooms are scheduled for 1971 and an elementary school on the Rand property is included in future district construction plans. Architecture for the school features hexagonal shaped rooms. The workman above was photographed in July.

New Plans for New School

by JOAN KLUSSMANN

Clusters of classrooms in hexagonal design are rapidly taking shape on north Arlington Heights Road as workmen race against a back-to-school deadline.

This week, as painters covered the new walls, of Rand Junior High School, staff members planned programs and schedules designed to give each student a chance to shine as an individual.

Dr. Todd Fouty, director of junior high school education for School Dist. 25, says that teachers at Rand will be faced with making decisions they have never had to think about in the past. They will have to take a hard look at class schedules and decide who will profit from more algebraic equations and which student will fare better working on his own.

FOUTY STRESSES that "there is no magic in the 45-minute mathematics or science period" and that varying time allotments are necessary for students who differ widely in interest and ability.

While teachers in other schools usually meet in mathematics or English department sessions, the Rand staff will work in grade-level teams. Primary purpose of the switch is to encourage teachers to thrash out problems of the students during planning hours, rather than to emphasize subject matter.

Fouty, formerly a principal at South Junior High School, says the system should allow principal and assistant principal to get more involved in teacher discussions. "I know I could make a greater contribution in talks about the kids and their needs than I could to a discussion of new math concepts."

WHEN A STUDENT'S interests and strong points are known, the Rand staff hopes to give everyone an opportunity to succeed at something and to spark a thirst for future learning. Principal James Riebeck, equaling Fouty in enthusiasm and hope for the coming year, lauds the success theory. "When a child receives satisfaction from a task accomplished well, he is, in turn, more motivated for the next challenge."

In an effort to have a glimmer of student interests in advance, the staff has contacted parents and teachers of incoming sixth-grade students. Questions center on what the child can do well, what he likes to do the most and how he learns the best.

TEACHERS AT THE new school are "volunteers." During the year Fouty talked to staff members describing plans for Rand and asking those interested in the venture to get in touch with him. The staff this year will include 26 teachers, a learning specialist, and librarian. Three "paraprofessionals," who will work with small groups of children under teacher guidance, were also employed recently.

The hub of activity is expected to be the library material center, a huge hexagon which will also house tapes, records and other tools designed for self-teaching. Three smaller hexagons for classrooms branch out from the library center, with two more clusters slated for future building.

THIS YEAR students will use one cluster for social studies and a second for language arts. The third and largest will serve mathematics and science needs. A long corridor leading from the library center goes to the lunch room, gymnasium, home economics and shop sections. In the second phase of the building program, a large gym-auditorium, kitchen and cafeteria will be added.

Schedules are set so teachers will have time for team planning while the youngsters are at the other end of the building in gym or shop.

To encourage innovation in teaching methods, classrooms are physically flexible. Rooms will have no doors but will open into a small learning center serving all classes in the cluster. Removable partitions separating the classrooms are chest high and, when standing, a teacher may supervise activities in two places at once.

The learning centers may be used for small groups of students working on similar activities but their precise use will emerge as time and experimentation go by.

ON OPENING DAY one cluster will not be fully completed. The five rooms were included in original plans for the school but spiraling costs forced board members to eliminate the section to remain within the budget. Resident approved a new building program this March and negotiations were quickly made for the additional construction.

Students entering junior high school for the first time all require a period of adjustment to a new way of life, and pupils entering Rand this fall will also have to

School Route Not So Safe

The problem of how Ivy Hill students will attend Rand Junior High School in Arlington Heights and who will pay for their transportation was discussed but not resolved at last night's meeting of School Dist. 25.

At the suggestion of Board Pres. Robert Bukowski the reevaluation of bus policies will occur at the next meeting. Board member H. Robert Powell said the topic of the transportation fund should be discussed at that time also.

ABOUT 25 RESIDENTS of Ivy Hill attended the meeting and voiced their concern over the dangerous situation that faced their children going to Rand Junior High School. There are no sidewalks on the east side of Arlington Heights Road and the only direct way for Ivy Hill students to go to school is to walk along the east side of Arlington Heights Road.

It was determined that the only safe way to attend school would be for students to back track their way east of Arlington Heights Road.

Name List Given

A list of three candidates and three topics "for consideration" have been submitted by the Greenbrier Civic Association to the Arlington Heights Park Board following the resignation of board commissioner Tom McShane Tuesday.

A letter from David B. Patterson, vice president of the Greenbrier Civic Association, to Charles Cronin, president of the Arlington Heights Park Board lists these considerations the park board should recognize.

FIRST, THE NEW PARK board member, according to Patterson, "should come from the north 'growth area.' This is where the problems will be the greatest. New parks, new residents, and new types of problems not experienced in older sections of the village will be facing the park board.

Second, "He should be able to bring new and fresh ideas to the board to help in the growth of a strong and vital park district for all the residents of the village.

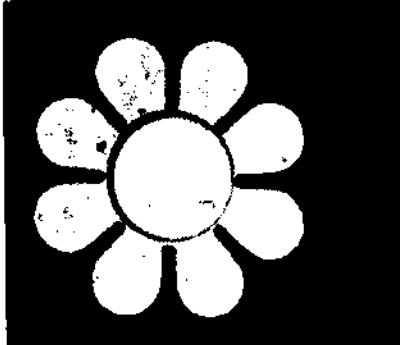

Third, "He must be objective and be honestly interested in the community. He must show evidence of success in his past work in community and business affairs. He must be willing and able to devote the time necessary to do the job as it should be done."

WITH THOSE CRITERIA, Patterson submitted to the board members the resumes of three candidates his association feels should be considered for the vacant post. All three men, Patterson said, have indicated a willingness to serve and are being suggested by the executive board of the Greenbrier Association.

Patterson delivered his letter and the resumes of the three candidates to members of the park board yesterday afternoon. The park board members were reportedly going to meet last night in closed session to decide on a replacement for McShane.

Parents Question Fankhauser Motive

The director of four local Head Start centers was forced last night by parents of children in the program to explain his reasons for dismissing a teacher from the Arlington Heights center.

The explanation was given at a meeting of Norwesco board members and parents on the advisory committees of the four centers. David Fankhauser, the director, said the reasons primarily concerned the alleged refusal of Mrs. Dorothy Adams, the dismissed teacher, to follow supervision.

"Mrs. Adams will not accept supervision, is disrespectful of people in the program and tends to lead people in the program rather than guide them," said Fankhauser.

The parents feel that Mrs. Adams is a fine teacher who has presented their feelings and they have petitioned to Norwesco for Fankhauser's dismissal.

The parents also listed what they consider shortcomings of the Head Start program. Their complaints centered around the lack of participation they were allowed in the program.

In addition, they said that if the program is short on funds to run the school, discussion of the purchase of a station wagon was inappropriate. There were also complaints that the discipline in the classes is too strict.

The parents of the children in Head Start classes in four suburban locations decided Monday night to present their petition directly to Norwesco Wednesday instead of their original plan to go to the CCOFO, which provides funds to Norwesco.

In their petition the parents demand that funding for the children's educational program be switched from Norwesco to another agency, and that David Fankhauser be removed from his post as Head Start director.

They also request that an Arlington Heights teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Adams, be allowed to stay in her position with "no strings attached."

THE "STRINGS" ARE limitations put on Mrs. Adams' activities last week by Fankhauser. He said she must confine her activities to the classroom, refrain from all contact with parents, and stay away from Norwesco board meetings.

Mrs. Adams maintains that these conditions on her employment are "impossible," and will force her to leave.

When parents heard of the potential resignation Monday, they agreed to boycott Head Start classes this week and to petition for the changes.

Seek Grape Boycott Support

More than 50 persons from six suburban communities gathered at St. John's Church in Arlington Heights last night to hear proponents of the nationwide grape boycott call for community action against local food stores.

Leading the discussion were the Rev. Robert Kolze of the National Council of Churches; Mrs. Lynn Heidt, local activist in the boycott; and Elisemo Medino, Chicago area coordinator for the California grape pickers.

Medino told his audience about the plight of the American farm worker, his lack of compensation and his susceptibility to large farm corporations.

"The farm worker is still living in the 1930s," Medino said. "But we are here not to cry but to tell you about it."

"IN MEXICO THEY HAVE a saying, 'You don't have to worry about falling off the bed if you sleep on the floor.' "We have nothing to lose," Medino said. "We want to be treated not as animals off the farms but as people."

The Chicago coordinator told the audience that the Department of Defense and the federal government as a whole contribute to the unfair practices against California grape pickers.

According to Medino, in 1969 four million pounds of grapes were purchased by federal agencies, a major portion for shipment to forces overseas.

Medino also charged that farm workers are suffering from the effects of pesticides, which cause sores and possibly cancer.

"The governors of the Great Lakes states talked about pesticides killing Coho Salmon," Medino said. "When did they talk about the people?"

OK Harper Budget

Harper Junior College Board, all in one breath, approved the 1969-70 budget, moved into new quarters and approved a new three-year contract for college Pres. Robert Lahti last night.

The budget, which will require $2 million in tax funds for the educational and building funds, was passed unanimously by the board.

No members of the 15-man audience raised any objections to the budget.

The $2 million in tax funds represents only a portion of funds needed for Harper. About one third of Harper's money comes from state aid and another third comes from tuition.

BOARD MEMBERS THEN walked across the dark and nearly completed campus at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine to new quarters in the just-opened administration building.

Shortly after the second meeting had opened, Lahti was granted a three-year contract at $33,000 a year.

The vote was six to one with only Larry Moats, the newest and youngest member of the board, dissenting.

After the vote, Lahti thanked the board, said Harper is still a new and developing institution and said he will continue to devote his full efforts as many hours as necessary, to get the job done.

Moats said his dissenting vote did not represent a vote of no confidence, but meant he favors only a one-year contract.

Council and Park Want a Pool

Money and land forthcoming, residents of Wood Dale may enjoy a new pool next spring. This situation is the outgrowth of a meeting Wednesday night between the Wood Dale Village Council and the Wood Dale Park District.

The meeting was called to discuss what would be done with six acres of land and $220,000 to be donated for recreational use by Richard Fencel. The donation was part of the pre-annexation agreement of Fencel's Brookwood Country Club to the village of Wood Dale.

Park district members and the village council agreed that five of the six acres should be used for construction of a pool the entire village could use.

The remaining acre is to be the site for the new village hall.

PARK DISTRICT members then opened the "bargaining" session by announcing they were interested in three things:

—That the park district receive title to five acres.

—That the $220,000 donation for recreational use be turned over to the park district.

—That the pool be owned and operated by the park district.

The council said it would agree to these three requests as long as the park district could guarantee the village a pool in use by next summer.

Park district members said they could not do this, since the park district need time to either pass a referendum or use its 1 1/2 per cent bonding power to secure the additional $138,000 that would be needed for the construction of a pool.

SEVERAL PARK members mentioned

the possibility of combining the referendum with a land acquisition program that could shoot the total bill up to $1 1/2 million.

"The main concern of the village council," Dino Janis, commissioner, told the Register, "is that we are guaranteed a pool for next year."

"I would take 60 to 90 days for a bond referendum to pass, another 45 to 60 to design specifications for the pool, 120 days for construction, which means it wouldn't be completed until August or September of next year."

It was then suggested by Janis that the village council and the park district enter into a joint agreement in which the village would give the park district five acres of land in return for a guarantee of $108,000 to be used by the park district for construction of the pool. The $220,000 would be used by the village as its part of the pool construction.

"WITH A JOINT venture, plans could be drawn up within the next 45 days, bids could be let out and construction could then begin as early as October or November. This would insure completion by next summer," Janis said.

The village would pay the contractor the $220,000 and the park district would pay the remaining $108,000. In order for construction to begin as soon as possible, the $220,000 would be first used and the $108,000 would be paid the contractor as soon as it is collected through a referendum or bond sale.

"The agreement we worked out will also contain an escape clause for the park district."

THE MAIN CONCERN of the Wood Dale Village Council, according to Dino Janis, is that a pool is guaranteed for next year by the Wood Dale Park District. A bargaining session about a $220,000 donation to the village was held this week.

Complex Proposed

A $14 million multifamily residential development of 431 apartment units, to be located in the northwest sector of Itasca west of Route 53, was proposed Tuesday night in a public hearing held by the Itasca Planning Commission.

The petitioners, Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, a principal beneficiary of Harris Trust and Savings, is seeking approval of a pre-annexation agreement for R-3 zoning of 29 acres of land for the semi-luxury apartment complex bordering a six-acre lake. Another 17 acres, to be developed for light manufacturing in conjunction with Central Manufacturing District (CMD) are included in the planned development proposal.

The lake would be developed by draining marsh land, and around its central periphery would be five five-story, high-rise apartments and four clusters of low-rise units. An estimated 1,000 residents would occupy the apartments, designed around open space and the man-made lake.

ACCORDING TO the developers, "It is the intention of the parties to create harmonious residential development and abundant open space in keeping with the purpose of planned development provisions of the Itasca zoning ordinance."

The 46 acres already owned by Avtech are north of Thorndale Avenue, south of Crest Avenue (if extended east), east of Meacham Road (if extended south) and approximately 2,600 feet west of Route 53.

The rectangular tract of land borders the northwest sector of the industrial park of CMD and presently lies in the unincorporated area of the county. However it is contiguous to Itasca and could be annexed if village trustees approve terms of the pre-annexation agreement.

Charles Hodgins, plan commission chairman, indicated Tuesday night the commission may decide to schedule a special meeting to review the proposal for recommendation to the village board.

BUT EFFORTS to meet in session with the trustees following the public hearing fell by the wayside when Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke attempted to round up a quorum at 10:15 p.m. Nottke found only he and Trustee Frank Atkinson were present and promptly adjourned the hearing for discussion at the next village board meeting next Tuesday.

According to Edward S. Mraz, an attorney representing the petitioners, the proposed residential development would comprise 96 one-bedroom units, 244 two-bedroom units and 92 three-bedroom units, with 1.5 parking spaces per apartment.

Nelson Frye, Avtech executive vice president, told commission members, "We have the technical and financial ability to develop the program, and, if we say what we will do, we will do it."

He said his firm has national representation and is recognized for its work in airport design, home construction and building of libraries and industrial parks.

WHEN QUESTIONED as to financing and proposed development, Frye replied that it would be under private financing and not from federal funds.

He said Avtech is comprised of architects, engineers and construction managers - "the nuts and bolts of the department."

Assisting in the presentation was Anthony Bonavolonta, a member of Avtech and a Roselle village trustee.

The "M Limited Manufacturing District" would be developed as a small industrial park separated from the residential properties along Thorndale Avenue by a buffer zone of multiple-family residence buildings arranged around the six-acre lake.

The development would be phased out over a three-year building program, according to the petitioners.

Favorable Reaction To Complex Seen

Planned, environmental multi family living is the proposal Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, presented before the Itasca Plan Commission Tuesday evening.

Avtech, a group of engineers and architects plans to build 431 semi-luxury units bordering a six-acre lake, as well as developing 17 acres of land for industrial purposes.

The theme of the apartments is an "environmental concept," Tony Bonavolonta, Avtech architect and Roselle village trustee, said.

"It's a simple idea, but a very effective one. All we are doing is taking the people who will be the tenants into consideration in the building of the apartments.

"WE ARE PLANNING to use a cluster system in the construction of the apartment buildings. This allows us to locate 100-foot courtyards in the middle. These areas can then be used for anything, from swimming pools to tennis courts."

"Or," he added, "they can be used as a social gathering place. Of course, the focal point will be the six-acre lake we plan to develop. This land is presently swamp land and we feel it is more desirable to put a lake on this property than to try to fill it in and use it for multi family dwellings."

"It's funny," Robert Cagann, a real estate appraiser and witness for Avtech, said, "but people are attracted to water. You would be surprised how a little water makes a great difference in the value of abutting property."

Cagann also told the plan commission the kind of rental fees the public should expect from the project, which seems to bear out his observation.

"ONE-BEDROOM apartments will probably run from $175-$180 per month; two-bedroom ones at $225 to $235 per month, and three-bedroom ones at $275 to $285 per month."

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke told the Register he received a favorable reaction from about 15 people who live near him in Wood Dale.

"These people told me they feel the project will be an asset to the village. Most of these people are in their late 40s or early 50s and are considering moving out of their houses and into apartments. Their children are grown up and they don't want to have to take care of an empty house."

"THESE APARTMENTS will have a two-fold effect: they will allow us to keep citizens who desire multi-family living quarters, and they will bring more population into the village," he said.

"I'm not looking forward too much to this second effect. I was never an advocate of a 'house on every lot,' and I'm sure my fellow village residents for the most part feel the same way," Nottke continued.

He said he was not against progress or the project. "I am definitely for both. I the Avtech plan is very worthwhile. It is a good example of making something desirable out of nothing. And the entire north-west sector is along the soon-to-be O'Hare-Elgin expressway, which will open up the land for industry, single and multi family residences."

However, I feel progress has to be controlled. What the village is looking for is a balance. We realize the need for industry, for apartments for single-family residential areas. But each need must be subordinated to the total need of the community. There must be a balance."

This thought will weigh heavily in the thinking of the village plan commission and its decision will be tempered by how they determine the Avtech proposal will reflect this need for balance.

To Recommend 7 Planners

Seven names were expected to be submitted at last night's Bensenville Village Board meeting as appointees to the new plan commission.

In the past, members of the plan commission were also members of the zoning board, but trustees voted last month to separate the two bodies.

Donald C. Hegebarth, 902 Glendale, was recommended to serve as chairman. Hegebarth will also serve on the zoning board. His term will be four years. His father, William, is a village trustee.

Other appointments expected are George F. Nielsen, 414 Rose, for a two-year term; Robert Agnes, 103 N. Mason, for a three-year term; James J. Madden, 1325 W. Irving Park Road, for a three-year term; Richard Arndt, 223 N. Orchard for a two-year term; John Piegore, 1033 Daniel, for a three-year term, and Robert Broderick, 455 S. Center for a two-year term.

RECOMMENDED AS secretary for the group was Mrs. Lucille Hall, 1023 David Drive.

The proposal to split the two commissions was part of the platform which Village Pres. John Varble ran on in April. He cited increased efficiency as the main reason for dividing the work load.

It is not yet known what night will be the regularly scheduled meeting date for the new plan commission. Village administrator Harold Koehler said he doubted the two boards would be meeting on the same day.

Another reason for splitting the two boards was the amount of time spent by the members in meetings. When the boards were meeting back-to-back, the business would often run until late at night.

Chairman of the zoning board is Eugene Sullivan. Members are Mrs. Arlene Benson, Cliff Zingraf, Steve Plaskon, Donald Miller and Ed Hynes.

Discuss School Referendum

A group of 14 Wood Dale residents met last night at the Oakbrook School in Wood Dale with School Dist. 7 officials to discuss the formation of a Wood Dale citizens committee. The committee, if formed, is interested in the passage of a proposed elementary school referendum next month.

Mrs. Joan Marden and Mrs. Marilyn Hannon have been selected as co-chairwomen of the committee.

Dr. Warren B. Carson, superintendent of Dist. 7, told the group why a referendum was needed.

"BASICALLY WHAT we are planning to present before the voters is a two-fold program. The first part would provide for passage of a $250,000 bond referendum and the second would authorize a $425,000 state loan."

"The first part of the program is needed for the refurbishing of Highland School, the oldest school in the district. We would like to do away with seven of the classrooms there that don't conform with the life safety code. And the rest of the building should be brought up to par with the rest of the district," he said.

Burglary Probe

Bloomington police are continuing an investigation into two break-ins that occurred recently in the village.

A Chicago resident has been arrested and released from the DuPage County jail on $5,000 bond, in connection with a break-in and burglary at Kroil Auto Service, 153 W. Lake St., Bloomington. One man had previously been arrested and released on $5,000 bond and a third man is still being sought.

ANOTHER MAN suspected of breaking into the Rustic Barn Restaurant, 251 E. Lake St., Bloomington, and taking a check-writing machine and signed and unsigned checks, is being held in a Hazard, Ky. jail.

"This suspect is a definite tie-in with the stolen checks," Harold Rivkin, village police chief, told the Register.

An Eloquent Call

Sewage proposals, wage increases and county administrative facilities are not the only business with which the DuPage County Board of Supervisors is currently involved.

After the meeting adjourned Tuesday, the supervisors passed one of their more eloquent resolutions. It reads:

"WHEREAS, MAN has now landed on the moon, and

"Whereas, aging John Wayne still has the fastest draw in the west, and

"Whereas, the county board has yet to decide whether Roosevelt Road or Butterfield Road should be renamed Demolition Alley, and "Whereas, the Cubs are establishing their superiority over other contenders, and of the county board has never been adequately demonstrated:

"Whereas, the obvious athletic prowess

"NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved that the DuPage County Board of Supervisors does now challenge the elected officials of DuPage County to a five-inning softball game to be played on Thursday, Sept. 17, 1969, at Herricks Lake Forest Preserve."

"Be it further resolved that the board secretary forward a copy of this resolution to each of the elected officials at their several offices."

Jack Wall, Bloomington Township supervisor, added that Mrs. Helen Schmidt, supervisor from Milton Township, should be manager and Mrs. Margaret Meyers, Downers Grove, and Mrs. Ange Mahke, Milton Township, be appointed coaches. The press will umpire, he added.

Top priority has been given to Itasca's controversial Prospect-Thorndale sanitary sewer project toward resolving a proposed contractual agreement between the village and Central Manufacturing District.

The latest action initiated by Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke was disclosed recently when Nottke instructed Village Atty Lawrence C. Traeger Jr. "I made a promise to the new attorney for Central Manufacturing District, Jack A. Rearick, that you would phone him on Monday morning (Aug. 4) to arrange a meeting on the drawing of the new and I hope final contract."

Nottke's instructions to Traeger, reportedly followed a July 28 meeting with CMD Pres. James F. Donovan, Rearick, and other company officials which Nottke had been attempting to arrange for the past several weeks.

ITASCA TRUSTEES had rejected previously a proposed 11-page contract offered by Atty. Robert Bremer.

The new proposal was presumably the answer to warding off a referendum election on the sewer project which initially had been approved by ordinance after some nine months of negotiation with Bremer representing CMD.

Under terms of the new contract, the Itasca board of trustees sought an alternate method of financing the $1 million project through CMD with title of the sewer rights invested in the village.

On July 24 the board met in emergency session to discuss revisions to the initial contract which had been reviewed by Traeger. But the latest amendment to CMD's proposal was again rejected due primarily to inclusion of a reported 10 per cent interest rate and "non contribution" share of CMD, according to Nottke.

THIS LATEST go-around prompted a general consensus by board members that the negotiations and terms of the revised contract appeared to be "growing further apart" and that the past nine months of study on the project proposals were all but lost.

It was also indicated that Itasca's $1 million expansion program for its sewage treatment plant currently underway, offered CMD some tangible benefits in servicing its industrial park complex bordering Ill. Rte. 53.

Donovan and other CMD officials were briefed on the terms of the revised contract by Nottke at last week's meeting.

It was reported that Donovan was sympathetic to Itasca's problems and apparently desired to have CMD pay its fair share of the funding.

According to Nottke, there had been presumably a misunderstanding on the alleged 10 per cent interest cost to the village and the "noncontribution" aspect of the proposed agreement, whatever that is.

"MR. DONOVAN'S attitude revived the CMD attitude of the past," Nottke said. "He once again gave me the fine feeling of cooperation and that CMD wanted to be good neighbors or residents of Itasca."

"We were in agreement in all phases of the project," Nottke reported, adding, "now we need merely to rely on the attorneys to put the contract in proper words and form."

If all goes well, the amended draft of the latest agreement could be presented for another review by the trustees at their Aug. 19 meeting.

But the current negotiations with CMD may not set well with the majority of the 116 residents who signed the petition calling for a referendum on the project. On the other hand, there is apparently support to get the sanitary sewer project underway while construction weather is still favorable.

FURTHER DELAYS could boost costs higher and higher — yet if agreement is reached on the latest proposal, the complex agreement could possibly be more advantageous to the village than under terms of the ordinances initially approved by the trustees.

Without the sewer project this could cramp future annexations geared to further CMD expansion and anticipated planned residential development north of Itasca.

If a referendum election had been held and passed — there would be no room for criticism. It looks like the board would prefer to take the other route and let the chips fall as they may.

Citizens Hit Conditions

Bloomington village officials got the third degree from irate citizens about well problems, sewage inadequacies and the Hoffman-Rosner development at the village board meeting Wednesday night.

The discussion from the floor, which lasted almost as long as the meeting, was encouraged by some of the action and inaction of the village board concerning the state of Bloomington.

The pump for Well No. 2 still has not arrived from the factory in Oklahoma, and nothing else was reported about the water situation.

A petition requesting a referendum regarding the Hoffman-Rosner annexation filed by Mrs. Lucille Kogut, 406 Meadowlark St., was dismissed as invalid by Jack Waghorne, village attorney.

WAGHORNE SAID the prerogative of calling for a petition falls under the provisions of another section for the annexation statute. "We annexed under 7-1-8, which does not provide for a referendum questioning the annexation," he said.

A check for $20,000 from the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. for building permits was given to the village board, after Lowell Siff, Hoffman-Rosner vice president announced units one and two were ready to be started.

Siff also promised the company would begin looping the Suncrest and Indian Lake water system, since the Illinois Sanitary Water Board has given its approval to the line. The village has been authorized by the water board to proceed with the plans for the sewage treatment plant that Hoffman-Rosner agreed to construct.

SUBDIVISION construction and sewage line construction will be done simultaneously, Siff said, even though the sewage treatment plant has not been formally approved.

"This is done in good faith on the part of the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. and the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, which has issued building permits, that the village will work out a design that will meet approval and provide the facilities needed."

Joe Pavia, engineer for Ralph F. Gross and Son, Pavia, Inc., made Ralph Gross report.

Pavia said the village was told it "could go ahead on plans for the sewage plant," but his firm had been doing research on the capacity needed for the Hoffman-Rosner development and the rest of the village.

"There has been so much interest in annexing to the village on the behalf of other developers that we have decided to call a meeting with them to see what kind of initial capacity we'll need."

"Either they agree to put up some money for a larger sewage treatment plant, or they don't get any service."

PAVIA MENTIONED the possibility of a plant with an initial capacity of 800,000 gallons.

Old water and sewage problems were brought up when Vincent Occhipinti, 163 Lake St., addressed the board.

Occhipinti complained of the recent water shortage experienced by Suncrest Highland residents. "Looping will not solve a thing," he said. "Let's cut the comedy. The problem was caused by inferior pumps."

Other residents complained of the sewer back-up in their homes, showing concern over the board's approval of the building of apartments near Lake Street and Glen Dale Road.

Occhipinti attributed the sewage problem to "too many hookups on the line. The village knows that the system is inadequate, yet it continues to allow more users."

JACK WAGHORNE, village attorney, assures Bloomington trustees Westlake cannot be brought for a referendum.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers said the water works initially were designed to serve a housing project and not a municipality.

"THE AREA WAS annexed to the village after the facilities had been approved by the county and built," Meyers said.

Referring to a lack of planning, Meyers said, "That's why the meeting is so important. We are asking the developers interested in Bloomington to come forth and help us develop a plan that will work for the future."

Problems with the clerk's office were not solved as the board would not provide a second to Ralph Johnston's motion that Mrs. Fortune LoPresti be appointed clerk until the next election.

Meyers questioned the lack of response. "I thought this was all settled in the committee meeting. We discussed this for a half-hour."

"We didn't discuss anything," Trustee Paul Ahlrich said. "You told us what you wanted and we listened."

"You told us this was your choice and that was the way it was," Trustee Robert Buckles said.

"THAT'S NOT TRUE. I said this woman was my choice for the job and asked for your vote. I thought this was settled at the meeting. You didn't say anything. I can't force you to talk," Meyers said.

Meyers announced the clerk's office will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon. He said he hoped the board would seriously work to look for a new clerk to help the serious problem in the village hall.

During the discussion period Mrs. Kogut questioned Waghorne's statement on her petition.

WAGHORNE AGAIN explained there are different methods for annexation and the village used a method that does not provide for referendum.

"Don't you think the village should have asked for a vote from its citizens? The village isn't that big that it can't have any closeness," he said.

"My lawyer says I can file a petition."

"I say you can't," said Waghorne.

"Well, mine says you can," Mrs. Kogut insisted.

"That's what makes law suits," Waghorne said.

Are you willing to go as low as $1939* for a new VW?

We don't sell status. Just a car. One that gets up to 27 mpg, hardly uses oil between changes, and goes a long way on a set of tires.

Of course, the fact that it's practical is no secret. And everybody is going to know that you're saving money. But that's the price you pay for a Volkswagen.

trict," Janis continued. "If the park district has trouble collecting the $108,000 in this amount of time, the village will then agree to foot this part of the bill too."

"At a later date we would turn over the pool and its management to the park district in return for the $180,000. This plan works in business every day, when one partner may be in a financial bind."

"THIS METHOD would save us as much as 90 days and we could be sure of having a pool for the village next summer. After all, the village does not want to go into the pool business."

The only hold-up in the proceedings now seems to be the money itself. Fencil was to have the deed to the land and the $220,000 ready to hand over to the village in June. He asked for a two-month extension, which was granted, but has failed to make a positive effort since then.

"The final agreement was signed over two months ago," Janis said. "We have gone as far as we can possibly go."

"If the money and the land is not forthcoming by the Aug. 21 village council meeting, we will proceed to null and void the pre-annexation agreement with Fencil."

"We just can't wait any longer for the land. Construction costs continue to rise every day. Our new village hall, to be located on one of the six acres, has gone up $10,000 in costs because of delays."

Janis said there are other contingencies involved in the situation, setting up a chain reaction of events.

"The police are supposed to move into the new village hall, the library is supposed to expand into the old police station, but this is all contingent upon the passage of the pre-annexation agreement."

'Unrestrained Spending' Opposition Is Weak

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

There was an opposition to "unrestrained spending" on the county board at Tuesday's session but it ended after displaying no more force than a tempest in a teapot.

The mighty Rickson struck out when he with two other members voted "no" on the question of buying a dozen executive chairs, solid wood with straight backs, at $100 apiece.

R. Rickson, York Township, is the anti-spender on that body. He has no trouble in saying "no" to any proposal if it costs taxpayer money. The other "no" votes were Charles Kaelin, Winfield Township, and William Swegler, Downers Grove Township.

The chairs are said to be needed for committee meeting rooms.

"HAS MONEY FOR this $1,200 expenditure been provided for in the budget?" Rickson asked Alvin Anderson, Downers Grove, chairman of the purchasing committee. Anderson hesitated momentarily, but someone on the committee replied that the budget took care of it.

Anderson responded, "It's provided for in the budget."

News reporters who cover board sessions have expressed wonder why the county board has not become more tight-fisted in spending than shows up in floor discussions. Taxpayers are grumbling that a protest now and then and a flash of economy, if only for window dressing, would be appreciated.

A tempo in this direction can be expected to pick up because budget-making time has arrived and another record document is in the cards for DuPage County. Rickson is on the finance committee. Another finance committee member expected to make some noise is Pat Saviano of Bloomington Township.

Another evangelist working in the vineyard of economy is Gerald Weeks, Milton Township. He tried to introduce some reforms in outside county travel—spending a couple of years ago when he was finance chairman, but was not listened to. After his abortive try for chairmanship of the board in June, he was deposed as finance chairman and resigned from the committee.

AT THE TIME Weeks rapped uncontrolled spending for travel expense, he warned that the county board was failing to curb itself and would have to resort to transfer from other funds to make out the fiscal year.

Questioning, not Weeks, gives a figure of $12,000 budgeted for travel this current fiscal year with about $1,100 on hand and more than three months to go.

At this session Helen Schmid, Milton

Township, chairman of the legislative committee, revealed that a bill to raise mileage from 10 cents to 15 cents was awaiting the governor's signature. A big gripe on the board is that some members travel by plane, which is cheaper, but put in claims for number of miles transported in terms of railroad mileage, which is higher.

However, these representations are never made from the floor at board meetings, nor, and so far as can be learned, in committee meetings. But it appears certain that some criticism will be made as spending for the new year is budgeted. A tightening of the economy and a need for better fiscal accounting is forcing a new evaluation of past spending policies. Tax money is harder to get.

IT CAN'T COME too soon for the few who are asking for stronger controls on the county board. And the prediction is that the number will grow appreciably.

The specter of more tax dollars now needed to do what used to be done with less is not the only problem haunting the board. Don Prindle, Addison Township, chairman municipalities committee, told the board that there is a need to reevaluate low-cost housing in DuPage County because senior citizens whose earning power has declined want to live out their days here.

There are two recognized developers in this low-cost housing field, he said, and the federal government is stepping in to subsidize part of the rentals. This housing is provided in single units or apartment buildings.

KANE COUNTY already has several projects under way, Prindle told the board. He said his committee was exploring the feasibility of these developments for low-cost housing in DuPage County. The rentals would amount to $125 a month for senior citizens, but he made no comment on construction details.

Some board members were seen to shake their heads in concern for standards set which have prevailed through the years. The belief was that the remedy is worse than the disease. The effect would be to widen the low-income area and open up a host of brand new problems.

"Where the federal government provides a subsidy," Richard Koehler, York Township, said, "that government controls." He preferred "tax relief" to help senior citizens.

But Clyde Gleason, Downers Grove

Township, as chairman of board of review, an authority on tax matters, replied, "That's not constitutional. It can be resolved only in the Constitutional Convention."

Carl Demme, Addison Township, backed Koehler on tax relief for the elderly. He believed a way could be found short of a constitutional confrontation. In any case he'd push it.

Pollution Control Is Hard

"Air pollution control is still an infant art. Equipment for the program can't just be picked up off the shelf," Cecil Royer, senior project engineer for Clow Corp., said in Bensenville during a recent interview.

Royer was commenting on the Smoke Abatement Program which Clow initiated in November. The company is completing stage II of the three-stage project this month.

Royer said materials for the project are difficult to obtain, and added that a labor shortage complicates the program. He said he expects completion of the project by August, 1970.

CLOW HAS CAUGHT the brunt of public concern over the pollution problem, despite the fact the Illinois Air Pollution Control board approved its smoke abatement plan last November. Both the Register and the Bensenville Village Hall have received letters and calls in recent months asking what the manufacturer of cast-iron pressure water pipe is doing to solve its pollution problem.

One of the highest complaints from citizens is the pollution abatement program is taking so long to complete. The company has been studying the problem since 1964, and began work shortly after its plan was approved by the pollution board.

One of Clow's problems is that it is difficult to work on improvements when the plant is operating at full capacity. At present, the company is shutdown for its annual two-week cleaning and maintenance period, and thus is proceeding with construction on the smoke abatement program.

The first stage of the three-stage installation is the incineration of combustibles in the smoke by "after-burning."

THE REMAINDER OF the smoke containing iron and sulfur dust then is passed through a water curtain and a wet cap.

During this second stage, the larger particles, or "cats and dogs" as they are referred to, are filtered out. The gases being pulled through the stack are also reduced from 2,000 to 500 degrees. Installation of the wet caps atop the two 80-foot cupola stacks is being completed this month.

The third stage, which is the most difficult to install from an engineering standpoint, is conduction of the gases through pipes to a Venturi scrubber. Here the dust particles, which at this point are only one micron in size, are agglomerated into larger sludge particles. Thus the dust combines with moisture and is transferred from the air to water.

Here the sludge settles in the water and the clean liquid is passed out to a lake just east of the factory. The air is then sucked through a fan and out a smoke stack.

ACCORDING TO ROYER, the dust at this point has a grain loading of .05 grains per standard cubic foot of exhaust gas. This would take 7,000 grains of dust to compose one pound of solid pollutants. When the gas leaves the final filtering process, it is released into the air at a temperature of 120 degrees.

Richard Young, air pollution control officer for Bensenville, said he feels "Clow is keeping up with the time-table the state established for them."

OK 263 Building Permits

A total of 263 building permits were issued last month by the DuPage County Building and Zoning Department with a total value of $3.6 million.

Home permits totaled 92 with a value of $2,338,700, the highest value of all permits issued. The usual increase of summer home building accounted for it.

Permits for multifamily buildings were nil. This was considered unusual, as apartment construction has been booming this year.

Remodeling permits totaled 32 with a value of $115,975. Sheds and garages accounted for 48 permits with $92,780.

ANOTHER $360,500 value was added to the county rolls with seven permits for business buildings. Additions to business buildings, amounted to three permits with a total $14,216.

One church was given a permit. The structure is valued at $170,000. An addition to a nursing home was valued at $100,000.

A total revenue of $42,360 was obtained from last month's permits. Most of it was deposited with the DuPage County treasurer.

Graduated From Nursing

Two young women, one from Roselle and the other from Bensenville, have graduated from nursing school and are working in medicine.

Nancy Jean Mikes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mikes of 306 S. Prospect Street, Roselle, recently graduated with honors from Chicago Wesley Memorial Hospital School of Nursing.

Mrs. Cheri Lynn Rawlings Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Rawlings of 254 Mohawk Drive, Bensenville, was one of 56 graduates from St.

Mary of Nazareth School of Nursing, Chicago. The school is conducted by the sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth.

Miss Mikes attended Western Illinois University, Macomb, for two years prior to entering nursing training. She is now a staff nurse in the Intensive Care Unit at Chicago Passavant Memorial Hospital.

Commencement for Mrs. Andrews will be held tomorrow at St. John Cantius Catholic Church. She is presently working at West Suburban Hospital in the pediatrics division. She was a graduate of Fenton High School, Bensenville, in 1966.

Big Turnout Anticipated At GOP Day

A record crowd is anticipated for the 1969 DuPage Republican Day outing Thursday at St. Andrew's Country club north of West Chicago.

According to Elmer Hoffman, chairman of the DuPage county Republican central committee tickets for the event have been going in record numbers.

"We haven't yet in all these years turned anyone away despite continuing record attendance," Hoffman said. "A call to 633-7000 will be sufficient for anyone wishing to get tickets to procure them ahead of time."

Highlight of the day will be the guest entertainment appearance of the noted trick shot golfer, Paul Hahn. His appearance is set for 5 p.m. His sensational appearances have taken him five times around the world on a million dollar swing with his unbelievable humorous golf antics. He flies from place to place in his own plane. He is home based in Miami.

REGULAR GOLF will take place all day long at the host club's two 18-hole courses, beginning at dawn and running until darkness.

Each ticket has a dinner meal stub, with dinner served from noon until 8 p.m. It is suggested that those finding it convenient to do so will save a waiting line by being served before the evening dinner hour time.

"The biggest activity of this day and any DuPage Republican Day is the social good time which Republicans have just by visiting each other and meeting the many guests who always come here from outside our county," Hoffman said. "Everyone would be well rewarded to spend the entire day with us. We know this is not possible, so we suggest that everyone come and stay whenever he can as long as he can. For Republicans it is like a gathering of the clan."

PAUL HAHN, one of the world's best trick shot golf artists, will make a guest appearance Thursday at the DuPage Republican Day outing at St. Andrew's Country Club. He will show how to hit a ball on one leg, kneeling and while lying down.

Sewer Line Snagged Again

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

A $3 million proposal for a trunk sewer from the county's Glen Ellyn Heights sewage treatment plant to Roselle and the expansion of the plan hit more snags during a meeting of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors Wednesday.

The resolution, originally introduced at the July 22 meeting, was tabled to supposedly provide time for the supervisors to study it, and the public works department to obtain a definite ruling on the use of general fund monies for the project from the state.

State Atty. Gen. William J. Scott still has not made a decision on the use of the fund which was requested by Edward Vertovec, attorney for the public works department. This supposedly was a reason why the resolution was tabled again until the next meeting.

WHEN PAT RIEDY, public works committee chairman, Lisle township, asked to table the "uncontroversial resolution" he cited the three changes in the text as the main reason.

"I think the board should have an opportunity to see the resolution as it now reads," Riedy said.

Supervisor Gerald R. Weeks, Milton Township, doubting the propriety of introducing the resolution questioned if it had been considered by the finance committee and an emergency appropriation had been approved for the $3 million expenditure.

and that's another reason why we have to table it."

THE FINANCE committee, which was formerly headed by Weeks, will have to approve the appropriation but will not do so until it has an opinion from Robert J.

Scott, legal advisor to the board of supervisors, that the move is legal.

Scott has said he does not consider the use of general fund monies for public work projects to be legal.

If the finance committee does approve the appropriation, the board will have to pass the emergency appropriation by a three-fourths vote.

Only after the emergency appropriation is passed, which is unlikely, can the resolution be considered.

An unstated but probably the most significant reason the resolution never came to a vote was the feeling on the part of its supporters that it would not pass.

GLEN ELLYN Heights residents are against expansion of the plant, and the Milton Township supervisors will probably vote against the resolution.

The $3 million sum will draw more negative votes.

The public works committee hopes to have the attorney general's opinion by the next meeting.

The resolution could have been voted on regardless of the attorney general's opinion, because it is contingent upon a favorable ruling on the use of general fund monies.

If attorney general Scott rules against using monies from the fund for public work projects then the resolution even if passed, would be void.

THE RESOLUTION hinges upon two other conditions: an agreement between the municipalities using the facilities, and the county must be reached whereby the municipalities repay the county for the money it advances.

The terms of the agreement are to be reached through negotiation.

However, the money used to finance the project will be considered an advance to the county-wide system of sewers and will be repaid to the municipalities out of proceeds of bond issues for the county program.

There were some questions concerning another public works resolution providing for the expansion of the Lisle sewage treatment plant.

Discuss Growth

It was an innovation for Bloomingdale as village officials tried to lay the foundations for a long range utility plan yesterday at the Indian Lakes Country Club.

The meeting between the village officials and developers who are planning to develop in Bloomingdale was called by Ralph Gross and Sons, Pavia Inc., engineering firm for the village and Village Pres. Robert Meyers.

"We'd like to accommodate all future growth of the village," Meyers said in his introductory remarks.

"THE PURPOSE of this meeting is to determine the size of the community we will be serving," he explained. He requested estimates of unit density from any firm that was interested in coming to Bloomingdale.

"Hoffman-Rosner agreed to loop our water systems. They will oversize their trunk system and start constructing the treatment plant as soon as we get final approval on our plans which will be drawn up by our engineers."

"The Illinois Sanitary Water Board recommended we phase out our present north plant which means the Westlake plant will handle the entire village," Meyers said.

Repair Night Is Scheduled

"Patch and Paint Night," organized last summer by the Keeneyville PTA and continued this year, will be held tonight at the Keeneyville elementary school, 6N632 Gary Road, Keeneyville.

"We have had about 10 people coming at different times this summer," Mrs. Katherine Loftus, school board clerk, told the Register. "But we would like to see 15-20 people come at once. That way we would really make a dent into the work we would like accomplished."

Most of the school's hallways have been given a fresh coat of paint but a lot of the work remains to be done.

Anyone interested in helping is encouraged to attend the school at 7 tonight or any other Friday evening.

ers told the audience.

"THE COUNTY LINE may take a few years, so we would like to plan the trunks and treatment plant for a capacity that will be good five or ten years."

"We can't afford to wait any longer," Joseph Pavia, partner in the engineering firm said. "If we know roughly what kind of growth to expect, we can plan for it. It is extremely costly to duplicate a trunk line."

"We have an operating schedule for spring and that doesn't leave us much time to start working on a design," Pavia said.

Meyers added the proposed trunk sewer system would be laid out so it could be tied in with the county built trunk line.

Pavia also explained that the effluence had to undergo tertiary treatment which is extremely costly. "That's why its economical to start the treatment plant as big as possible," he said.

"EITHER YOU GIVE us an estimate and a commitment to use so much or we'll have to go with H-R at 600,000 gallons," Pavia concluded.

Joseph Starkey, general superintendent of Campanelli Bros. said, "We have no quarrel on the plant. We understand it, but we are still in the throes of zoning negotiations."

Starkey offered estimates on "what we've proposed," to the planning commission.

Basically, what the village is asking is an estimate of units in each development that is seriously thinking of annexing into Bloomingdale.

WITH THIS ESTIMATE, Pavia can make a cost per unit computation. The developers can "pay at this time," according to Meyers for the oversizing of the trunk to their areas and be given credit on tap-on fees.

The village needs these advances to finance the oversizing in the trunks and the larger plant. If the developers refuse, Hoffman-Rosner will build its 600,000 gallon plant which will be at capacity before the village has repaid the company from tap-on credits.

"It's a bad situation when you come into the planning board a few years from now and we have to turn you down because we don't have the capacity," Meyers said.

Blacks at the U.N. — Mixed View of U.S.

by PHYLIS BERNSTEIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—One of the first questions a foreign visitor might ask the many black diplomats serving at United Nations headquarters in New York is, "How are you treated here?"

"It is a place that could break a man," was the reply given a UPI reporter by Moses Ihonde, attache at the Nigerian mission to the United Nations. "It is strange, because one is surrounded in New York by so many things that normally make a man happy."

Not all the United Nations' black Africans feel as does Ihonde about the racial attitudes of New Yorkers. Some have experienced no discrimination. All, regardless of their problems in adapting to life in a new society, indicate it is an experience they would not have wanted to miss. For a few, it has been pure fun.

For Ihonde, it has been a test of his own reactions and he has decided, "You can get along if you take it easy." After two years, he remains puzzled, however, that while in his homeland he is given the respect due a successful, hard working man, here he finds he sometimes is judged on color alone.

"In Africa we knew vaguely about problems in the United States," he said, "and we viewed the States with sympathy. It was not until I arrived in New York and attempted the ordinary day-to-day living that I experienced discrimination firsthand."

Ihonde said that moving to a new apartment can be a frustrating experience. As he put it, "After my first lease expired, I decided to move to a nicer apartment. I came for an interview with a renting agent, who had assured me on the telephone that he had an availability. When he saw my black face, the rent suddenly catapulted. Other times I found that the apartment had suddenly been taken. Well, after two months I gave up and remained in my old place.

"I have felt hurt many times in New York. When a taxi stops for you and then suddenly drives on to the next corner and you see a white face step in, well, what is one to think?"

The problems of Mrs. Shade Akinola, wife of a Nigerian consulate officer, have differed somewhat from those of Ihonde.

Living in Kips Bay Plaza—a huge, modern Manhattan apartment complex—with two small children and a busy career officer husband who is often away on business, Mrs. Akinola confessed her problem was mainly domestic. Looking exotic in her six yards of "irobuba," (a blue cotton lace wraparound garment) she did not sound too unlike any young American wife burdened with tiny tots and a fixed income.

She said that wives of Nigerian diplomats are not permitted to work in New York and that this situation, coupled with a scarcity of domestic help she can afford, keeps her tied down.

Mrs. Akinola said, "On a day when my husband is free, I tell him I want a day off. I do go off, even if I have nowhere to go."

"In the beginning, the loneliness was too much. I knew few people. I said, 'What am I doing here?' But after awhile I realized there is no difference here. You can get out and visit people."

"Although in Nigeria my family would be taking care of my children, here there is no help. When I want to do things by myself, my white neighbors, who are nice to me, come and baby sit."

How does she like Americans? "They are good," she said. "If you are not shy and know how to express yourself, then they help you."

Discrimination? "We are the only blacks on this floor," Mrs. Akinola said, "but I don't see any difference."

Many of the diplomats questioned would do so only when it was agreed they would not be identified, for diplomatic reasons. One of these, a high-ranking member of his delegation, was enthusiastic about life in New York.

"Living in New York is very comfortable and I like the gaiety here," he said. "I like New York very much because of the variety found here and because of the material conveniences which America has so nicely perfected."

He admitted that part of the fascination which New York holds for him has to do with the fact that at his level of diplomatic life he is invited to the choice parties and is constantly feted by New York hostesses.

That doesn't mean he finds it all perfect. "There is a hanging fear all over New York over crime in the streets," he said.

"I hate to mention law and order; to me it sounds racist. Yet, who is not for law and order, black or white, especially when we have to walk down a lonely street at two in the morning? The only one who is not for it is the criminal himself."

"There is, of course, racism here in New York. The average African is less racist than the average American. It is because we have always been the downtrodden."

Asked if he felt a kinship with American blacks, he said, "We are now openly identifying with them because of their identification with their heritage."

"The situation was different a few years back. There was a reticence on the part of Africans towards black Americans. The black American had a patronizing attitude towards Africa. It was this 'can we help you in your backwater country' sort of thing. Their outlook, due to their indoctrination, was completely American. You see, their indoctrination, was completely American. You see, the black man in the United States has not been taught his own past and this has made him shameful of his past. It is all changing now, fortunately."

Another African diplomat, who asked to remain anonymous, spoke favorably of the New York scene and said he admired the informality of Americans. He particularly liked the American way of putting everyone on a first-name basis, or as he said, "The American is so casual and he talks to you like a man."

This same diplomat said he did find isolated pockets of prejudice, usually encountered in bars. "You go into a pub with another African, sit at the counter and the man will serve you. Then, on hearing your voice, he asks, 'Do you come from Jamaica?' or 'Are you a member of the U.N.?' The moment you tell him you are with the U.N., it's okay."

For all the striking differences of attitude exhibited by various members of the international community, many do need help or guidance and there are organizations to assist them.

Probably the most active organization is the New York City Commission to the United Nations. This official city agency was created in 1962 at the suggestion of the then permanent representative of the United Nations, Adlai Stevenson. In 1966 Mayor John V. Lindsay established an enlarged commission with headquarters directly across the street from the United Nations.

The commission, headed by Frances Loeb, wife of investment banker John Loeb, is staffed by five full-time and three part-time professionals, paid by the city, and 40 volunteers. In 1968 this group handled 1,450 requests for assistance. Surprisingly, from this multitude of cases, there was only one complaint of color discrimination. Rather the cases involved matters of theft, traffic violations, tax problems, questions on divorce laws and such housing problems as rent guidelines and lease renewals.

On the general matter of proper housing, Sarah Goddard, executive director of the commission, says, "In our experience, the real estate community has been reluctant to rent to the diplomat. Any discrimination we perceive is not based on color, but it is against the diplomat with his immunities and privileges."

"We realize the need for educational seminars on household management and consumer education. Our primary concern is to define the problem and get the person to the seminar. I might add they have been a great success."

The commission's programs operate on a good many levels, running a gamut from penury care, which provides a place where a mother can leave her child one afternoon a week, to the services and co-operation of the good housekeeping institute to demonstrate the different facilities with which the foreign visitor is confronted.

Miss Goddard said, "Our prime responsibility is to be the mayor's official liaison between the city and the United Nations. I think we're plugged in successfully at a whole lot of levels."

Did Garrison Subvert Law?

by MERRIMAN SMITH

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) Backstairs at the White House.

The Jim Garrison-Clay Shaw case in New Orleans continues to come alive from time to time, due largely to energetic efforts by various journalists to bring this episode into some kind of perspective.

One of the more recent efforts was by Warren Rogers, chief of the Look magazine Washington bureau who in the current issue of his magazine, accuses Garrison, the New Orleans district attorney, of having built his John F. Kennedy assassination conspiracy case on a "jerry-built house of cards" and for having "coaxed, threatened, bribed, drugged and hypnotized witnesses."

Ultimately, Garrison lost his conspiracy case against Shaw, but then he had Shaw indicted for perjury. Garrison may pursue the perjury case, but it appears doubtful he will get a conviction if, indeed, it ever comes to trial.

The Rogers article recalls some of this reporter's experiences with Garrison in early March of 1967.

UPI at that time reported in a 7,000-word article that Garrison's conspiracy case was based at best on the self-serving whispers of informants who for the most part were aberrational strangers in the night.

One recalls sitting in the den of Garrison's lovely suburban home, watching him drink a nauseous concoction of gin and cream soda.

Garrison, an enormous man, paced around his study with his suit jacket off and an empty .38 revolver holster flapping on his hip. This visitor inquired about the empty holster. Garrison explained that because of threats in the case, he and his top staff members were wearing concealed weapons for self-protection, that they even held occasional practice sessions on a target range, but that he had an awful habit of forgetting the gun and wearing the holster.

This was in the period when the DA was maintaining stoutly in public that he knew who killed JFK and arrests would be coming along shortly. He also professed what seemed to be a dream or ambition to nail at least one member of a prominent New Orleans private club to which he had no access, and involve at least one member of the management of a New Orleans newspaper as pals, cronies or accomplices of Shaw.

I told him I had heard that in his office safe down at the Court House he had what he claimed was the original Kennedy murder weapon.

"How did you know that?" he shot back over another gin and cream soda.

Before I could respond, big Jim continued with a wink and whisper (there was no one else in the room; his wife had given up mixing his drinks and gone upstairs).

"Well, let me tell you this, just between us—that rifle I have downtown is exactly like the one that killed Kennedy and no one will ever know the difference."

At another point, he claimed Kennedy was shot from the front by a bearded man who had disguised a sawed-off rifle as an umbrella.

When I returned to my hotel in the pre-dawn hours, one of the chief figures in the Garrison case whom I had been searching for with some difficulty, telephoned.

He wanted to warn me that I was being slowly gassed to death by enemies unknown with deadly fumes seeping in through tiny holes hidden in the wallpaper design.

I told him the walls of my room were not covered by wallpaper, but consisted of stark white plaster.

"They're getting more clever all the time," he said and hung up.

Such was the atmosphere at the start of a celebrated case in which the chief suspect was quickly cleared by a jury of his local peers; a case which the district attorney of Orleans Parish lost ignominiously while leaving a trail of flamboyant publicity and a few broken lives behind him.

As Warren Rogers wrote in Look:

"Public apathy and official indifference to the plight of one man have allowed another, armed with enormous power conferred by the ballot, to subvert our legal system. Perhaps more. In a land supposedly governed by laws and not men, what have we all lost?"

How to milk a Long Distance call for all it's worth.

Here are some neat little tricks of the trade that will help you get more out of the minutes and the money you spend on a Long Distance call.

The Old Eggtimer-by-the-Phone Trick: Just keep one of those three-minute egg timers next to the phone when you dial. It's a great help for people who just don't know when to say goodbye.

The Old Talk-a-Little-Longer

Trick: After the first three minutes, a call is charged in one minute increments. So if you talk for three-and-a-half minutes, you might as well talk for four minutes, since it won't cost any more.

The Old Station-to-Person Trick: Not sure the one you want will be there? Think about this: you can often make two station-to-station calls for about the cost of one person-to-person call.

If you want to learn more neat tricks of the trade, just write to Illinois Bell, Box LD-30D, 225 W. Randolph, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

We'll send you a free folder, "How to Get More for Your Money on Long Distance Calls," with tips taken right from the Operator's manual.  Illinois Bell

The Way We See It

At Least, Let's Talk

The best way to face a problem is to sit down and pick it apart.

That seems a simple enough truth, but it apparently hasn't been fully grasped in the debate over whether to form a community unit district linking Lake Park High School and its five feeder elementary districts.

Officials of Lake Park Dist. 108 are definitely interested in the consolidation idea, and would like a thorough discussion with elementary district representatives of the advantages and disadvantages.

Representatives of three of the elementary districts — Roselle, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville — rallied to a call for talking the idea out, and seeing if it would work for them.

Already, with those three districts and the Lake Park district having had a preliminary meeting, there has been progress. Formed was the Consolidation Study Committee for Lake Park High School and Coterminous Elementary School Districts, with a first formal meeting set for Oct. 1.

Hopefully, the committee will be made up of three representatives from each school district, not necessarily all school board members. Total potential committee membership, with all six districts involved, would be 18.

The rub is that the Itasca and Medinah districts have in effect been "dragging their feet," indicating they'd prefer no active participation in the talks. Medinah Dist. 11 did inform the group it would like to see the results of the survey, but didn't want to actively take part. There is some hope that Itasca representatives might join in, but nothing definite to indicate that yet.

Whatever the feelings of the Itasca and Medinah representatives toward consolidation, they should join in the talks.

At the very least, they have nothing to lose and possibly very much to gain.

But beyond that, the consolidation study idea deserves full participation. All the districts are involved, and any district not at least discussing the idea would be abdicating responsibility toward its students, the neighboring districts and the educational system.

Suggestions that not enough information is available do not hold up. First of all, there is plenty of information available from both the state and DuPage county on the merits or lack of them in unit districts. And secondly, even if information were not readily available, the purpose of a study group is to dig it out, and examine it.

The whole idea of unit districts may, in fact, be an inevitability for every school body in Illinois. The state office of public instruction has openly encouraged such consolidation, and there is a distinct possibility that the upcoming constitutional convention may write rules making it financially impossible to stay a single district.

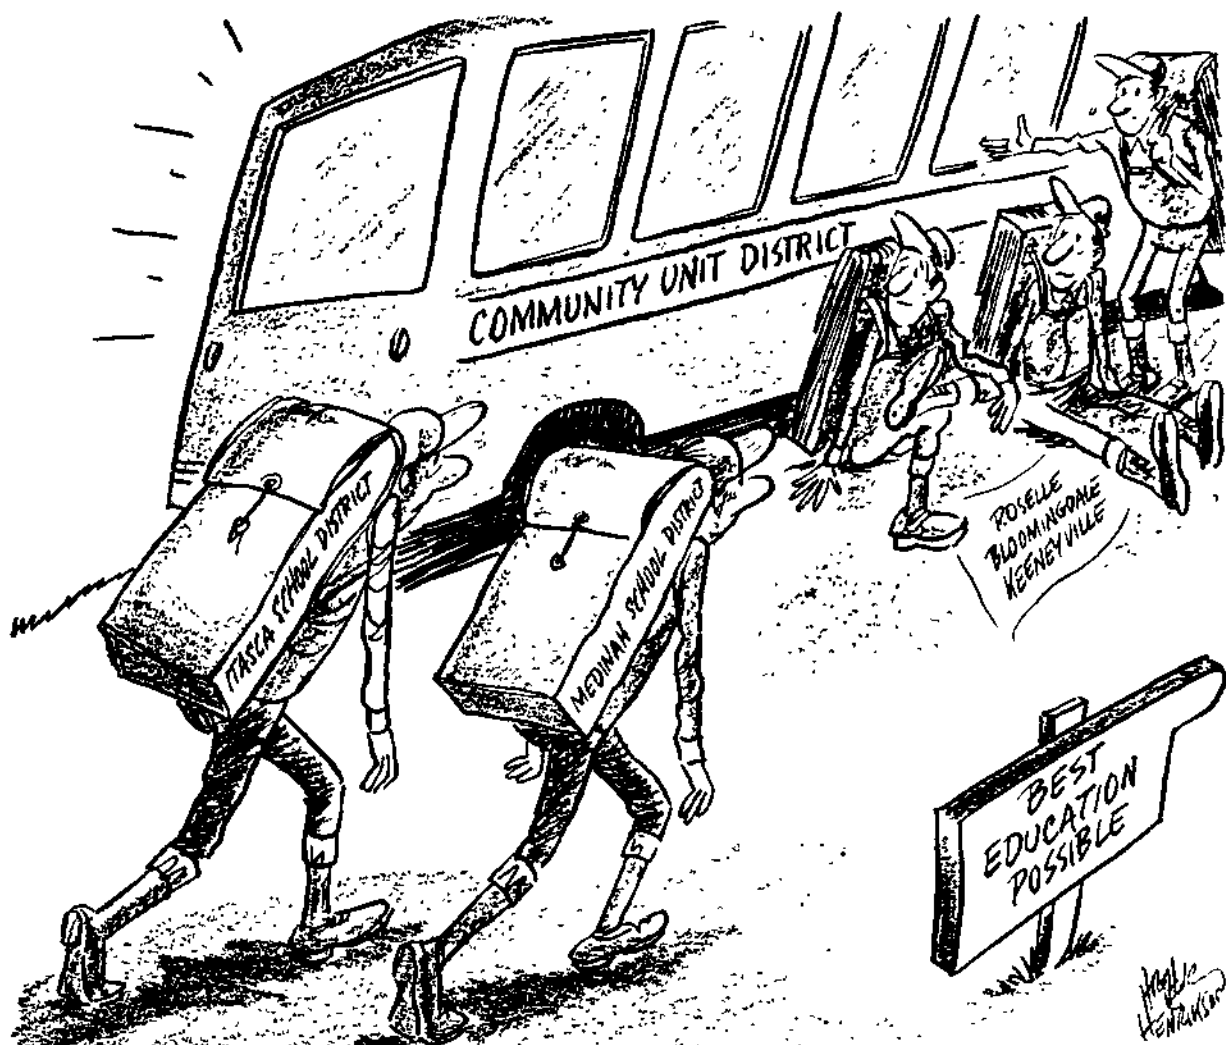

Advantages of unit districts already have been well documented, among them: single board of education, with more efficient operation; single superintendent, with saving of costs; ability of staff to hire more specialized personnel which one district couldn't afford; single taxing district; savings in purchases by buying larger amounts; more efficient sharing in bus service, janitor service, lunch programs, health programs, legal fees.

Lake Park and the districts feeding it may find that these advantages aren't sufficient to justify consolidating.

So, for that matter, might Fenton High School Dist. 100 and its feeder districts in Wood Dale and Bensenville, which have let initial rumblings about consolidation fall by the wayside.

But — advantage or disadvantage — all these districts will never know until they sit down together and talk about it.

Why Not? We're All Going the Same Direction

Big Babs Baby, I Miss You

by RICK FRIEDMAN

Elinor Kaine's been getting a lot of newspaper space lately. And radio and television time, too.

Elinor Kaine is a syndicated woman sports writer who, through an attorney, filed suit in Superior Court claiming she was refused admission to the press box at the New York Giants - New York Jets exhibition football game in New Haven because of her sex. The Yale Bowl, where the game is to be played, has a male-only press box.

Elinor Kaine won her suit, will be in the formerly male-only press box at Yale Bowl, and the world has moved another inch.

Hey, Elinor, you'll never hold a pencil to Big Babs.

THE FIRST TIME I saw Big Babs she was sitting there in Toots' place in New York City. You just had to look at her once — to notice the way she chewed on her copy pencil — to realize, Elinor Kaine, that there was a real sports writer.

The thing about Big Babs that grabbed us sports fans was that she looked like a real pro sports writer would look. Bored expression on her lined face from watching too many late-season double-headers which couldn't affect the final standings. Calloused fingers, toughened by years of filling in the small boxes in basketball score books. Squinty eyes that had looked into too many autumn suns to catch a number on a football jersey.

I LOVED to just sit there in Toots' near Big Babs' chipped elbow, watching her work. Ol' Whitley or the Mick would come in to Toots' and pass her table with a "Hi, Big Babs Baby" (no ballplayer, no matter how big, could afford to ignore her).

Big Babs would look up kind of slow like, grin that big, infectious country girl grin of hers, and say something like: "Stick it in right there in the ol' mitt, Ol' Whitley Baby!"

Big Babs had a grip of steel and she liked to challenge the ball players to a test of hand strength. Some of the old gang at Toots' still claim that the trouble with Ol' Whitley's pitching arm a few years back happened because he was too proud to give up once when Big Babs outgripped him.

WATCHING BIG BABS handle an interview was like watching Joltin' Joe go after a flyball in his prime. It wasn't so much what she asked, it was the way she asked it.

Rick Friedman

She'd nod her head slowly for some kid shortstop to sit down, all the time binging on the end of the pencils she endorsed for ads in "Sports Illustrated."

The kid shortstop would nervously sit down, knowing he was in the big stadium of sports writing for the first time in his career.

Squinting, chin down, Big Babs would lean forward in the direction of the rookie shortstop. Then, in one great graceful sweeping motion of her right arm, she would reach behind her into a back slacks pocket, pull out her big notebook and flip it onto the table directly in front of that rookie — open to the first clean page! "Relax, Slats baby," she would say. "We'll just play this here interview one question at a time."

THEN THERE WOULD be a tattoo of questions the likes of which the kid shortstop had never experienced in any Triple-A league.

"You expect to have a great year, Slats baby, I noticed you're sitting different than you did when you were in the American Association, these demonstrations bothering you, Slats Baby, you being from Canada and all that, hey, you getting in any trouble from the Americans on your team because you come from Canada, the big blackout didn't sit well with the fans here in New York, they say it was your country's fault you know those bums in the bleachers they never forget and they can sure get on minority groups and foreigners like you, you being from a small berg like Toronto, I hope you got no fear of playin' front of large crowds, I hear you sing rock 'n' roll, how'd you like me to book you into a night club I own a hunk of in Ho-Ho-Kus, N.J."

Once, after just such a great interview, I asked her, "Gee, Miss Big Babs, where'd you learn to become such a fabulous sports writer?"

"It's nuttin', really, kid," she answered modestly, flexing her 10 writing fingers (she could scribe with either hand).

The last time I saw Big Babs was right before the 1965 World Series. Then, a couple of days later, I walked into Toots' and she was gone from her accustomed stance at her favorite table.

ONE RUMOR HAD her in Havana looking into charges by Fidel Castro that there was an unwritten agreement among the major league baseball owners to keep him from ever pitching in the United States.

Another rumor had Babs checking out a third major league Hoffa was supposed to be starting.

Now, reading about Elinor Kaine, my thoughts return to Big Babs and I fondly remember those old days in Toots' place when she would sit there at her favorite table and bring tears to Ol' Whitley's eyes as she outgripped him.

Wherever you are now, Big Babs, in my score book you are still the greatest.

The Political Beat

Peril Lurks in Inflation and Taxes

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

The public sector of the economy is moving up fast in spiraling costs, the payment for expanding services and their administration. It extends all the way from local government and schools to state operations at Springfield and federal government at Washington.

The same taxpayer is carrying the total load, and that load isn't getting any lighter. The fact that there has been a change in political climate doesn't seem to make any difference anywhere.

The reason would normally be ascribed to an expanding economy, a growing population and a more equitable distribution of income which by some is frowned on as a disappearance of "aristocratic values."

The creation of more wealth with a desire for a more democratic sharing of this much sought after goal builds the pressure for better education and a higher standard of living.

All this, it must be said, is on a materialistic level. If there were no other conditioning influences at work, all these factors would build up pressure for more taxes.

BUT OTHER influences, and decisive ones, are and have been at work over the past few years so that the economic and financial confusion that exists today is not an accident. It was predictable.

We are told that there was practically no inflation in our economy from the late 1950's to 1964. It was then that the desire to intervene in East Asia to stop the communists began to become articulate. Today, the figures say that war in Vietnam is costing $36 billion annually.

This was the catalyst that spurred inflation and intensified poverty in America. It broadened the need for what appears to be an ever-widening welfare program that is going to cost a lot more in tax dollars.

The President displayed political courage when he proposed a revolutionary program to straighten out the poverty-welfare crisis. With election year just over the horizon, taxes, war and welfare appear to be shaping up as directly related issues. Inflation is related to them all.

THE NEW WELFARE program, it was frankly stated, would cost more taxes, but as a tax rage-softerner a state "tax sharing" is promised. However, this is bound to become a prime political issue between Republicans and Democrats because Mr. Nixon is seen to have designs South.

Welfare, poverty and the race question are tied together in the poor states versus the rich states, the rural South versus the industrial North, on all these issues. The Nixon plan which calls for a better state balance in the distribution of welfare funds is seen as a bid by the GOP to capture southern loyalty and convert it into Republican votes.

In Illinois, where welfare talks with a loud voice and the racial issue looms large, the same considerations are said to be involved putting the Daley Democrats on the alert. Although on the surface a deep split exists in the state Democratic ranks, welfare, war and taxes carry an unmistakable Republican label. This label could be authentic enough to heal the 1968 Chicago convention neurosis and unite the out-party against their traditional enemy.

THE DEMOCRATS, however responsible or irresponsible they have been in the past, have the material from which criticism is made, criticism about government by Republicans that is bound to be listened to.

The rising costs in the public sector that have much to do with personnel look more everyday like a big issue in 1970 at the local level. Teachers, policemen, firemen want cost of living wage and salary increases along with everybody else. In their bargaining with what they call the establishment they feel that they have been kicked around more than they deserve.

Because they have developed a great deal of finesse in the art of organization to achieve their goals, these people can be expected to throw some solid weight around in participation politics.

WHAT APPEARS TO be a certainty is that the vote-getting issues for 1970 are present. The temper of the times says the enthusiasm for participation is accelerating. The political leaders from the lowest to the highest echelons are already beginning to show concern.

This is because citizens are showing a concern in local and county programs. They have an appraising eye to what is going on at the statehouse and under the capitol dome in Washington.

The signs all say that the name of the game today is taxes. So much so that those who seek political preferment in 1970 will want to listen and not do all the talking.

Red Tape Undermines Teen Center

by JUDY COVELL

Just south of Lions Pool in Elk Grove Village is a plot of vacant land approved for construction of a teen center last April. Hundreds of concerned adults and at least as many teens worked hard and long to have the center approved by the village.

As the land remains vacant, these people are probably wondering why they bothered to exert so much effort.

After months of discussion and debate over an acceptable site to the community, and hundreds of hours spent in fund-raising campaigns, the April decision brought apparently unfounded relief to these people. Construction of the center remains bogged down in red tape.

THE LATEST TECHNICAL detail gumming up the works is the village board's refusal to approve the issuance of a building permit until a question of adequate parking is settled. Although building permits are not requirements for school and park construction, the teen center sponsors applied for one so that building inspection would insure the safety of the center.

Board members may be commended for their concern for adequate parking provisions in a village overpopulated with cars. But it's about time to show a little confidence in the people who exerted their time and effort to provide a place for teens to congregate.

Concern for parking space is fine, but if action isn't taken soon, an even larger concern for the unorganized activities of youth might be made necessary.

The board as a whole cannot be condemned for its procrastination. Several members have repeatedly fought for action to no avail in this area.

THE PARKING problem is recognizable. Only 13 stalls have been provided for by the center. But just adjacent to the center is a parking lot for Lions Pool with provisions for 38 cars. A consolidation of the parking lots has been suggested by the park district, with plans to develop a parking lot in adequate space near the center when funds are available.

Teens have indicated they'd be willing to park their cars in the Elk Grove High School parking lot and walk to the center if necessary. This should be enough to show the board just how much the teens want the center as soon possible.

As you're driving west through Elk Grove Village on Higgins Road just west of King Street there is a sign which says, "If you lived in Elk Grove Village you'd be home now."

If village officials would take time out to look at that sign, maybe they'd be more willing to do their part in making Elk Grove Village home for ALL of its residents.

On Grapes: 'Didn't Think...'

By definition, an editorial is an expression of opinion; however, a responsible editorializer derives an opinion only after a careful researching of the many facets in any complex situation. May I suggest that Mr. Dan Baumann's editorial concerning the grape boycott was a monumental example of arriving at an opinion with only cursory thought.

Mr. Baumann states that the grape boycott has gathered no momentum. After many months, the California grape growers are finally beginning to meet with the strikers. The preliminary meetings would never have been held if the growers were not feeling the financial pinch brought on by the boycott.

Mr. Baumann finds it curious that the unionized employees in the stores selling grapes are not out on a picket line. Here too, Mr. Baumann shows a lack of careful thought. One of the groups traditionally responsible for the continuing status quo of minority groups has been unions, certainly not all unions, but many. Note the labor problems in Chicago dealing with the construction union and the teacher union. One might ask Mr. Baumann when the last time a union, with a majority of whites, went out on strike to support a union consisting of Mexican-Americans or Afro-Americans?

Mr. Baumann's naivete in these areas can perhaps be explained by a lack of careful research. However, there is an attitude expressed in his editorial that can not be explained away. Mr. Baumann's article serves as a monument to white, suburban, non think. He suggests that all concerned "fly out to California" as if anyone who is human obviously has the monetary wherewithal to purchase a plane ticket. He suggests that some would find "the idea of a new Selma" appealing.

May I remind Mr. Baumann that the purpose of the activities in Selma was not to be appealing or attractive to the suburbanite. Honestly, there were more serious goals to be accomplished.

Finally, and most upsetting, is the suggestion that the only way to show support and concern for one of the pressing social needs of our day is to go to the geographical source. Carry this idea to its logical conclusion — if one is not out "there" with "them" then one has no right to be concerned; and what is more, one has no right to do anything about his concerns. This is a provincial, illiberal expression of an attitude that has done much to perpetuate the social ills in our society.

In conclusion, I would like to suggest that Mr. Baumann's rather feeble attempt at an equivocal dealing with the boycotters' demands not reaching fruition shows that writing well needs as much work as thinking well. Would that Mr. Baumann had done a little more thinking and a little more working before he allowed his editorial opinion to be published.

...Is Baumann a 'Fallen-away Liberal'...

Dan Baumann's "Monday" column indicates he is among those who find in grapes a fine choice of weapons against the slings and arrows of outrageous modern times. Sounding like nothing so much as a fallen-away liberal, impatient with an endless parade of good works, he berates "a handful of zealots who find it easier to harass their neighbors than to do something meaningful about the grape strike." He recommends mass transit to Washington or California to bring pressure directly to bear on those responsible for the situation. Trying to get rid of inside agitators, Mr. Baumann?

Aside from the impracticality of husbands and housewives trying a Selma approach, who would be quicker than the press or the public, now frantically buying up every grape in sight, to criticize those who attempted to do such a thing? And good news that he is, doesn't he know that every method of pressure has already been brought except a mass consumer boycott?

Today we all have many aggravations and frustrations. We are all weary of "causes," of the ABM, the war, the ghetto, the youth of the nation, and so on. But we are not without power, however limited it is, to effect change in this world. We should be grateful to those willing to give up precious weekend time to remind us of our few opportunities to fight the good fight and with such a bloodless weapon: passing up one goody among many better, however much the grape is presently overrated.

It is said that a person is rich in proportion to the number of things he can do without. Local merchants have said they will be glad to avoid ordering grapes if the public avoids buying them. Only the public can prevent grape sales.

But of course, the public, like Mr. Baumann, has the option of hanging all its annoyance with reminders of the inequities in our society on the backs of the harvesters who are at the end of a long, hard, decent fight for a place in the shade. We congratulate those who are helping them by resisting oppression in all its false faces, and who refuse to be tired of the hard work of making opportunity more nearly equal.

Pickers may cause some people a "pain in the neck." The fact remains that so far, nothing else has been enough to embarrass anyone into giving harvesters rights every other sector of labor has long enjoyed. Take an aspirin, Dan, and avoid the forbidden fruit. You'll feel better.

... 'Picketing Has Merit' ...

Dan Baumann in his editorial "He's Sour on Grape Issue," August 11, says "asking consumers to stop using a product entirely is unrealistic and unlikely to bear fruit." He also believes "picketers find it easier to harass their neighbors than to do something meaningful about the plight of the grape workers."

Agreed, there are many different ways to help the grape pickers and trying to persuade a busy customer may not be the easiest or the best way, but it is a way that has some merits. Inner city (Chicago) food stores have in the past removed the grapes from their shelves in response to a consumer campaign organized by the Church Federation and Operation Breadbasket.

Mr. Baumann, even though these "picketers are not in California, letting involved at the source", they are "bringing about the direct pressure on the growers" you advocate. Because by closing enough markets to grapes, simply the financial losses will encourage the growers to sit down and negotiate with their workers.

A union, an honest to goodness union for agricultural workers, is the goal of the grape strikers and their supporters, not governmental programs or charity. Sure, Mr. Baumann, it may be a long struggle (in fact, agricultural workers have been

... 'Issue Phony'

Your Dan Baumann hit the nail squarely on its head with his August 11 commentary on the phony grape issue. Like him, I'm ready to fill up my refrigerator with enough of the grapes to show those overheated troublemakers that they can't tell me what I can or cannot buy in a supermarket.

That's a pretty lousy trick, getting the Jewel Food Stores to fight your battles for you via threats and pressure.

Let those knee-jerk liberals put their time to better use, like fighting excessive taxation and galloping inflation.

Church Committee Supports Boycott

To supplement your August 4 story, we of the Committee on Community Life at St. James Church are also supporting the grape boycott.

We agree with Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati who has said that the grape workers are "among the forgotten Americans suffering the privation and human indignity of poverty and social injustice."

The bishops of California have declared that "genuine, lasting peace" will not be achieved until the grape workers are included under the National Labor Relations Act.

We are not eating grapes until this end is achieved. We hope many persons in Arlington Heights will join us in this boycott of grapes.

'No Soviet Space Race Lead'

Recently Astronaut Frank Borman, while visiting Leningrad, referred to "the lead" the Soviets have in space flights. The Colonel apparently has been duped by Communist propaganda.

Frank Borman seems to be unaware, for example, that in October of 1957, when the Russians desperately needed a photograph of Sputnik to prove to the world that it had in fact made a successful orbital flight, they circulated what turned out to be an exact reproduction of the photograph of a satellite model on Page 129 of the January, 1956 issue of "Popular Science" magazine.

Is Colonel Borman also unaware of the fact that America's space program has been deliberately sabotaged? Consider the following evidence: In 1957 Igor Gouzenko, who had served as a Code Clerk in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, Canada, and who was instrumental in exposing parts of the vast Soviet espionage network covering Canada and the United States, wrote a letter to President Eisenhower in which he observed: "The fact that the United States, with its advanced scientific and material resources, was not able to launch the first earth satellite should be the subject of serious thought and investigation. In my opinion, it indicates the work of well organized spy rings in the United States missile production system. These rings on the one hand are pumping out of the United States valuable scientific and other information and on the other hand are sabotaging and delaying the United States missile effort under all kinds of seemingly logical excuses."

Just what one of these "seemingly logical excuses" may have been revealed by labor columnist Victor Riesel in May of 1961 in a story headlined: "Unions Killed U.S. Chances of Having First Astronaut." Officials of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at Cape Kennedy insisted that cables in the communications system between astronaut Alan Shepard and ground control, cables which had already been produced at the Towson, Maryland, plant of the Bendix Corp., be destroyed and then rebuilt at the base in Florida by local union men. Congressional leaders who became aware of these developments stated that were it not for such "union-made delays" the United States would have put a man in space ahead of the time claimed by the Russians.

In 1968 the "liberal" news media continued their efforts to perpetuate the myth of superior Russian space achievements by heaping praise on the Soviets for allegedly making the first soft landing on the moon. Dr. Medford Evans wrote a masterful article in "American Opinion" for April, 1966, not only debunking that Communist stunt, but, of equal importance, revealing the constant Communist bias of Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank observatory in England. One paragraph from that article shows why the entire piece is well worth rereading:

"Lovell has hardly begun — and if he has begun it must be very hard — to purge himself of complicity in the Big Red Lie. Unretracted are flat statements such as: 'Lunik III was launched (in October 1959) in an orbit around the moon and transmitted photographs of the hidden side to earth — an entirely justifiable and wonderfully executed scientific feat.' 'Exploration of Outer Space,' Harper, 1963, p. 79.) That in the face of evidence adduced by Lloyd Mallan, and never refuted, that the 'photographs of the hidden side of the moon were not photographs at all, but paintings in which experts could discern brush strokes.' (See 'Popular Photography,' April 1960, pp. 51-53, 92-97.)"

The same Lloyd Mallan, by the way, has also proved conclusively that the Soviets' alleged walk in space in 1965 was a complete fraud. In a series of articles published by "Science & Mechanics" magazine in 1966, Mallan, who lists the three-dozen experts he interviewed while preparing his expose, demonstrates that the Russians merely made a film in a movie studio, the way any science fiction movie is made, but passed it off on gullible NBC as the real thing. And Mallan constantly emphasizes the fact that most of the American news media play a big role in perpetuating the myth of Soviet superiority.

Before you accept the myth of Soviet space superiority check the above mentioned facts and then ask yourself, why has this information not been brought to the public's attention.

SMART GIRLS! Mrs. Joseph Yavra of Mount Prospect, left, and Mrs. Jack Tures of Des Plaines conserve their energy for the game with the aid of a motorized golf car. "Many women prefer a car or a cart to a caddy," says Medinah pro John Marshall, "because they are self-conscious about being observed."

Ladies on the Golf Green

The 'Early Bird' Swingers

by MARY B. GOOD

All of the swingers I know hardly get to sleep before 6 a.m. So what possesses sane, sensible women to rise at the crack of dawn for a sweaty round of golf.

To these Swingers, the 43 lady golfers in the early bird league at Old Orchard Country Club, this is summer suburban living.

The action was inside the women's locker room as exhilaration heightened for the ladies who range in age from 23 to 60.

"I couldn't sleep all night just waiting for today," said one mother, a new member of the Swingers Golf League.

A trio of blondes bustled in to pick up their partners, and remarked on the utter ecstasy of solitude on the fairways . . . no children, no phones, no interruptions, just the grass and the sun and that little white ball to move around.

I FOLLOWED ONE foursome to the greens, three excellent golfers and one lady who could pass for 25 but admitted to grandmotherhood.

"I never had a lesson in my life," she confided.

At the first tee, she swung vigorously — and missed. She changed to a nine iron, holding it like a baseball bat.

The divot went flying but the ball stood still. She dubbed it again and again. It was amazing that with all her misses, the score she turned in was lower than another who drove the ball 250 yards!

"Your partner cheats," I whispered to the would-be Patty Berg.

"HIT IT LIKE A marshmallow" new female golfers are advised by pro Elaine Greco. Mrs. Kenneth Willert of Mount Prospect tries it.

IT TAKES AN exceptional golfer not to miss at least one of the nine holes with water hazards on the Mount Prospect Park District Golf Course. Mrs. Joe Fletcher of Mount Prospect retrieves an errant ball.

Elaine Greco, golf professional at the Mount Prospect park district golf course, said: "Women don't let other women get away with it for long; they are very rule-conscious. A man — he's easier to play with; his interest is in hitting a long ball as a source of masculine strength; it feeds his ego."

THE LADY GOLF pro has "all the sympathy in the world" for lady golfers. (They are much maligned for holding up play, for talking too much and other transgressions.)

"But look at a woman's natural swing — it shows rhythm, timing and coordination. A woman doesn't kill the ball with the golf stick like a man does, and is therefore easier to teach. We tell them to hit it like a marshmallow."

Lou Sabo, Old Orchard Country Club pro, who has been known to remove duffers from the links, concurs with other local pros that any fledgling golfer take about six lessons before she gets out on the course — to avoid embarrassment and add to her enjoyment.

"Women get depressed when they do poorly."

FEW WOMEN GET out on the Medinah Country Club course without having had a lesson (they had better not). Through the guarded gates of the Midwest's reputed finest country club, we mingled in the parking lot beside Cadillacs and Lincolns.

John Marshall, Medinah's handsome pro, believes women take the game more seriously than do men. Sixty-five per cent of his students are women. They start playing in their 30's.

"It's an interesting thing with women," Marshall commented, "that they seldom take caddies. Women are more self-conscious about others watching them play."

Men are so much more stronger and powerful, so how can a woman ever hope to compete? "Women compensate for their lack of power on the fairway, by becoming proficient around the greens — on approach shots, putts and sand shots," commented Elaine Greco.

I CUT ACROSS the fairways at Mount Prospect Golf Course to find Tri-City Leaguer Mrs. William Mott of Mount Prospect, who organized this pioneer ladies golf league during the early 1940's along with Mrs. Harold Ragland, Mrs. Carl Hammerl and others. It was like battle-front combat as the golf balls came flying from several directions. The Tri-City League (originally women from Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines) has a long waiting list, and its members are divided about 50-50 between good golfers and beginners.

To be a good golfer, according to John Marshall, a woman must play about 12 hours a week. I got so I could spot the good golfers. They all have deeper tans.

A Baby Is Born

There's No Place Like Home

Having your baby at home was the accepted way in great-grandma's day, but today it's a rare woman who chooses an "at home" delivery over the hospital variety.

But that was the choice of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hanus of 642 S. Warren, whose second son, Paul David, is now three weeks old and gaining almost daily.

The Hanuses would have preferred to have husband Mike present at the birth of their first son, Michael, now 2, but knowing that few hospitals permit the father to be present in the delivery room, they didn't pursue the idea.

Through the LaLeche League, a non-profit organization which promotes nursing as opposed to bottle-feeding, Mrs. Hanus learned about a Franklin Park doctor who delivers babies at home as well as in the hospital.

WITH TRUE, feminine persistence, Mrs. Hanus finally persuaded the doctor to help her after she became pregnant the second time. When it seemed likely that baby Paul was about to make his appearance July 27, the doctor left church to confirm the fact and remained with the Hanuses all Sunday afternoon, even joining them for chicken dinner cooked by the expectant mother. Baby Paul arrived at 6:25 p.m. and 15 minutes later, his mother said in joyful recollection, "I was holding him in my arms in the rocking chair, nursing him."

Enthusiastic about having her husband present at delivery, she now plans "definitely to have all my children this way."

Besides having hubby there to encourage, she also liked being able to nurse Paul every two hours, with the result that he gained after birth instead of losing weight as most hospital-born infants do.

SHE WAS ALSO relieved not to be separated from Michael more than the few hours that he was out of the house on that eventful Sunday since the boy had been in the hospital himself a week only two months previous. He has adjusted to having a baby in the house very well, his mother said.

Neighbors were aware of the Hanus intention to have the home delivery. A few minutes after Paul's arrival, the proud father went outdoors and set off firecrackers to announce the birth, and neighbors immediately flocked outside to offer their congratulations.

Also present at the birth and lending a hand to Dr. Gregory White, a general practitioner, was Mrs. Hanus' mother, Mrs. Frank Nomellini of Mount Prospect. MOTHER AND BABY are doing fine.

Mrs. Hanus was up and about fixing lunch within days of Paul's birth and did some shopping on the following Friday. "But I took advantage of all the offers of help anyhow," she said.

Area Girls To 'Star' at Ball

Looking forward to Memorial Hospital guild's Starlight Ball are two local young women, Janice Brothers and Barbara Capps, both of Addison. They are among the 18 starlets who, as central figures of the ball, will make their formal entrance into adult society, Saturday, Sept. 13, at the Drake Oakbrook Hotel.

Janice Margaret Brothers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Brothers, 412 Cherry Hill Drive, is a senior at Addison Trail High School. She belongs to the Drama Club, was President of the Latin Club and was Sophomore Homecoming Queen.

Biology and Gymnastics are favorite subjects and Jan is undecided which will be her major in college. She is also interested in typing and business courses.

Jan is enthusiastic about modern dance and most sports. Horseback riding, water skiing, and roller skating are her favorites and she wishes she could try sky diving. Photography and a collection of silver spoons from different states are her hobbies.

During the summer Jan has been baby sitting about four days a week. Her charges are one and a half and five years old and she says "it is great fun."

Although she has not decided upon her college choice, Jan has been thinking about George Williams College in Downers Grove. Besides her parents Jan has a brother, Kenneth 13.

Barbara Ann Capps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Capps, 124 E. Moreland, is also a senior at Addison Trail High School. English, typing and business courses are her favorite subjects. She belongs to the Racket Squad, Girls Athletic Association, worked on the Homecoming float and was ticket chairman for the Junior Prom. Last year she was voted Junior Playmate of the Year.

Swimming, horseback riding, tennis, and archery are favorite activities, but she especially loves dancing of all kinds — modern, social, and ballet.

Barbara's hobby is a collection of miniature animals and dolls of all nations which decorate her room. Not all of her

STARLET BARBARA CAPPS tidies a bow on her largest stuffed animal, an elephant, and part of a collection representing many countries of the animals are miniature, however. One, an elephant, is almost as big as she is.

To keep busy Barbara has a summer job at the National Tea Store, but does not intend to continue working when she returns to school in the fall. Planning to train as an airline stewardess, Barbara looks forward to an interesting career. Besides her parents her family includes a brother, Richard, 16.

Pink Punch Party Planned

Under an alliterative theme, a "Pink Punch Party" will be given Wednesday, Aug. 20 at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Walter Scott, 511 N. Fairway Lane, Inverness. Co-hostess of the party is Mrs. John Howard, membership chairman of the Woman's Club of Inverness, which is sponsoring the affair.

An invitation is extended to all women of the Inverness community, in particular new residents, to learn about the activities and plans of the Club for the coming year. Directions and further information may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Howard, 358-6768 or Mrs. Scott, 358-4899.

The party will supplement the regular Membership Tea of the Woman's Club held in the fall and is an innovative attempt to reach a greater number of prospective members and assure them that wherever their interests lie, the Woman's Club of Inverness probably has a program to fulfill it.

Rummage Sale

"Come early for the best bargains" state the chairmen of the Friday, Aug. 22, rummage sale being sponsored by the Dorcas Aid of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights. The event will be held in the gymnasium of St. Peter School, 111 W. Olive St., from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

Included in the sale items will be household goods, clothing, accessories, books, games and toys. Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Jack Legg and Mrs. Herman Schwolow.

Household Hints

By United Press International

All vinyl floors should receive regular applications of a protective floor polish to prevent excessive scratching and soiling. Liquid water-emulsion wax self-polishing type is preferable since it can be removed with cleaners which are not injurious to the flooring.

Crabgrass and other grass-type weeds grow more prolifically in hot, wet weather.

When packing for do-it-yourself moving, use as few cartons as possible, but try to limit each box to 30 pounds or less. Smaller cartons are easier to handle than heavier loads.

An annual coat of automotive wax preserves the finish color of wrought iron furniture.

Planning to hire a painting contractor? Save him some time and yourself some money by making basic preparations before he arrives, suggests the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. First, take down curtains, blinds and other wall decorations. Dust the walls and windows. If there are accumulations of grease or grime, wash the walls with a mild detergent solution. Then rinse with clear water. Move all furnishings to the center of the room where they can be covered with protective drop-cloths.

Refinishing a piece of furniture? Remove as much hardware as possible from the piece before beginning to refinish it. Mount drawer pulls, knobs and other decorative pieces on cardboard so you can quickly and easily spray paint or enamel them.

Home Is Deep in the Heart of Texas

San Diego State University students Suzanne Briggs and James Bradley Watt became man and wife during an Aug. 2 ceremony in First Presbyterian Church, Des Plaines. The couple will make their home in Big Spring, Texas, beginning in September, when the groom will be stationed there as second lieutenant in the Air Force.

Suzanne is the daughter of the William R. Briggs, 1322 Cumberland Circle West, Elk Grove Village. James is the son of the Jack Watts of Stockton, Cal.

Wearing a white organza gown re-embroidered with flower sprays, the bride was given away by her father. The floor-length mantilla matched the dress. Suzanne carried White Elegance carnations with deep pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids Melinda Ochs, Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Kristi Milligan, Ripley, Ohio, both cousins of the bride, wore pink on white flowered print gowns with short sleeves and matching hot pink velvet bows at the empire waists. The flowers were casades of light and Elegance Pink carnations with baby's breath.

RICHARD GREYER, Stockton, was best man; Lawrence Shriber, Stockton; William Ochs, the bride's cousin from Shaker Heights; and Tom Briggs, Elk Grove Village, served as ushers.

Four-year-old Elizabeth Ostap, Elk Grove Village, was flower girl in a floor length petal pink dress. She carried a nosegay of the bridesmaids' flowers.

Pink was the choice of both the bride's and the groom's mothers for the occasion. The bride's mother's dress was a light pink wool and silk worsted with matching coat and jeweled collar. The groom's mother's dress was a deep pink lace. Both wore sweetheart roses.

Following a dinner reception at the Park Ridge Inn for 75 guests, the couple departed for a week-long honeymoon at The Abbey in Lake Geneva.

Suzanne, who attended Mount Prospect High School her freshman year, was a senior majoring in dance at the time of her marriage.

"Investments?" hooted the suburbanite. "Let's invest in taxes — that's the only thing today that's going up!"

But the homeowner may be pleasantly surprised to learn that landscaping can be profitable, though not the sort of investment that has immediate "cash-in" value. Well-maintained grounds, which highlight the home architecture, do have an effect on the price and saleability of a home, says the Ornamental Growers Association of Northern Illinois. Many times the prospective buyer's first impression clinches a sale.

Further, says the O.G.A., shrubbery destroyed through storm damage is entirely deductible as an income tax loss. The worth of a small plant is its current replacement value. With a larger shade tree, too large to be replaced at any cost — the value is determined according to a formula worked out by a national shade tree organization. When properly applied, it stands up in tax cases.

A DELIGHTFUL weekend car trip might be a ride to the Illinois State Fair in Springfield.

Did you know that scientists have found grass helps quiet a noisy neighborhood? Merion sod squares were tested a la acoustical ceiling tiles and found to absorb sound better than carpets. Testers also found balsam fir trees absorb sound very well.

Small gray moths flying over your grass when you mow? That's a sign of webworm troubles. Look closer and you'll find silky nets or tunnels at a point just below the soil level. Treatment calls for an insecticide application of diazinon, sevin or chlordane for this as well as another August pest, the chinch bug.

ACCORDING TO AN article in the current issue of Garden Talk, the magazine of the Chicago Horticultural Society, the tiny little earthworm isn't the garden blessing it's cracked up to be. "Some credit might be given to them (the earthworms) for bringing up fertility from the subsoil, but this is so insignificant that it is hardly worth considering. Ten times as much nitrogen is washed down from the skies in a year's time than is added by earthworms in the richest soil."

A Man and His Music

He's a Musician and Teacher at Heart

by RACHEL HEUMAN

Music department chairman at Fenton High School — director of the Bensenville Peace Church choir — leader of the Bensenville Band — tour guide and traveling musical director — widely sought music judge and guest conductor — all are combined in one slightly built, youthful young man.

Behind the many accomplishments and the vitality of Fred Lewis, the man who fits these descriptions, is a positiveness, proclaimed not by him in so many self-descriptive words, but in his attitude towards himself and his activities. It's a healthy attitude composed of dedication to his art — music — and enjoyment in the people, especially the students with whom he works. It's composed of an honest appraisal of his own talents and abilities.

"I FIND THAT I draw upon the years of experience when I conduct or play or judge something today that, when I first started (about 12 or 13 years ago), I thought I could handle so easily."

"That's what experience teaches you."

Thirteen years is not a long time to accumulate the range of experience Fred Lewis has behind him.

Originally from Charleston, Miss., Lewis came to Chicago as an 18-year-old to go to school. "School" through the years came to include the Vandercook College of Music, the American Conservatory of Music, DePaul and Roosevelt Universities, the Illinois Institute of Technology and the National College of Education. Summer study even took him back to the South to the University of Mississippi and west to Nevada.

Not a fellow to be satisfied with doing one thing at a time, Lewis combined his studying with teaching. At 19 he was a private instructor of woodwinds at Fenton and two years later he became a faculty member and assistant director of bands there.

Today he is chairman of Fenton's three-member music department and personally responsible for the 85-member concert band and the 20-member jazz ensemble. Both groups have earned their own acclamations.

THE 20-MEMBER STAGE, or jazz band, was invited to participate in the International Jazz Festival in Montreux, Switzerland. This year the Festival attracted such American professionals as Ella Fitzgerald and the Lew McMan Trio, in addition to European greats.

The jazz band participated in the Festival during the European tour Lewis conducted this summer for 185 students and 12 chaperones. The concert and jazz band members performed in various spots throughout Germany and Switzerland.

The concert band has won honors at home such as an invitation — one of five issued nationally — to perform for the National Band Clinic attended by approximately 3,000 music teachers.

Lewis takes understandable pride in his performers.

"The kids have come to be fairly strong musicians," he says of them.

HE POINTS WITH almost paternal satisfaction to the fact that in this year's college crop, four students from the same Fenton class will be music teachers.

"One student will be a fine professional jazz player," he enumerated, and several others are on their way to becoming professional musicians.

Aside from these students' own personal motivation, they would probably be among the first to attribute a good part of their vocational decisions to the inspiration they received from Lewis during their high school days.

For him is a pattern of involvement. The jazz band meets after school hours. Lewis sees some of his students in the Bensenville band, works with students during the summer on an individual basis and travels with them on a "hundreds" basis.

Obviously this is a man who cares — who, in his own words, is "addicted to teaching" — that is, addicted to giving of his emotional as well as physical energies.

"I TEACH 25 per cent musicianship, and the rest is maturity, attitudes, general development and a little about life," reveals a man who adds that if he had to make a choice, he would ultimately work with youngsters.

"I particularly enjoy their musicianship, hard work, their fun and frivolity afterwards and their dedication — if they're interested," said Lewis, telling much about himself as an earnest musician and a fellow who knows how to have fun.

For most good teachers their role is time consuming enough but here again, this boyish-looking husband and father of two departs from the norm.

There was the four-year period during which he also taught — on a part-time basis — woodwind at Elmhurst College.

IN ADDITION TO directing the Peace Church choir, guest performances as soloist and conductor and judging solo and ensemble contests throughout Illinois, Lewis is in the final stages of a textbook to be printed sometime this year. The title: "Building a Superior Music Program from Classroom to Concert Hall."

And, of course, there's the Bensenville Municipal Band.

That relationship began back in 1957 when 20-year old Fred Lewis was assistant director and a playing member of the village tax-supported band. In 1961 he succeeded Lynn C. Huffman as director. The band gives eight outdoor concerts during the summer months and is composed of semi-professionals, top high school performers and college music majors.

Band members from surrounding suburbs and the Chicago area perform the light "hummable" selections that Lewis says their basically over-30 audience enjoys.

THOUGH HE FEELS an obligation to his performers to offer them the stimulus of more challenging pieces, Lewis feels an audience deserves to hear what they prefer.

"We're not trying to sell culture," he commented,

What stirs the musicians on then?

"Doing the job as professionally as they can," is the answer. And on an hour and a half rehearsal time a week, that's no small feat.

Though interest in band concerts isn't what it was four to six years ago, Lewis is pleased with the support the Bensenville band enjoys. Village commissioner Bill Hegebarth was instrumental in getting the Milwaukee Railroad to gentile their trumpet blasts as they crossed nearby tracks, "and even O'Hare has cooperated," kids Lewis, referring to the east-west runway that was recently closed for construction purposes.

WHAT DOES A MAN like this do for relaxation? He plays golf — "I'm terrible" — and tries to see more of his wife, a former musician, and his 8 and 6-year-old children, both musically oriented, though to different degrees, their daddy admits.

Does Fred Lewis have any ambitions left? He's considered making the difficult break into the world of professional conducting, but always stops to think that there is still more to do where he is, so concludes, "I'll take things as they come and do what I can here for a while."

I'm Just Drifting

Got No Place To Call Home

by PATRICK McLEAN

With Photos by MIKE SEELING

Tucked away unnoticed in the Northwest suburbs are a few transient hotels. Patrick McLean, a summer intern for Paddock Publications from the University of Missouri, stayed a month in one such hotel to learn who frequents such places and what their lives were like. In this final article, McLean describes the wind-up of his four weeks as a suburban transient.

Most transients are not socialites. Their leisure time is spent sitting in their rooms and drinking beer, watching the color TV and drinking beer or playing cards and drinking beer.

Sometimes they will go "downtown," meaning into Bensenville, and frequent one or more of the local pubs. One favorite place is a bar-hotel, featuring go-go girls and billiards; the place this reporter had tried to get a room in his first night in town.

HERE YOU FIND yourself sitting with two of your transient companions. You're drinking Old Style because that's what your buddies like and besides, the place is out of Bud.

You can see a blonde girl in a white, fringed two-piece outfit dancing on a stage in the next room. When the music stops you can hear click-click sounds coming from the far room, the sound of billiard balls tapping each other.

Directly in front of you, behind the bar, is a red velvet swing hanging from the ceiling. Nobody seems to notice it, except you. "What's this thing for?" you ask one of your friends.

"I don't know," he says. "I guess one of those gals swings on it when there isn't anything else to do. To hell with the thing. Have another beer."

You have another beer and continue watching the red velvet swing, oblivious to the noise and the commotion around you. You feel a tug on your sleeve. "Come on," your friends say. "We're going to the Snake Pit."

YOU SHOOT A parting glance at the red velvet swing as you leave with your friends and you drive to the Snake Pit, a common name for a Bensenville bar near the hotel.

You order three drafts and your two buddies jump off their stools to play shuffleboard. While they're indulging in a heavy game two characters decide they want to have some fun with you. "I don't like that shirt, buddy," they say to you. "That's your problem, not mine," you throw back at them.

"You want to fight, buddy?" one asks you. "Let's go outside."

"I don't want to fight you," you say. "All I want to do is drink my beer. What's the matter with you anyway?"

The bartender comes over and is the two characters out of the place. As they are leaving the two characters tell each other how they "showed that guy up."

Your buddies tie of shuffleboard and come over. "Those punks weren't bothering you, were they?" your buddies ask.

"No, they're just a couple of guys with too much to drink. Can't hold their liquor."

Driving back to the hotel, you ask one of the guys why he lives there. "I don't know. A friend of mine told me it was a good, cheap place to live for a while. I don't need much. All I need is a place to sleep. The Johns are lousy. You know they didn't have any towels up there again this morning? That's two mornings in a row. How are we supposed to dry off?"

It's a good, cheap place to live.

All I need is a place to sleep.

"A lot of the guys work for the railroad and the railroad owns the place. They lease it to a guy who lets the old man work it," he continues.

"A lot of the guys work for the hotel. They earn their room and board and get some spending money to boot. It could be better, but it could be worse," he adds.

"DO THESE GUYS have any roots at all?" you wonder as your friend drones on. And an idea half-forms in your mind.

"Yes they do," you say almost aloud. But not the conventional kind, the house, the two-car garage, the wife, the growing pair of youngsters. These roots are occupational and can be found wherever the railroad has meandered.

Just as you find a close society of first and second level cogs in some vast industrial wheel in any complex labeled suburbia, so too you can find a comparable close society of transients near a railroad. Even though it may revolve around a 12 by 12 foot cubicle, warm beer and sharing related experiences it is there.

You want another beer? one of the guys asks as you near his room.

You notice he doesn't have any locks on his door. "How come?" you ask.

"Well, I'd like to think I could trust people. The day I can't, well, Apparently he couldn't, because you remember someone telling you his radio and electric razor were stolen from his room not too long ago.

YOUR MONTH AS A transient draws to a close. You don't feel that you have really accomplished anything. You want to work there to see if you can learn something more about the place.

You mention to a couple of guys you would like a job. "I'll talk to the boss tomorrow," Jim, the afternoon porter, says.

"Do you know how to work the grill?" he asks. "That's a lot easier than being a porter. All you have to do on the late shift is serve them coffee and make a couple of eggs or hamburgers."

Since you have only two days left before you go to summer camp as part of your U.S. Army Reserve commitment, you go to Jim. "I want to help you a couple of days," you tell him.

He nods his head in affirmation and the two of you begin that afternoon. The first thing you notice about him is his earnestness in performing his duties.

He is an excellent bed-maker. You think you might show him just how to do it, having prided yourself on your extensive knowledge of the art gained while in the army.

But as you talk about it, he is busy. Before you realize it, he has done a workmanlike job. You're non-plussed. "You do a pretty good job," you remark.

"I've been doing it long enough," is his only reply.

When the shift is over at 9 p.m. you both retire to his room and drink lukewarm quarts of beer, something that becomes easier as the night grows longer.

He tells you bits and pieces of his life. He is a drifter, no family, no job outside the hotel. He makes $160 a month plus room and board. He says he will stay here for a while and then maybe move back to Wisconsin, where he had once worked in a cannery.

HE HAS BECOME more and more disturbed because the other porters are not doing a very good job, only enough to get by. He doesn't care for the sudden shift changes he is subject to, if someone else can't work, he has to pull that shift.

You help him a little here, a little there for two days but he knows too much about his job to have you play more than a nominal role.

The two days pass. Summer camp draws near. As a parting gesture you give him the most recent issue of Playboy, whose past center fold-outs he had faithfully tacked on his walls. He seems pleased, showing his weathered smile, but he doesn't say a word.

Summer camp comes and goes. You return just to see if things are still the same. They aren't. Your porter friend has moved on. Someone says he went to the cannery in Wisconsin. Another transient says he said something about coming back.

To most people the railroad, and the transient hotels that sprouted up with them, are a thing of the past. To others, like Jim, it is a very real existence.

WRITING A SERIES on transient hotel life is one thing; telling a suburbanite about it is quite another, relates Paddock staffer Patrick McLean, after spending a month in a Bensenville transient hotel.

Phony Antique Glass Fools Collectors

Glass Loses Value

by BRAD BREKKE

If you're an antique glassware collector, you better watch out.

There's a lot of phony or reproduction glassware floating around antique shops and flea markets in the Northwest suburbs today, and unfortunately some of it is being passed off as authentic at very real prices.

THE PRACTICE ISN'T limited to this area either. It's happening around the country.

So much of it has gone on, in fact, that last June Congressman Louis C. Wyman of New Hampshire introduced a bill which would prohibit the manufacture of unmarked reproduction glassware.

Antique dealers say it takes an expert to distinguish antique glass from the phony reproduction stuff.

And that is why the bill was written to protect collectors of antique glassware against the manufacture in the United States or the importation of imitations of such glassware unless they are permanently and plainly marked with the calendar year in which the product was made.

THE BILL WILL require that each piece of glass manufactured 90 days after enactment of the proposed law have a date of manufacture permanently inscribed in the glass.

Area antique dealers are in full support of the bill.

Mrs. Judith Sirell of the Barrel O' Bygones in Wheeling, said, "I'm in favor of the bill as long as it doesn't prohibit the manufacture of reproduction glassware. I don't believe you can stop someone from making a living. It wouldn't be fair."

"It's very hard to tell antique glass. I'm even skeptical of it myself, so I don't carry much in my shop. Sometimes you can tell by the feel, but not always. The manufacturers of reproduction glassware do a pretty good job of making it look authentic."

DENIS DANIELS, of Decorator's Antiques in Mount Prospect, said he too favored the proposed legislation.

"Reproduction glassware, it's something you can never accuse a dealer of selling as authentic, because if you do, he'll plead ignorance. But there's plenty of it going on around here in the Northwest suburbs."

"I understand that a lot of the stuff is pushed off as real at the various flea markets around here. I've seen it myself."

Reproduction unaware is another problem. Dealers are selling tin items as antique when it isn't. I understand a lot of the stuff is made in Pennsylvania. People put copper and tin items in large containers and soak it in animal urine to age it quickly. Seems some people will go to any length, doesn't it?"

"AND THEN YOU'LL SEE it for sale as a genuine antique lantern or candleholder, only it's not. There's a lot of people interested in that kind of thing out here, so you have to be on the lookout."

"You know, a dealer who sells the phony stuff as real, unknowingly, stands a good chance of ruining his reputation and once you've lost it, no matter how reputable you used to be, you're through."

"Glassware is one of the hardest to tell the old from the reproduction stuff. It takes an expert. That's why I don't have much of it in my store. I'm skeptical."

"They say you should be able to tell old glassware by the feel, whether there is visible wear on the bottom of the piece and whether there are bubbles in it. But you better watch out—those people who manufacture the reproduction stuff they're pretty clever."

A RECENT EDITORIAL in the Antique Trader, a weekly trade organ published in Kewanee, said, "As soon as any kind of antique becomes sought after by the antique collectors and the supply becomes short, invariably some manufacturer makes replicas of it whether it is glass or wood or metal or whatever it is."

"Of all the materials used in making reproductions, glass is the hardest to distinguish from old which makes it the branch of antiques that is most reproduced."

"Every year more and more reproduction branch of antiques that is most reproduced glass is made and unfortunately too much of it is finding its way into antique shops across the country."

"The value of antique glass naturally suffers when reproductions are available at much lower prices. Also inexperienced collectors become afraid to buy, suspicious of whether the item they are looking at is old or new."

"REPRODUCTION GLASS can't help but depress the value of antique glass. It hurts collectors who have valuable collections and indirectly, it hurts the dealers who handle it."

"There is nothing wrong with selling or buying reproductions as long as both the buyer and the seller are aware that the item is reproduction. Unfortunately there are a few unscrupulous dealers and collectors who knowingly misrepresent new glass as being old."

And the legitimate antique dealers? They feel there ought to be a law.

DENIS DANIELS of Decorator's Antiques in Mount Prospect examines an antique glassware item in his shop to be sure it is authentic. He said a lot of unmarked reproduction glassware is floating around antique shops in the Northwest suburbs today and is being passed off as authentic. Antique dealers say it takes an expert to distinguish antique glass from the phony reproductions.

Kurth Comments

PHIL KURTH

"What we have here is a failure to communicate."

That powerful line from "Cool Hand Luke" has been heard time and again, and its unpleasant refrain might have been the theme song for the Roselle-Bensenville American Legion team this summer.

Early in the season, with the team having all kinds of trouble scoring runs, Norm Anderson, obviously perturbed, said: "What are you gonna do? We scheduled a batting practice last night and four guys showed up."

Confronted with their absence from the workout, several players replied in genuine surprise: "What practice?"

Someone didn't get the word, and that's the way it was all summer long.

"There was definitely a lack of communication," admits Anderson. "It seemed half the time these guys weren't listening. I'd tell them something, explain it pretty concisely and clearly as far as I was concerned, and then have one of them ask me a question that indicated he hadn't heard a word I'd said. It got me pretty upset sometimes, you'd wonder if you were getting through to any of them."

It's unfair to choose sides, really, but it's difficult to stand in the middle, and in a way I can appreciate the problems Anderson had trying to coordinate the efforts of a first year team with no time to try to put things together before the season began.

He admits things were not too organized at the beginning, and so occasionally details were forgotten or fouled up.

True players were confused half the time as to what was going on. Every mistake made things worse, they came to expect misdirection and confusion, grew resentful, and any semblance of harmony or unity was lost.

Partly Ray Kutella and Anderson were to blame, partly they weren't. Many of the mistakes were not really theirs, yet they were inevitably saddled with the responsibility for them.

I remember one Saturday afternoon I called Anderson's home to find out where that day's game would be played — the Roselle Park District had pretty well botched up the original schedule which called for several games on the park district field — and discovered that the time of the game had also been changed from 4 p.m. to 1 p.m. and that I was already late.

Assuming that everyone else would be mixed up too, I was kind of surprised to get to the field at Lake Park to find that the players were all there, the usual fans were there, and everything was proceeding quite smoothly. Obviously I was the only one who didn't get the word and it was nobody's fault but my own.

Said Anderson: "I told you at the last game that the time had been changed."

So apparently I was another who wasn't listening, whose mind had wandered for a moment, and who subsequently was a victim of my own confusion. Until I found out the mistake had been my own doing, though, I was a little angry. Some of the players never recognized their own culpability, and so they stayed sulen.

A lack of leadership, of command or authority or whatever you want to call it, also helped keep the team disoriented and unhappy.

Kutella was supposed to be the coach, but he's a quiet kind of guy who said very little to anyone.

At the helm of a team that had played together for awhile, that was a well organized, closely-knit group, he might have done a good job. But what Roselle-Bensenville needed was a dynamic, forceful, aggressive, no-nonsense kind of guy who could take 15 or 20 young men and drill them into a team.

Anderson, who was instrumental in getting legion ball back to the area, had intended to work in the background as a coordinator-advisor of sorts. When it became evident that Kutella was on kind of unsteady grounds, Anderson tried to step in and assume a little more leadership responsibility.

This, of course, only added to the confusion at first.

The players didn't know for sure who was running the team, where the direction was supposed to come from, who they were supposed to turn to. Nobody knew exactly who was doing what, and the rift between players and coaches yawned wider.

Once the bridge of communication, of understanding and respect, was torn down, there was no way to cross the gulf and they stood on different sides, both a little distrustful of the other.

This, then, was the reason for the lack of rapport, of esprit de corps.

Says Anderson, "The kids just didn't want to extend themselves. There wasn't a great amount of desire or pride as a unit most of the time."

Again, the reasons were there to see.

But everyone came in for a share of the blame, including the press. "One of the parents told me that the kids got too much publicity," says Anderson. "He felt they should have come out there just for the sake of playing ball and not to get their names in the paper, and he believed they would have played better without this behind them, that some of them were worried about themselves and looking good in the paper."

I can't swallow that, of course. The guys who came out there to play ball wanted to play ball. Those who didn't quit quickly enough. To suggest that a newspaper is no more than a mirror of vanity not only impugns the character and integrity of sports, but is a personal insult to every athlete, prep or professional.

Anderson agrees, but he does have a gripe about the players that deserves mention.

"All I asked of them was to give me the courtesy of letting me know when they wouldn't be there. They never did, and so I never knew whether I was going to have seven guys or 17 out there for a game and we could never plan a set lineup. This is the kind of respect that was lacking."

There was no excuse for this, of course. Whether or not the players were happy with the leadership during the early, difficult days of the season, they should have exhibited enough cooperation to show common courtesy.

Communication is a two-way street, and the players must take part of the blame for making that street impassable this summer.

What's to happen in 1970? For one thing, there will be time for planning and organizing and wrking out schedules well in advance. Most of the pitfalls that led to this year's headaches can be avoided with the foresight that comes with time and experience.

Strong leadership will be needed from the beginning. Ray Stuckey (who has coached the Roselle col-league team with so much success in recent years) has expressed an interest in joining the legion team.

Summing up the somewhat struggling 1968 season, Anderson says: "Overall it wasn't a bad season, and I think it's going to be a better one next year. At least we have a foothold, we have something started."

I agree wholeheartedly.

And, hopefully, in 1970 the biggest failure to communicate will be a man running through a "hold" sign at third to score the winning run in the championship game.

Action Slated Sunday In Paddock Headliner

by PAUL LOGAN

The terrain is testing, the greens are massive, and the yardage is demanding.

These credentials alone make Palatine Hills Golf Course a most worthy layout for the 20th annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament.

However, something else may come into play when the 18-hole showdown gets underway at 9 a.m., Sunday, at the Palatine Park District course — rain.

THE GOLFER'S most hated enemy has been an unwelcome member of foursomes almost every weekend this summer, last Saturday and Sunday being no exception. So the odds of having rain or its results — casual water — around when the 19 best teams in the area tee off are very great.

However, the course seems ready for anything, according to Ralph Lonergan, manager of the 6,800-yard layout.

"It's in the best shape we've ever had it in this year," he explained. "The high grass which couldn't be cut because of the casual water is gone and the course is dry."

This is good news for the 76 amateurs who will be trying to honor their respective league by being the first to have their league name on the giant, new tourney trophy.

LEADING THE low handicappers on to the par 72 course this Sunday will be August Tamburino of the Old Orchard Scratch League's L'Nor Cleaners team. Tamburino has the impressive distinction of carrying no handicap at all!

As a team the Old Orchard entrants have a very fine total of only 14 strokes handicap. Ranking behind these hot shooters are these 18 other teams with their accompanying handicaps:

Team No. 7 of the Northwest Suburban "Y" (38), Wheeling Bank (39), Lauterburg & Oehler (39), Par Busters (51), Heights Cleaners (55), Team No. 5 of the V.F.W. Post 2149 (57), Keefer's Pharmacy (58), S & H Packaging Products (59), Wickstrom Chevrolet (60), Action Builders (61), Mt. Prospect Jewelers (62), Cake Box (67), Borchardt's Restaurant (67), Team No. 12 of the Arlington Elks (70), Team No. 5 of Buffalo Grove (73), Chemplex of Palatine Hills (75), Team No. 7 of Pure Oil Monday (80), and Team No. 3 of Pure Oil Tuesday (93).

All of these teams, which will be teeing off between 9:00 and 11:06 a.m., will be seeing plenty of permanent water even though the skies may be clear the entire weekend. The wet stuff will be furnished by four large ponds and a creek which promise trouble on 10 of the 18 holes.

AND ACCOMPANYING the water hazards are plenty of trees and shrubs that always seem to be in the wrong places. Finally, putting the icing on this 20th anniversary cake is the ever present out-of-bounds. Half of the holes have this stroke robbing problem to contend with.

However, the whole effort is worth it because of the prizes that are being offered this year:

Engraved silver ash trays to the individuals of the top three teams, a dozen top-flight golf balls for low individual net, two free passes each for the longest driving contest and the closest to the pin contest, participation passes, and a check for $100 should anyone produce a hole-in-one.

There will be a large scoreboard adjacent to the 18th green to keep the entrants up to date on the tourney.

SHOULD GOLFERS have to leave before the conclusion of the day's play, the Paddock Publications sports bulletin phone will have the highlights. Just call 394-1700 after 7 p.m.

Five men will be representing the tournament for Paddock's: Bob Paddock, promotional director; G. A. McElroy, tourney manager; John Kehe, tourney advisor; Bob Frisk, sports editor; and Paul Logan, tourney photographer and reporter.

Palatine Hills is located on the west side of Palatine approximately one half mile off Northwest Highway. A large triangular sign marks the turnoff on the north side of the road.

THE SITE OF THE 20TH annual Paddock Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament is well marked for those lucky teams that have qualified for the 18 hole test on Sunday. Coming either way on the Northwest Highway (Highway 14), the large, two-sided Palatine Hills Golf Course sign is a welcome sight to golfers. This will be the first time that the two year old course will be hosting the tourney.

Elder Battles for More Than Money

by MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

DAYTON, OHIO, UPI — If you've ever been trapped in the heart of traffic one moment the light changed, with cars coming at you from both general directions, then you don't have to ask how Lee Elder feels. You know.

He feels the same way you do. Caught in the middle, Lee Elder was only one of the 142 golfers starting after the prized Professional Golfers' Association championship Thursday but there was more pressure on him, possibly, than on all the other 141 put together.

To get the whole picture you have to know that Charlie Sifford was the first black man ever to win a regular tournament on the PGA tour.

BUT THAT WAS two years ago in Hartford, Conn., and with the highly escalated rapid transit pace we have today his accomplishment practically falls under the reading of ancient history.

Today, Lee Elder symbolizes the black man on the previously all-white PGA tour more than Charlie Sifford. For any number of reasons.

In golf, money is never a bad place to start and Lee Elder is doing all right in that department. So far this year he has won $44,343, which happens to be more than such others as Julius Boros, the defending champ in this tournament: Gay Brewer, Doug Sanders, Al Geiberger and Tony Jacklin to name only a few. Charlie Sifford also is on the list of those Elder tops.

TELEVISION also has helped Lee Elder become known to millions.

The cameras were on him all the way when he and Jack Nicklaus waged their dramatic sudden death playoff in the American Classic at Akron a year ago. The two had to go five holes before Nicklaus won it. Elder didn't really lose. He played so well overall and battled Nicklaus so tenaciously head-to-head at Karon that he came away from the setback in much the same way Roberto DeVicenzo did when he lost last year's Masters to Bob Goalby.

Lee Elder, who is 35 and from Washington, D.C., came here without a worry in the world. He came here with his wife, Rose, after finishing third in last week's Milwaukee Open and the way he's hitting the ball, he ordinarily would have a good chance of becoming the first man of his race ever to win the PGA title.

BUT SOMETHING has happened since Elder arrived here earlier this week.

A so-called coalition of civil rights groups has threatened to disrupt play during the four-day PGA competition. The coalition, preponderantly black, insists the local chamber of commerce has devoted much more attention to this tournament than to the impoverished people immediately around it.

Lee Elder, on one hand, can feel for those people in the coalition because they are of his race and they are in need. Lee Elder, on the other hand, is also part of the so-called "affluent group" the coalition speaks out against.

"I AM CONSCIOUS of the fact I represent my race on the golf tour," Elder said, when he was asked how he felt about the coalition's threat to disrupt the tournament. "I try never to do anything detrimental because of that."

"I've talked this local issue over with my wife and she said whatever I decided would be right. What I've decided is that this is not my affair. I don't think I'll get involved. Certainly, I feel for these people, but I'm going to stay out of this thing."

Elder saved up $10,000 over five years to put himself on the tour. He worked hard accumulating the money and finally joined the tour in the fall of 1967.

HIS BIGGEST kick was that sudden death playoff with Nicklaus.

"I really got to be recognized for the first time after that," he says. "Before that, nobody knew me. They'd see me on the course and say 'Who's he? Who's he?' Now they know I'm Lee Elder."

Elder laced his golf shoes, obviously thought about the local issue some more and said:

"I just can't give up something I worked so hard for all my life."

Nobody likes getting caught out there in the middle of traffic. No matter what color the lights; no matter what color the skin.

Yankees Hold Top

Latest results in the Addison Parks and Recreation baseball and softball programs:

CADET LEAGUE

The Cubs, behind pitcher Jerry Tomaselli, whipped the White Sox 10-4. John Hutchins and Joe Zeman shared pitching duties for the Sox. Tomaselli allowed only seven hits, striking out six. Zeman drove in a run with a double in the third.

A shortage of Dodger players gave the Giants a win by forfeit.

The Yankees outthit the Indians, but fell short in the all-important run column as the Indians triumphed 4-2. Steve Mueller went all the way for the Indians, Chip Larsen went all the way for the Yankees who absorbed their first loss of the season. Larsen's back-to-back home runs drove in the Yankee runs. Don Barrett betted a two-run homer for the Indians. Tim O'Toole doubled for the Indians and Mike Hamilton doubled for the Yankees.

Both the Cubs and Yankees picked up victories by forfeit during the week.

Crown Champions In Park Softball

Both softball and football are prominent these days in the Arlington Heights park district sports program. Softball champions have been crowned in three divisions, and football is now in full swing.

In softball, Dryden took titles in two of the three leagues — the seventh and eighth grade loop and the fifth and sixth grade alignment. The seventh and eighth grades of Dryden have fashioned a 4-1 record, their latest win a 10-1 romp over Patriot. Patriot won its other two games and is now second, topping Hasbrook 9-2 and winning over Recreation 13-7.

In the fifth and sixth grade division Dryden is unbeaten in nine contests, after an 8-1 triumph over Greenbrier. Greenbrier, however, clubbed Ivy Hill 13-2. In the other game, Greens edged Dunton, 6-5. Hasbrook is second in the league, with Dunton and Greenbrier tied for third.

Hasbrook is the champion of the third and fourth grade program with a 4-2 record. In last week's games in that league, Recreation slipped past Dryden 5-4 and Greens buried Greenbrier 25-6.

Four games were played in football last week, with Dryden winning a pair, both by shutouts. They blanked Pioneer 20-0 and Patriot 22-0. In the other contests, Pioneer whipped Recreation 24-13 and Recreation edged Dryden 15-13.

Grove Stars Still Alve at Thillens

Elk Grove's Traveling All-Stars will be trying to make it No. 4 when they return to action in the Thillens Statewide Tournament on Saturday against Northwest.

The big game is scheduled to get underway at 9 p.m. at the Thillens diamond.

The Grove team captured their third win in four games stopping Villa Park, 10-4. So far 33 teams have dropped two games and have been eliminated from the tourney.

After this Saturday's contest, only 11 teams will be in action.

In last weekend's contest, Jim Hammers fanned 11 while walking only four to spin a three-hitter at Villa Park.

Getting the extra base hits for the Grove were Mike Brandt with a triple, Dave Milner with a double, and Jim Hammer, living up to his name, pounding out three doubles!

Presently, Brandt leads the team in batting with a lofty .520 average with 13 hits in 25 times at bat. He also had five triples.

Palatine Tennis Team Victorious

Baseball Writer to Speak at Area Meeting

Baseball writer Jerome Holtzman of the Chicago Sun-Times will provide a first-person look at what has been an amazing year in baseball at a dinner meeting Sept. 8 of the Achim Lodge B'nai B'rith.

The dinner meeting, at the Swedish House Smorgasbord, 203 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights (across from the Arlington Heights Theatre), will get underway at 7 p.m. with a bar featuring 50 cent drinks.

An "all you can eat" Smorgasbord dinner, priced at $3, will begin at 7:30.

Jerome Holtzman

The meeting featuring the veteran baseball writer begins at 8:30. Reservations can be made with Howard Holniker (537-1922), 162 Wildwood, Wheeling.

Holtzman, a member of the Sun-Times sports department for 25 years, has covered Major League baseball for the past 13 years. In addition to many journalistic awards and the chairmanship of the Chicago Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association, the speaker is responsible for a new item now found in box scores.

The system in which relief pitchers are awarded "saves" was devised by Holtzman in 1960. It was adopted by the Sporting News, baseball's bible, and now is in use in the official statistics.

A Marine Corps veteran and an accelerated student at the University of Chicago, Holtzman also has had articles published in Saturday Evening Post, Sports Illustrated, Sport, Baseball Digest, Chicago Scene, Sports Digest and numerous other magazines.

Holtzman covered the Cubs during their amazing early race away from the gate in the National League's Eastern division.

New American Motors Product

Versatile Hornet Can Be Tailored To Needs

The Hornet, an all-new concept in compact cars that offers buyers a broad choice ranging from economy to elegance and lively performance, was announced Wednesday by American Motors.

Handsome in a trim, contemporary package, the 108-inch wheelbase Hornet is designed as a highly versatile five-passenger sedan which, by the addition of a complete choice of options, including a lively 304 cubic-inch V-8 engine, may be turned into a spirited performer.

William V. Luneburg, AM president, said the Hornet was conceived and designed to have "a distinct personality of its own as well as a versatility uncommon in other cars of its size and price class."

"IN THE HORNET, we have created a car which we believe will meet the demands of the compact market of the 1970's," Luneburg said. "It is a car that is capable of having strong appeal to those buyers who place a high premium on sportiness and performance. On the other hand, it fully satisfies the needs of those buyers who look for safe, efficient, economical transportation along with roominess, easy maintenance and attractive styling."

"We believe the Hornet uniquely spans what appeared to be an unbridgeable gap between performance and utility without undesirable compromise," he said.

The Hornet will make its public debut at American Motors dealerships on September 25. It will be available in two and four-door sedan models in two series — the Hornet and Hornet SST.

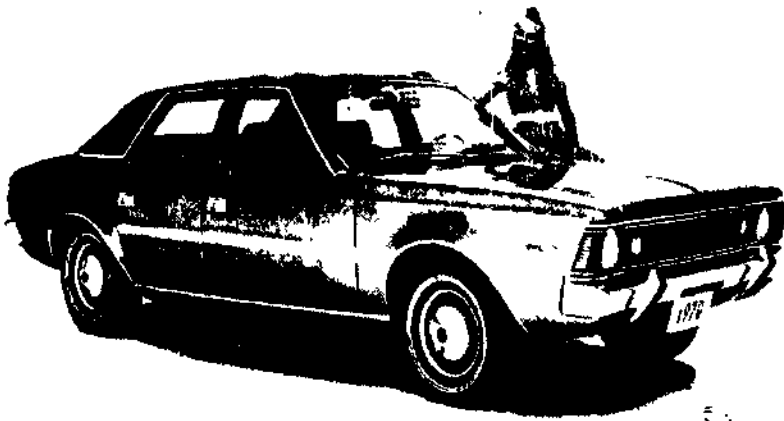

The local dealer is Bonnie Motors, located at 500 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

A SHARPLY-RAISED windshield, long hood and short rear deck mark the Hornet's styling. Wheel openings have a pronounced flare. Ventless front door windows and recessed door handles add to the clean line styling effect. The Hornet stands 52.5 inches high, and measures 179.2 inches overall.

Sturdy wide-section bumpers curve around and protect front and rear fenders. A black anodized aluminum grille contains round park-turn signal lamps. Flanking the grille are single headlamps, set in black wraparound bezels which extend the grille area the full width of the car. The bezels bend around the fender ends, incorporating front side marker lights, and their design complements the stacked, wraparound taillight sections. Back up lights are integrated in the taillight design.

A red, white and blue styled "Hornet" emblem appears near the leading edge of the front fender ahead of the nameplate.

"THE HORNET'S standard 199-cubic-inch six-cylinder engine is more than adequate for today's driving demands and provides excellent fuel economy," Luneburg said. "However, for those who want maximum performance in a compact, we are offering a new 304-cubic-inch V-8 which has excelled in performance competition."

Hornet features include a new Twin-Ball-Joint front suspension system which, in combination with its wide stance, long wheelbase, and wide profile fiberglass-belted tires provides handling qualities seldom found in a car of its size.

In addition to Twin-Ball-Joint suspension and fiberglass-belted tires, other standard Hornet features include Command Air, providing superior fresh air ventilation, an improved Weather Eye heater system, convenient step-on parking brake, a safe and simply operated scissors jack system, new anti-theft steering column lock, new energy-absorbing steering column, and a 18-gallon fuel tank.

INTERIOR ROOMINESS is an outstanding feature of the Hornet, which boasts front headroom of 38 inches and front legroom of almost 42 inches. Rear headroom is 37 inches, and legroom is 38.75 inches.

The color-keyed Hornet interior is designed for attractiveness as well as driving convenience and safety.

There is an eye-pleasing symmetry to the instrument panel design, with driving controls and instrumentation clustered at left for maximum visibility.

A PADDED BROW runs the full width of the top edge of the panel. At panel center are controls for the Weather Eye heater, optional AM push button radio and All-Season air conditioning, airconditioning outlets, ash tray and lighter. A full-width package tray is located just below the panel on Hornet SST models, supplementing glove compartment storage space.

Hornet seats are contoured for comfort, and are upholstered in patterned vinyl or optional fabric panel in a choice of blue, black-with-white, green or red. Doors are trimmed in matching vinyl, for durability and cleaning ease. Stainless steel and aluminum trim add to the attractiveness of the SST interior.

Seats in SST models feature padded bolsters and horizontal welting, achieving the appearance and comfort of bucket seats. Four color choices in a new fabric pattern are standard, while an embossed vinyl trim is available in three colors.

AMERICAN MOTORS' popular individually-adjustable reclining seat feature is offered in Hornet SST models.

A special option for SST models is a vivid Carnaby Plaid cloth upholstery in two color schemes — blue with red and lavender, and green with red and gold — with matching door panels.

Four engines and two transmissions provide a selection of six power teams in the Hornet line. The 128-horsepower six cylinder engine is standard on base-line models. A more powerful 232 cubic-inch six, rated at 145 horse-power, is standard on SST models, and optional on the base line. Available with either engine are three-speed manual transmission or AM's Shift-Command automatic, improved for 1970 to provide smoother shifting, greater durability and longer service life.

A 155 HORSEPOWER, 232 cubic-inch six is optional, as is a new and responsive 304 cubic-inch V-8. Shift-Command is offered with either engine.

A new low-fuel warning light, included in an optional light group, flashes when the fuel level drops below two gallons.

The Hornet owner's manual provides easy to follow, step-by-step instructions for owners who may wish to make their own minor repairs and adjustments.

After 16-15 Heights Season

Future Shows Promise...

by CHUCK WILLOUR

The year 1968 was not a championship year for the Arlington Heights American Legion baseball team.

It was — on paper anyway — just a so-so year for Coach Lloyd Meyer's charges as they compiled a fourth place 7-5 mark in the Ninth District, were eliminated from the Ninth District playoffs after six games, and ran up a 5-8 record against other competition.

But what Heights' season record fails to reflect is that the team was always just a shade away from making 1969 a true championship year. Basically a young squad Arlington nevertheless managed to play even-up ball against virtually every team it met in its 31 game schedule.

BUT BECAUSE Heights was an unseasoned ballclub, mistakes were made that eventually proved the difference between defeat and victory.

By the same token, however, that is, because Arlington was a young team — the championship that eluded Arlington Heights in 1968 very well might not escape the team in 1970. Coach Meyer can boast of ten veterans returning next year to spark the club's championship effort, five of them pitchers.

Realizing that experience was not going to be in abundance this season, Coach Meyer decided that the best thing possible was to build for the future.

"I didn't necessarily coach to win all the time," he said, "but to teach. We lost some ballgames in the beginning of the year because I had the kids doing things that, if they learned to do them right, would win for us later."

"BUT," HE WAS quick to add, "I always felt that if certain kids came along that, if they learned to do them right, games all year. And I think that we were right there, we were so close to being an outstanding ballclub that I honestly imagined that we could win the ninth District and maybe even the Cook County titles."

"And nobody we played all year can say that we couldn't have beaten them if just one ball had bounced differently or if a play had gone our way. We were that close."

Arlington's season started off with a dramatic bang with a non-conference road trip that saw Heights claim four out of five decisions. But after that hot start the club faltered a bit and by mid-season was costing along right at the 500 mark.

TOWARDS THE END of the year, though, all of Meyer's "coaching to teach" started paying off and Heights found itself in a four-way tussle for the Ninth District regular season championship.

And despite some bad breaks and costly errors that resulted in Heights' dropping to fourth in the league standings, when the Ninth District double elimination tourney started, Meyer still felt that the team was right on the brink of becoming a serious tourney contender.

And Arlington almost was. The club claimed victories over Logan Square and Wheeling but then fell to Park Ridge Red in a 29½ inning marathon. Heights, still alive in the tourney, then stopped Wheeling again to earn the right to play Park Ridge once more. The first game Arlington shellacked the Reds, 10-5, but in the second contest the Reds eked out a 3-1 victory.

The season was over. Heights finished out with a 16-15 overall record.

BUT IT WAS A season that had that provided many pleasant memories for Heights fans. It was a season that had some great moments. It was a season that promises much for the future.

Of the 16 men on the roster, 10 will be returning, including five of the seven hurlers on the mound staff, the entire starting infield and one outfielder. The only positions left open will be catcher and two out field slots.

But those holes won't be easy to plug some great moments. It was a season that Jack Bastable, one of the finest ballplayers ever to grace this area, will be sorely missed behind the plate. His rocket arm and his great bat were known and feared around the league. Likewise in the outfield, Mike Wulbecker, Dow Woodard and Jim Kolari will be hard men to replace.

CONSIDERING THE contribution that these men made to the club, Meyer was enthusiastic. "These fellows did a fine job for us all year. They really carried us. Bastable, well, he was Bastable. He was always one of our top hitters and by the end of the season was doing a great job catching. Woodard was probably our most consistent player — he hit safely in over half our games. And Kolari and Wulbecker both did good jobs in the outfield."

Two chuckers will also not be coming back next year, Randy Cordova and Steve Stratton. Cordova earned Meyer's praise as probably the best hurler on the Heights mound staff and Stratton was an excellent reliever. They too will be missed.

But five other pitchers won't. Gary Anderson, Jim Bokelmann, Bob Leja, Dave Jones and Mike Johnson. About them Meyer said, "I'm really high about these kids. Any of them is capable of coming around to being a real big stopper for us, they could all be great."

ANDERSON AND Bokelmann, figures the coach, could be two of the very best pitchers anywhere in the area, while Leja looks like he'll be tough to hit. Jones and Johnson, says Meyer, have really exciting possibilities. Both possess sharp curves and excellent control.

No one from the infield will be gone next year either. Dave Armstrong will return at first, Cary Salm at second, Dave Lundstedt at short stop and Bruce Frase at third. These four excite Meyer too. "They should all be better ballplayers next year defensively and I know they'll all be good hitters. They won't stand still either — they know they have things to work on and they will."

SLUGGIN' BRUCE FRASE is one of ten ball players Arlington Heights American Legion baseball coach Lloyd Meyer can expect back next season to bolster his club's title hopes in the Ninth District. Frase was not only a top defensive third baseman for Heights and a much-feared hitter, he also filled in at catcher occasionally, doing an outstanding job there too. This season was termed a building year by Heights mentor Meyer but next year the coach expects nothing but the best from a team that will have five pitchers, the entire infield and an outfielder returning with experience.

A Star, and Lovely, But She's Alone

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—If you can picture a blonde bombshell with long legs, smoky eyes and laughing lips as being lonely, then you are thinking of singer Jaye P. Morgan.

In glamour-loaded Las Vegas it may be hard to believe that a lovely and talented young woman—single—who earns more in a week than most men make in a month, should find time hanging heavily on her hands.

Jaye P. Morgan said it is true. "The reason is simple," she told UPI. "I don't know any single men in Las Vegas so there's no one to ask me out. And a girl can't very well go out alone, can she?"

The result is that Miss Morgan, who's been appearing at the Hotel Fremont, spends her idle time reading—books, newspapers, magazines—and watching television. "Thank heavens, TV is on all night long or I'd go crazy," she said.

Miss Morgan's plight may be due, in part at least, to the fact that she travels alone. Most stars carry the barnacles of press agent, manager, accompanist, hairdresser, maid, and so on, but Miss Morgan said she doesn't like to be "fussed over."

"I was dressing myself and fixing my hair a long time before I began singing, and there's no reason why I can't continue to do it," she said.

Such spells of loneliness are not exactly rare in the entertainment profession, but they are somewhat out of the ordinary in Las Vegas, where hotels, clubs, casinos and lounges roll out red carpets for pretty girls, knowing that pretty girls attract spending men.

Shirley Bassey, another frequent Las Vegas singing star, raised the same point not long ago on the Mike Douglas show. "Men are not inclined—or else they're too timid—to ask a star for a date. And that makes it hard for the star who wants one," she said. "You can get awfully tired of eating sandwiches all alone."

The late Judy Garland often voiced a similar dilemma. "I never get a chance to go out on a quiet date with just one man," she said.

Jaye P. Morgan's problem is a comparatively new one for her. When she broke into show business, she worked the "country and western music circuit" of Southern California.

Then she teamed with her three brothers to form a combination that started climbing to the big time.

The combo didn't last, however. Two of her brothers were musicians who preferred to play music, not sing it. The third turned to cattle raising and now is the owner of an Idaho ranch.

Jaye, alone, took off like a rocket, selling sultry sex and throbbing songs in a voice that roamed the scales from a lullaby whisper to a screeching whistle. It was instant success—after a long hard pull for the girl who was born in Colorado and reared in California.

Three of her records achieved the million-sale goals that all singers strive for. There was "That's All I Want From You," and "Danger, Heart Break Ahead," and the classic, "The Longest Walk."

At the peak of her career Jaye P. Morgan decided to retire.

"It wasn't retirement in the sense that I was planning to loaf," she said. "I just wanted to be at home, get away from the constant travelling. Then, I got married."

Marriage really did it for her and she settled down to the life of a housewife in the lush San Fernando Valley of Southern California. Her life became complete when she and her husband adopted an infant son. The idyll lasted some six years or so, she said.

"We were divorced. It just didn't work."

Out of her marriage and divorce came her son, San Fernando Valley home, about which she now can sing, and her son, Paul Steven, four and one-half years old, who is spending the summer on his uncle's Idaho ranch. "With everything that's there on the ranch he doesn't know his mother's alive," Jaye P. said, grinning.

She has a new act and a new manager now, Bullets Durgom, once associated with Jackie Gleason. "He won't let me tell anyone how old I am," she said. "He said people always add several years to the truth so the best thing is to say nothing."

Bullets notwithstanding, Jay P. Morgan has to be in the shaded 30s and she has no reason not to admit it. She is still sultry, still peppery, still sexy and she can belt or balladize with anyone.

Only time will tell if her new act and her new manager can provide the lift-off power for a second chance at stardom.

If she makes it, she said her son gets a Mickey Mouse watch which Jaye P. wears on her wrist. She received it when she did an appearance at Disneyland in Southern California.

"It's for good luck," she said. "If I make it big again, my son gets it. If I don't," she shrugged, then grinned elfishly.

"Oh, well," she said, "I could start eating again. I wouldn't have to keep on dieting, which I must do now to keep my weight down. Gee, I'd love to go off some place and just eat."

Good News

Police Aid Family

Do you know people who are doing nice things for other people? If you do, let us know because starting Friday, Aug. 22, Paddock Publications will begin publishing a "Good News!" column. It will report on people such as yourself and your neighbors who perform the little acts of kindness which make the Northwest suburbs a better place in which to live. Below is one such item. Write or call us and let us know your own particular "Good News."

A needy woman and five children who had emigrated to the area from Texas are getting a chance for a new start in life, thanks to the efforts of the Cook County Police Dept.

The story began when Cook County Police Sgt. Errol Levy of Prospect Heights was called to a home in Elk Grove Township to intervene in a family argument.

Upon answering the call, Levy found a destitute mother and her children, four girls and a boy, living in a converted one-car garage.

THE HUSBAND had deserted the family, taking all their money, and they were forced to live in the small garage, which had no running water or sanitary facilities.

Levy was "alarmed at the deplorable conditions." They didn't have shoes and their clothes were tattered and worn," he said.

Levy noted, however, that the garage and the children were immaculate.

He notified Capt. James Walsh of the Cook County Police Dept., and then got in touch with Maryville Academy.

The academy referred him to the Illinois Dept. of Children and Family Services, and a welfare worker was immediately assigned to the case.

The children were put in temporary foster homes and the mother is now living with Levy and his wife until she can get back on her feet again.

The Police Dept. found the mother a new job, so that her husband couldn't locate her.

"HER FORMER employer was sorry to see her leave, since she had an excellent work and attendance record," said Walsh.

"They are all extremely nice people. The fact that the children and surroundings were so clean in spite of the hardships is a credit to their character," he continued.

The police department is collecting clothing for the family and is also attempting to locate the owner of the property where they had been living. Charges of criminal mismanagement of property may be filed against him.

"We're also on the lookout for similar situations, so that we can help other people who are not able to protect themselves," said Walsh.

The Lighter Side

The Word Game

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Veteran word-watchers agree the term "thrust" appears to have lost most of its thrust in the governmental lexicon and is no longer regarded as "in" word.

At this point in time, you seldom hear White House assistants discussing the "thrust" of presidential programs, or television commentators pointing out the "thrust" of somebody's remarks.

Although thrusting enjoyed a long and glorious run in cocktail circuit conversation and other Washington power centers, it finally has been dislodged from the bureaucratic vocabulary by a newcomer.

At this point in time, the phrase most in vogue is "at this point in time." Any statement on a national issue that does not include at least one "at this point in time" has no thrust whatsoever.

I am almost as fed up with being "at this point in time" as I was of being thrust. So I am delighted to note that yet another new "in" term seems to be rising to the surface. It is "profile."

Everything in Washington now has, or is rapidly acquiring, a profile, and status-conscious civil servants are frantically scurrying about lowering or raising profiles.

As best I can tell, profiles began emerging during President Nixon's recent round-the-world trip. At some point in time, you may recall, he spoke of lowering America's profile in the Far East.

Raising or lowering profiles immediately became the thing to do in the capital.

Officials who were fighting inflation suddenly ceased fighting inflation and began trying to lower the economic incrementation profile.

The Pentagon is trying to lower the chemical-biological warfare profile, which has been embarrassingly conspicuous lately. Moves in the Senate to lower the anti-ballistic missile profile did not prevail, however.

Reports that Nixon would nominate Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. of South Carolina to the Supreme Court are reviewed in political circles as an elevation of the Republican party's Southern profile.

The new welfare program proposed by the President this week is viewed as an elevation of the administration's Northern profile.

And Nixon's decision to establish vacation headquarters in California should make his profile more prominent in the West.

Some critics are bound to complain that all this raising and lowering of profiles is an effort to avoid meeting problems full face. But I think this is unfair.

Profiling is an inevitable result of the loss of verbal thrust. Which may be just what the nation needs at this point in time.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Friday, Aug. 15, the 227th day of 1969 with 138 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1914 the American vessel, Ancon, passed from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean and the Panama Canal was officially opened.

In 1935 comedian Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed when their plane crashed in Alaska.

In 1945 the United States ended wartime gasoline rationing.

In 1966 the New York Herald Tribune went out of business after 131 years.

A thought for the day: Anatole France said, "He flattered himself on being a man without prejudices; and this pretension itself is a very great prejudice."

Mt. Rushmore—'No Vacancy'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt, whose massive faces adorn Mt. Rushmore in South Dakota, are not likely to be getting any company.

Not even the faces of our moon conquerors.

Or so, at least, reports the National Geographic Society.

Through the years, the National Park Service has received hundreds of suggestions to add figures next to the giant sculptures of the four Presidents. A recent request proposed the late General of the Army, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"All the granite suitable for carving a colossal head has been used in the present design," according to Lincoln Borglum, whose late father, Gutzon Borglum, carved the masterpiece. It took him 13 years.

The Mount Rushmore sculptures—the faces 60 feet high—have been called the most colossal ever created by man and are visible for 60 miles. Lincoln's nose alone is longer than the entire face of Egypt's Sphinx.

Effects of Restraint Coming

The crucial question facing the U. S. economy today is whether or not the rate of real economic growth can be kept from falling below its recent range of between 2 and 3 per cent, First National City Bank New York, said recently.

Although the force of fiscal restraint is "largely exhausted, we have only recently begun to feel the full effect of the initial dose of monetary medicine injected in late 1968 and early 1969," Citibank pointed out in its August economic letter.

The effects of further restraint applied during the spring and summer will be apparent in the months ahead, the bank said. However, certain signs of impact are already visible, including continued softening in consumer buying, intensified pressure on profits, some cutbacks in scheduled capital outlays, a sharp decline in stock prices and easing of credit demands.

SIX MONTHS ago the Federal Reserve's economic projection called for a slowdown in real economic growth in the first half of 1969, followed by an acceleration in the second half. "But that forecast could not have taken into consideration the severe monetary restraint which followed."

Real economic growth declined from an annual rate of more than 6 per cent in the first half of 1968 to a 2.6 per cent rate in the first quarter of 1969 and 2.3 per cent in the June quarter.

The rate of price advance speeded up to nearly 5 per cent in the first half of this year.

"To some people this means that inflation is out of control and that fiscal and monetary restraints have been overwhelmed by inflationary expectations of businessmen and unions," the bank asserted. "This pessimistic conclusion runs counter both to logic and an abundance of historical evidence."

"IT IS A MATTER of simple arithmetic that if we were to continue decelerating at the same rate as we have since mid-1968, we would be in a recession by early next year," Citibank warned.

The emerging climate of more cautious business expectations is not unlike that of a year ago when it was widely believed that fiscal restraint would produce a substantial slowdown in economic growth, Citibank explained.

"Now the burden is on monetary policy, and once again economic theories are being put to the hard test of experience," the bank letter concluded.

Teen Winner Of New Buick

David Ristau of 180 Michael Road, Des Plaines, has been named as one of six first place winners of new Buick GS 400 automobiles in the national Pit Stop contest sponsored by Coca-Cola USA, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Chicago, Buick Motor Division of General Motors, Petersen Publications, and Contact Marketing. The contest, focusing on safe driving techniques shown in a 30-minute color film titled "Pit Stop," was open to drivers through Petersen Publications' auto racing and teen-oriented magazines.

Ristau, 17, will be a senior at Elk Grove High School. He plays on the football, basketball, and baseball teams at Elk Grove.

The Buick GS 400 was presented by Werner Cederberg, president of the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Chicago; Arnold Westfall, division vice president for the firm; and John Mufich, owner of John Mufich Buick, Inc. As an added bonus, Ristau received a picnic cooler filled with Coca-Cola.

This past year an estimated 200,000 teenagers viewed "Pit Stop" through driver safety classes conducted at high schools across the country. This film is available to Chicago area schools and organizations through the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Chicago.

ADDED BONUS, cooler full of soft drinks is discovered by David Ristau, Des Plaines, as he looks in the trunk of a Buick GS 400 from John Mufich Buick, Mount Prospect, his prize in the national Pit Stop contest. In the background are, left, Werner Cederberg, president, Coca Cola Bottling Co. of Chicago, and Arnold Westfall, division vice president of the firm.

Has Reminder for Parents

The Illinois State Bar Association recently reminded parents that any child to be enrolled in any Illinois school for the first time must have a physical examination and immunizations for certain specified diseases.

The ISBA said the law requires inoculations for measles, smallpox, tetanus, diphtheria polio and whooping cough in the case of a child enrolled for the first time in any public, private or parochial school, unless exemption is granted.

THE IMMUNIZATION requirement is subject to medical approval and both the immunizations and physical examination are waived upon request of parents based on constitutional grounds, the ISBA stated.

Each non-exempted child is required to take a physical examination before he enters kindergarten (or first grade) and again before he enters the fifth and ninth grades. Examinations also are required for children of any grade level entering a new school — if they have not been previously examined according to the law. Whenever necessary, school authorities may require additional examinations.

Immunizations against the specified diseases are required for non-exempted youngsters entering the Illinois school system for the first time, whether as kindergartners, first graders, or new state residents. Immunizations or booster immunizations may also be required by the Department of Public Health for students entering the fifth and ninth grades.

A PHYSICIAN who feels a child should not have certain of the required inoculations can indicate that fact on the physical examination form and still satisfy the requirements of the law.

Each school is responsible for maintaining a cumulative record on the physical examinations and immunizations taken by its students.

The Department of Public Health is authorized to arrange for the examination of a child, should his parents fail to do so. However, no child will be examined or immunized if his parent or guardian files a statement of constitutional objection and presents it to the school board or Teachers College Board.

The fact that a child has been exempted from a physical examination or immunizations does not excuse him from participating in his school's physical education programs, which are prescribed by law. In cases where a physical examination shows a physical or emotional condition which prevents participation in courses provided for normal children, special physical education programs which are prescribed by law. In cases where a physical examination shows a physical or emotional condition which prevents participation in courses provided for normal children, special physical education activities or a modified course may be requested.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Sales Volume Up 18 Per Cent

Real estate sales of $3,846,845 for the first half of 1969 an 18 1/2 per cent increase over the $3,257,148 in sales for the same 1968 period were reported recently by Robert G. Walters, district sales manager of Baird & Warner, Inc.'s Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights offices.

The 114-year-old real estate firm as a whole had sales of $71,502,839 for the first half of the year a 19 1/4 per cent increase over the $59,875,964 in sales for the same 1968 period. Baird & Warner Inc. has 26 offices serving Chicagoland.

Total sales transactions participated in by the Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights offices amounted to 100 for the six month period, up from 94 transactions for the same period in 1968, according to Walters. Total sales for the company amounted to 1,493 for the six-month period a 3 8/9 per cent increase over the 1,437 transactions for the same period in 1968.

WALTERS ATTRIBUTED a substantial portion of the company's increased sales to the success of RESET (Real Estate Service for Employee Transfers), the firm's own cross country public relations program designed to assist families transferred into and out of the Chicago area.

Condominium Apartment Values Climb

Condominium apartments in the Chicago area have appreciated in value eight per cent each year and are expected to continue to go up in value at that rate. And, for the first time in about three years, there is an appreciable resale market.

This means that a new condominium apartment selling for $25,000 three years ago today is selling for approximately $32,750.

That's the finding of Baird & Warner, Inc., which specializes in the condominium resale market. The company is also active in condominium management.

During the first six months of 1968 Baird & Warner, Inc. sold 57 condominium apartments, an increase of 35 over the same period in 1967.

A recent survey by Baird & Warner indicated that there are approximately 5,000 saleable condominium apartments from Madison St. in Chicago to Wilmette on the north. These are mainly properties on the lake front. There are approximately another 500 units scattered among the south side and western suburbs.

"WHEN CONDOMINIUMS first were being built here everyone was quite uncertain about the future resale market," said Baird & Warner's condominium specialist Barbara Novak. "But they have become one of the strongest sellers in the area."

The demand, according to Miss Novak, is greatest for two-bedroom/two-bathroom condominium homes.

There are condominium apartments coming on the market for all prices, Miss Novak observed — all the way from units in the mid-20's up to an occasional one at more than $100,000.

"It's not unusual for a condominium to come on the market and be sold within a short period. They must however, be priced realistically," she added.

"THEY'RE BEING sold primarily by people who are moving out-of-town," said Miss Novak, "not because the people can't afford to live in them."

Buyers in various parts of the Chicago area cite different reasons for their choices of location, but most are interested primarily in the luxury type of living and the supplied services of condominium residence, Miss Novak said.

"We've noted in our profiles," she continued, "that buyers for the most part are 50-year-old-and-over couples who have sold their single family homes and who, generally, have grown children. Those who are buying along the lake front consists mostly of city dwellers from the North and South sides, persons being transferred into the city from out-of-town, and many who recently have received substantial rental increases and who have decided to own rather than continue to rent."

The Baird & Warner saleswoman noted, too, that in a number of cases young couples, whose responsibilities include the care of elderly parents, are buying condominium apartments for their parents.

IN THE SUBURBS, buyers for the most part are long-time residents of the areas who choose to remain in their suburb after selling their single family home there, according to Baird and Warner salesmen.

The amenities attracting buyers of pre-owned condominiums, according to John L. Hall, Baird & Warner's senior vice president and general sales manager, include the same things that attract buyers to new units: elevator service, fireproof and soundproof buildings, a swimming pool, commissary, attractive lobbies, an abundance of closet space, built-in cabinets and vanities and large room sizes, as in their former homes.

"Above all," said Hall, "condominium buyers look for a stable group of owners, in a building that's in a fine residential area serviced by good transportation, roads, and shopping facilities."

RECALLING STYLE of Renaissance Europe, Three Fountains Apartments in Plum Grove are open to visitors daily. The three-story buildings, on a 25-acre tract on Algonquin Road, contain one-and two-bedroom apartments. Each differs in outside color and detail, yet all are complementary in appearance. Antique wall lights and door hardware continue the Old World decor of the buildings.

Has Old World Architecture

When the Three Fountains Apartments complex, in Plum Grove, was conceived, the designers had in mind the distinction of classic Old World architecture.

Consisting of several three-story buildings, widely-spaced over 25 acres of land, Three Fountains Apartments are located on Algonquin Road, just north of the Northwest Tollway and about a quarter-mile east of Route 53.

The exterior lines of these Scholz-designed apartments, with their towering rooflines and massive construction, is basically 18th century Renaissance — modified to modern standards. Each building differs slightly in outside color and detail; yet, all are complementary in appearance, presenting an overall concept. The old stone gatehouse at the entrance and the outer stone wall add further to this concept.

ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM suites are offered at Three Fountains, with rentals starting at $200 per month. Layouts vary, with one, 1½ or two baths.

The entrance to each building at Three Fountains is a carpeted foyer nearly two stories high. The upper floors are reached via a wide stairway, also carpeted. Main hallways and distributing corridors in all buildings are carpeted, with the decor featuring molded wood paneling and contrasting wallpapers.

This approach is also seen in the corridor appointments, which include antique wall lights and massive door "hardware" combining shaped glass and metal.

In bathrooms and dressing rooms, feature vanities, cabinets and modern soft-lighting. In the kitchens, appliances are color-matched to complement the overall decor.

FLOOR SYSTEMS at Three Fountains are double-layered and sound-conditioned. Walls are fully insulated in all suites.

Other conveniences for residents include an underground heated garage for each building. Residents are furnished small activating units, carried in their cars, with which to control the electronically operated garage doors.

Furnished model apartments at Three Fountains are open to visitors daily from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. They may also be seen by appointment.

Teenagers With Winning Ways

Six teenagers who have improved their home surroundings through their own initiative and efforts will wind up the year richer by a $600 scholarship. They will receive their reward early in December during the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

These young people are 4-H members who will be named 1969 national winners in the 4-H Home Improvement program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, and supported by the S&H Foundation, Inc. They are fixing up their own rooms, or decorating and remodeling to add utility and beauty to the family dwelling.

Last year nearly 188,000 rural and urban 4-H'ers participated from coast to coast. The youngsters generally are between 9 and 19 years old. They belong to a club or group having a volunteer adult leader competent to advise and teach them the why's and how's of home improvement. The Extension Service does the overall program planning and project evaluation.

Model Riviera Homes Open

Six new model homes combining the features of contemporary European and American design are being presented at Riviera Homes in Arlington Heights by Aldridge Construction Co.

The homes range in size and prize from the three bedroom Villa at $44,900, combining the appeal of split-level design with a French touch to the five-bedroom Chateau at $48,500 with highly stylized architecture.

Martin Henry Braun, who developed these new floor plans and elevations, has designed homes in Paris, Cannes and Chicago. One of his most recent achievements was the Versailles homes development in Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights. All Riviera homes have oversized bathrooms and closet space.

The Aldridge Construction Co. and Martin Henry Braun combined have been building homes in Chicago for more than 60 years. Many of their homes have won national awards including American Home's award for building the "Best Home for the Money."

Riviera Homes models have been furnished and decorated by C. Tony Pereira of Los Angeles. Pereira is noted for his use of bright colors and following one color theme throughout an entire home.

The four bedroom, two-and-one-half bath Burgundy is one of six new models offered. This home incorporates American split-level design with that of a French villa.

Quaint window boxes set the tone for the Burgundy, with a brick and cedar exterior.

to the paneled family room with its optional fireplace, the formal dining room and a hall leading to the upstairs bedrooms or the utility/hobby room on the lower level.

In the Burgundy central access to all areas is provided and yet privacy is retained. There are four bedrooms and two full baths on the upper level. This home was designed for the growing family and the manner in which the sleeping area is separated from the living and playing area highlights this thought. The 15 foot-6 inch x 13 foot master bedroom has a walk-in closet, a regular closet and a private bath with separate oversized vanity and dressing area. The three family bedrooms are grouped toward the front of the home and all have closet space. All baths feature decorator mirrors and cultured marble vanity tops.

The homemaker will find all the equipment she needs to prepare a snack or a seven-course dinner in any of the Riviera Homes kitchens. These kitchens come equipped with a gas or electric eye-level double oven and range, a dishwasher, a disposal, Yorkcon or IXL custom cabinets, a hood fan, a double sink, vinyl asbestos floors and Formica counter tops.

Average lot sizes included in the price of the homes are 70 feet by 145 feet. There are many exterior design variations available and the interiors can be custom styled to the owner's preference.

To visit Riviera Homes take Interstate 24 to Wilmette-Palatine Road, then go west to Rand Road, Rt. 12, and then north 1 1/2 miles to the entrance.

to the paneled family room with its optional fireplace, the formal dining room and a hall leading to the upstairs bedrooms or the utility/hobby room on the lower level.

In the Burgundy central access to all areas is provided and yet privacy is retained. There are four bedrooms and two full baths on the upper level. This home was designed for the growing family and the manner in which the sleeping area is separated from the living and playing area highlights this thought. The 15 foot-6 inch x 13 foot master bedroom has a walk-in closet, a regular closet and a private bath with separate oversized vanity and dressing area. The three family bedrooms are grouped toward the front of the home and all have closet space. All baths feature decorator mirrors and cultured marble vanity tops.

The homemaker will find all the equipment she needs to prepare a snack or a seven-course dinner in any of the Riviera Homes kitchens. These kitchens come equipped with a gas or electric eye-level double oven and range, a dishwasher, a disposal, Yorktowne or IXL custom cabinets, a hood fan, a double sink, vinyl asbestos floors and Formica counter tops.

Average lot sizes included in the price of the home are 70 feet by 145 feet. There are many exterior design variations available and the interiors can be custom styled to the owner's preference.

To visit Riviera Homes take Interstate 294 to Willow-Palatine Road, then go west to Rand Road (Rt. 12) and then north 1 1/2 miles to the entrance.

Suffers in Nutcracker of Inflation

"While we are going to the moon, the nation is crawling along with a horse and buggy financial structure," Jack S. Kepler, president of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland (HBAC) said recently.

Kepler said, "People in this area who need new housing, whether it be by purchase of a single family home or renting an apartment, are having to do without because of the present money crunch."

"Time and again housing has been the major sufferer in the nutcracker of inflation that periodically seizes the country. The cure usually invoked by the nation's financial community is about as bad as the ailment," Kepler said.

After calling for a "permanent cure," Kepler said that "in the meantime, if home builders are ever to get an opportunity to meet our nation's housing needs and goals, we must learn how to survive the current crisis."

Kepler announced that HBAC would devote its general meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 2 at the Furniture Club to this problem.

PRINCIPAL SPEAKERS will be John A. Stastny, president of John A. Stastny & Co., a past HBAC president and current vice president-treasurer of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB); Martin Bartling, vice president, U. S. Gypsum, a past president of NAHB; and Ray Watt, president of the National Housing Partnership.

Kepler said it was "ironic" that so soon after congress established goals of 26 million homes for the next ten years, credit for mortgages has become almost unobtainable except at extremely high interest rates.

Kepler indicated that the fault lay in many directions, such as limitless public demands, the war in Viet Nam, heavy borrowing by big business for expansion and partly to "higher interest rates imposed by lenders." He added "Part of the fault lies in the attempted cure for inflation, the tighter money policies of the Federal Reserve Board."

According to Kepler, the housing industry is producing at a lower rate than five years ago at a time when it ought to be producing at least 50 per cent above the current level.

KEPLER SAID, "Inflation is pricing people out of the housing market. It's affecting middle income purchasers and renters. Cruellest of all is the effect on housing for low and moderate income families."

ARLINGTON, GAMBREL-ROOFED colonial offered by Levitt at Sheffield Park in Schaumburg for $34,500, has three bedrooms and two baths upstairs. On the main level, five windows and a sliding window provide an indoor-outdoor serving counter for patio dining. The beamed ceiling and wood paneling in the family room continue the colonial decor of the turned wood posts forming a divider between the dining room and kitchen.

Designs Reflect Research

One of the newest Levitt houses was designed by John Siorks, chief architect, to meet specific requests from Levitt's marketing and sales representatives for a three-bedroom home with all the bedrooms on the same floor.

While there is still a good demand for the convenience available in a one-level ranch home, Levitt research studies directed by Frederic VanderKloot, vice president of marketing, show that people prefer district separation between living and sleeping quarters, especially the privacy offered in two-story homes where the bedrooms are on the second floor. The Arlington model solved the dilemma.

"WE DO EXTENSIVE research on new designs built in our experimental construction areas," says VanderKloot, "to see how we can improve on them." Every design and construction step is evaluated according to a Levitt point system to rate floor plan; location and size of rooms with regard to traffic pattern and price; window and door locations and styles; kitchen and bath designs and appliances; materials and other items. "We have a group of contemporary houses on Long Island that have been studied since last December," explained VanderKloot. "But we probably won't release them for sale until September — after one or two more surveys."

When ratings on review teams are compiled, desirable features are incorporated into production units immediately.

The Arlington, a Dutch gambrel-roofed colonial offered at Sheffield Park in Schaumburg for $34,500, received a high point rating at the New Jersey prototype site where it was reviewed last March. Since that time, it has been built in metropolitan areas of New York, Detroit and Chicago.

THE GAMBREL ROOF of the Arlington adds several feet more to the three bedrooms and two baths upstairs.

On the main level, a wide expanse of glass sweeps from the dining room through the kitchen, laundry room and family room — five windows and sliding windows in the kitchen provide an indoor-outdoor serving counter arrangement for patio dining.

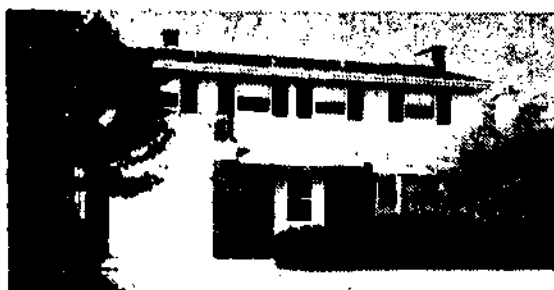

A naturally-lighted laundry room next to the kitchen contains matching General Electric washer and dryer and a lavatory with sink console cabinet.

The beamed ceiling and wood paneling in the family room, which has double windows, picks up some of the colonial decor seen in the turned wood posts that form a divider between the dining room and kitchen.

Murphy Adds New Arlington Store

Just three years after the opening of the first Murphy Carpet and Furniture store in Elk Grove Village, Pat Murphy, president, has announced the opening of a new store at 17 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights.

Scheduled to be open for business Sept. 1, the Arlington Heights Murphy Carpet and Furniture store has 13,000 square feet of space. Bill Kading is general manager of the store, which will house administrative offices and the bookkeeping department as well as display space.

At most $50,000 has been spent on remodeling of the store. About 50-60 different lines of carpeting will be sold at the store, with 150 rolls on display at the store and another 450 rolls in the warehouse at 175 Gaylord, Elk Grove Village.

Brand name furniture in various styles will be featured, along with lamps and wall hanging accessories.

Murphy Carpet and Furniture also has its own private parking lot. Ten crews of carpet installers are employed by Murphy.

Kading predicted annual sales from the two stores at over $1 1/2 million.

Come to the Fair

A refreshing look at some of young America's talents has been lined up for visitors to this year's State Fair of Wisconsin, Aug. 8-17.

A new feature at this year's fair is the County Fair's talent show. Winners from several preliminary county fair talent shows throughout the state participated in the final competition Aug. 8 in the Music Hall. Competition was held in five categories: instrumental solo, solo dancing, baton twirling, vocal solo, and oratory with a $250, $125, and $75 first, second, and third prize in each class.

The Young Folk, a group of 38 young people from Illinois, will also be on hand to entertain. The singing and dancing troupe, recruited from high schools, has performed at numerous fairs and cities. Under the direction of Gene Holmes, the group is sponsored by the Heart of Illinois Fair, Peoria.

Other talented young groups — the Kids From Wisconsin Wisconsin Idea Theatre Black Arts Theatre — are also at the 1969 State Fair of Wisconsin.

Council and Park Want a Pool

Money and land forthcoming, residents of Wood Dale may enjoy a new pool next spring. This situation is the outgrowth of a meeting Wednesday night between the Wood Dale Village Council and the Wood Dale Park District.

The meeting was called to discuss what would be done with six acres of land and $220,000 to be donated for recreational use by Richard Fencil. The donation was part of the pre-annexation agreement of Fencil's Brookwood Country Club to the village of Wood Dale.

Park district members and the village council agreed that five of the six acres should be used for construction of a pool the entire village could use.

The remaining acre is to be the site for the new village hall.

PARK DISTRICT members then opened

the "bargaining" session by announcing they were interested in three things:

- That the park district receive title to five acres.
- That the $220,000 donation for recreational use be turned over to the park district.
- That the pool be owned and operated by the park district.

The council said it would agree to these three requests as long as the park district could guarantee the village a pool in use by next summer.

Park district members said they could not do this, since the park district need time to either pass a referendum or use its 1½ per cent bonding power to secure the additional $138,000 that would be needed for the construction of a pool.

SEVERAL PARK members mentioned

the possibility of combining the referendum with a land acquisition program that could shoot the total bill up to $1½ million.

"The main concern of the village council," Dino Janis, commissioner, told the Register, "is that we are guaranteed a pool for next year."

"I would take 60 to 90 days for a bond referendum to pass, another 45 to 60 to design specifications for the pool, 120 days for construction, which means it wouldn't be completed until August or September of next year."

It was then suggested by Janis that the village council and the park district enter into a joint agreement in which the village would give the park district five acres of land in return for a guarantee of $108,000 to be used by the park district for construction of the pool. The $220,000 would be used by the village as its part of the pool construction.

"WITH A JOINT venture, plans could be drawn up within the next 45 days, bids could be let out and construction could then begin as early as October or November. This would insure completion by next summer," Janis said.

The village would pay the contractor the $220,000 and the park district would pay the remaining $108,000. In order for construction to begin as soon as possible, the $220,000 would be first used and the $108,000 would be paid the contractor as soon as it is collected through a referendum or bond sale.

"The agreement we worked out will also contain an escape clause for the park district."

THE MAIN CONCERN of the Wood Dale Village Council, according to Dino Janis, is that a pool is guaranteed for next year by the Wood Dale Park District. A bargaining session about a $220,000 donation to the village was held this week.

Complex Proposed

A $14 million multifamily residential development of 431 apartment units, to be located in the northwest sector of Itasca west of Route 53, was proposed Tuesday night in a public hearing held by the Itasca Planning Commission.

The petitioners, Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, a principal beneficiary of Harris Trust and Savings, is seeking approval of a pre-annexation agreement for R-3 zoning of 29 acres of land for the semi-luxury apartment complex bordering a six-acre lake. Another 17 acres, to be developed for light manufacturing in conjunction with Central Manufacturing District (CMD) are included in the planned development proposal.

The lake would be developed by draining marsh land, and around its central periphery would be five five-story, high-rise apartments and four clusters of low-rise units. An estimated 1,000 residents would occupy the apartments, designed around open space and the man-made lake.

ACCORDING TO the developers, "It is the intention of the parties to create a harmonious residential development and abundant open space in keeping with the purpose of planned development provisions of the Itasca zoning ordinance."

The 46 acres already owned by Avtech are north of Thorndale Avenue, south of Crest Avenue (if extended east), east of Meacham Road (if extended south) and approximately 2,600 feet west of Route 53.

The rectangular tract of land borders the northwest sector of the industrial park of CMD and presently lies in the unincorporated area of the county. However it is contiguous to Itasca and could be annexed if village trustees approve terms of the pre-annexation agreement.

Charles Hodgins, plan commission chairman, indicated Tuesday night the commission may decide to schedule a special meeting to review the proposal for recommendation to the village board.

BUT EFFORTS to meet in session with the trustees following the public hearing fell by the wayside when Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke attempted to round up a quorum at 10:15 p.m. Nottke found only he and Trustee Frank Atkinson were present and promptly adjourned the hearing for discussion at the next village board meeting next Tuesday.

According to Edward S. Mraz, an attorney representing the petitioners, the proposed residential development would comprise 95 one-bedroom units, 244 two-bedroom units and 92 three-bedroom units, with 1.5 parking spaces per apartment.

Nelson Frye, Avtech executive vice president, told commission members, "We have the technical and financial ability to develop the program, and, if we say what we will do, we will do it."

He said his firm has national representation and is recognized for its work in airport design, home construction and building of libraries and industrial parks.

WHEN QUESTIONED as to financing and proposed development, Frye replied that it would be under private financing

And not from federal funds.

He said Avtech is comprised of architects, engineers and construction managers. "The nuts and bolts of the department."

Favorable Reaction To Complex Seen

Planned, environmental multi family living is the proposal Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, presented before the Itasca Plan Commission Tuesday evening.

Avtech, a group of engineers and architects plans to build 431 semi-luxury units bordering a six-acre lake, as well as developing 17 acres of land for industrial purposes.

The theme of the apartments is an "environmental concept," Tony Bonavolonta, Avtech architect and Roselle village trustee, said.

"It's a simple idea, but a very effective one. All we are doing is taking the people who will be the tenants into consideration in the building of the apartments.

"WE ARE PLANNING to use a cluster system in the construction of the apartment buildings. This allows us to locate 100-foot courtyards in the middle. These areas can then be used for anything, from swimming pools to tennis courts."

"Or," he added, "they can be used as a social gathering place. Of course, the focal point will be the six-acre lake we plan to develop. This land is presently swamp land and we feel it is more desirable to put a lake on this property than to try to fill it in and use it for multi family dwellings."

"It's funny," Robert Cagann, a real estate appraiser and witness for Avtech, said, "but people are attracted to water. You would be surprised how a little water makes a great difference in the value of abutting property."

Cagann also told the plan commission the kind of rental fees the public should expect from the project, which seems to bear out his observation.

"ONE-BEDROOM apartments will probably run from $175-$190 per month; two-bedroom ones at $225 to $235 per month, and three-bedroom ones at $275 to $295 per month."

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke told the

a buffer zone of multiple-family residence buildings arranged around the six-acre lake.

The development would be phased out over a three-year building program, according to the petitioners.

To Recommend 7 Planners

Seven names were expected to be submitted at last night's Bensenville Village Board meeting as appointees to the new plan commission.

In the past, members of the plan commission were also members of the zoning board, but trustees voted last month to separate the two bodies.

Donald C. Hegebarth, 902 Glendale, was recommended to serve as chairman. Hegebarth will also serve on the zoning board. His term will be four years. His father, William, is a village trustee.

Other appointments expected are George F. Nielsen, 414 Rose, for a two-year term; Robert Agnes, 103 N. Mason, for a three-year term; James J. Madden, 1325 W. Irving Park Road, for a three-year term; Richard Arndt, 223 N. Orchard for a two-year term; John Piegore, 1033 Daniel, for a three-year term, and Robert Broderick, 455 S. Center for a two-year term.

RECOMMENDED AS secretary for the group was Mrs. Lucille Hall, 1028 David Drive.

The proposal to split the two commissions was part of the platform which Village Pres. John Varble ran on in April. He cited increased efficiency as the main reason for dividing the work load.

It is not yet known what night will be the regularly scheduled meeting date for the new plan commission. Village administrator Harold Koehler said he doubted the two boards would be meeting on the same day.

Another reason for splitting the two boards was the amount of time spent by the members in meetings. When the boards were meeting back-to-back, the business would often run until late at night.

Chairman of the zoning board is Eugene Sullivan. Members are Mrs. Arlene Benson, Cliff Zingraf, Steve Plaskon, Donald Miller and Ed Hynes.

Discuss School Referendum

A group of 14 Wood Dale residents met last night at the Oakbrook School in Wood Dale with School Dist. 7 officials to discuss the formation of a Wood Dale citizens committee. The committee, if formed, is interested in the passage of a proposed elementary school referendum next month.

Mrs. Joan Marden and Mrs. Marilyn Hannoy have been selected as co-chairwomen of the committee.

Dr. Warren B. Carson, superintendent of Dist. 7, told the group why a referendum was needed.

"BASICALLY WHAT we are planning to present before the voters is a two-fold program. The first part would provide for passage of a $250,000 bond referendum and the second would authorize a $425,000 state loan."

"The first part of the program is needed for the refurbishing of Highland School, the oldest school in the district. We would like to do away with seven of the classrooms there that don't conform with the life safety code. And the rest of the building should be brought up to par with the rest of the district," he said.

Burglary Probe

Bloomington police are continuing an investigation into two break-ins that occurred recently in the village.

A Chicago resident has been arrested and released from the DuPage County jail on $5,000 bond, in connection with a break-in and burglary at Kroll Auto Service, 153 W. Lake St., Bloomington. One man had previously been arrested and released on $5,000 bond and a third man is still being sought.

ANOTHER MAN suspected of breaking into the Rustic Barn Restaurant, 251 E. Lake St., Bloomington, and taking a check-writing machine and signed and unsigned checks, is being held in a Hazard, Ky. jail.

"This suspect is a definite tie-in with the stolen checks," Harold Rivkin, village police chief, told the Register.

"THE SECOND PART of the program is equally important. It provides for an interest-free loan from the state to build a 14-classroom addition to Westview school. This would allow us to take the seven sub-par classrooms at Highland out of existence, as well as add seven more to the district to allow for future expansion," he said.

"Several residents wondered how much it would cost the taxpayer if the referendum/loan is passed. It would cost the taxpayer who owns an assessed valued piece of property of $10,000 about $15, or 15 cents per $100 valuation. This would be for a piece of property worth about $20,000," Carson said.

Scouts Want Paper

Boy Scout Troops 60 and 65 of Wood Dale will hold a paper drive Sunday from noon till 3 p.m. Papers should be put at the side of the road at the driveway.

If a resident needs help in carrying the papers out, the scouts will help if he places a white tag on the mailbox.

All the money made from these paper drives is used to keep the troops in equipment and finance activities.

An Eloquent Call

Sewage proposals, wage increases and county administrative facilities are not the only business with which the DuPage County Board of Supervisors is currently involved.

After the meeting adjourned Tuesday, the supervisors passed one of their more eloquent resolutions. It reads:

"WHEREAS, MAN has now landed on the moon, and

"Whereas, aging John Wayne still has the fastest draw in the west, and

"Whereas, the county board has yet to decide whether Roosevelt Road or Butterfield Road should be renamed Demolition Alley, and "Whereas, the Cubs are establishing their superiority over other contenders, and of the county board has never been adequately demonstrated:

"Whereas, the obvious athletic prowess

"NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved that the DuPage County Board of Supervisors does now challenge the elected officials of DuPage County to a five-inning softball game to be played on Thursday, Sept. 17, 1969, at Herricks Lake Forest Preserve.

"Be it further resolved that the board secretary forward a copy of this resolution to each of the elected officials at their several offices."

Jack Wall, Bloomington Township supervisor, added that Mrs. Helen Schmidt, supervisor from Milton Township, should be manager and Mrs. Margaret Meyer-Downers Grove, and Mrs. Ange Mahnke, Milton Township, be appointed coaches. The press will umpire, he added.

Village Beat

Top priority has been given to Itasca's controversial Prospect-Thorndale sanitary sewer project toward resolving a proposed contractual agreement between the village and Central Manufacturing District.

The latest action initiated by Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke was disclosed recently when Nottke instructed Village Atty. Lawrence C. Traeger Jr. "I made a promise to the new attorney for Central Manufacturing District, Jack A. Rearick, that you would phone him on Monday morning (Aug. 4) to arrange a meeting on the drawing of the new and I hope, final contract."

Nottke's instructions to Traeger, reportedly followed a July 28 meeting with CMD Pres. James F. Donovan, Rearick, and other company officials which Nottke had been attempting to arrange for the past several weeks.

ITASCA TRUSTEES had rejected previously a proposed 11-page contract offered by Atty. Robert Bremer.

The new proposal was presumably the answer to warding off a referendum election on the sewer project which initially had been approved by ordinance after some nine months of negotiation with Bremer representing CMD.

Under terms of the new contract, the Itasca board of trustees sought an alternate method of financing the $1 million project through CMD with title of the sewer rights invested in the village.

On July 24 the board met in emergency session to discuss revisions to the initial contract which had been reviewed by Traeger. But the latest amendment to CMD's proposal was again rejected due primarily to inclusion of a reported 10 per cent interest rate and "non contribution" share of CMD, according to Nottke.

THIS LATEST go-around prompted a general consensus by board members that the negotiations and terms of the revised contract appeared to be "growing further apart" and that the past nine months of study on the project proposals were all but lost.

It was also indicated that Itasca's $1 million expansion program for its sewage treatment plant currently underway, offered CMD some tangible benefits in servicing its industrial park complex bordering Ill. Rte. 53.

Donovan and other CMD officials were briefed on the terms of the revised contract by Nottke at last week's meeting.

It was reported that Donovan was sympathetic to Itasca's problems and apparently desired to have CMD pay its fair share of the funding.

According to Nottke, there had been presumably a misunderstanding on the alleged 10 per cent interest cost to the village and the "noncontribution" aspect of the proposed agreement, whatever that is.

"MR. DONOVAN'S attitude revived the CMD attitude of the past," Nottke said. "He once again gave me the fine feeling of cooperation and that CMD wanted to be good neighbors or residents of Itasca."

"We were in agreement in all phases of the project," Nottke reported, adding, "now we need merely to rely on the attorneys to put the contract in proper words and form."

If all goes well, the amended draft of the latest agreement could be presented for another review by the trustees at their Aug. 18 meeting.

But the current negotiations with CMD may not set well with the majority of the 116 residents who signed the petition calling for a referendum on the project. On the other hand, there is apparently support to get the sanitary sewer project underway while construction weather is still favorable.

FURTHER DELAYS could boost costs higher and higher — yet if agreement is reached on the latest proposal, the complex agreement could possibly be more advantageous to the village than under terms of the ordinances initially approved by the trustees.

Without the sewer project this could cramp future annexations geared to further CMD expansion and anticipated planned residential development north of Itasca.

If a referendum election had been held and passed — there would be no room for criticism. It looks like the board would prefer to take the other route and let the chips fall as they may.

Citizens Hit Conditions

Bloomington village officials got the third degree from irate citizens about well problems, sewage inadequacies and the Hoffman-Rosner development at the village board meeting Wednesday night.

The discussion from the floor, which lasted almost as long as the meeting, was encouraged by some of the action and inaction of the village board concerning the state of Bloomington.

The pump for Well No. 2 still has not arrived from the factory in Oklahoma, and nothing else was reported about the water situation.

A petition requesting a referendum regarding the Hoffman-Rosner annexation filed by Mrs. Lucille Kogut, 406 Meadowlark St., was dismissed as invalid by Jack Waghorne, village attorney.

WAGHORNE SAID the prerogative of calling for a petition falls under the provisions of another section for the annexation statute. "We annexed under 7-1-8, which does not provide for a referendum questioning the annexation," he said.

A check for $20,000 from the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. for building permits was given to the village board, after Lowell Siff, Hoffman-Rosner vice president announced units one and two were ready to be started.

Siff also promised the company would begin looping the Suncrest and Indian Lake water system, since the Illinois Sanitary Water Board has given its approval to the line. The village has been authorized by the water board to proceed with the plans for the sewage treatment plant that Hoffman-Rosner agreed to construct.

SUBDIVISION construction and sewage line construction will be done simultaneously, Siff said, even though the sewage treatment plant has not been formally approved.

"This is done in good faith on the part of the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. and the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, which has issued building permits, that the village will work on a design that will meet approval and provide the facilities needed."

Joe Pavia, engineer for Ralph F. Gross and Son, Pavia, Inc., made Ralph Gross' report.

Pavia said the village was told it "could go ahead on plans for the sewage plant," but his firm had been doing research on the capacity needed for the Hoffman-Rosner development and the rest of the village.

"There has been so much interest in annexing to the village on the behalf of other developers that we have decided to call a meeting with them to see what kind of initial capacity we'll need."

"Either they agree to put up some money for a larger sewage treatment plant, or they don't get any service."

PAVIA MENTIONED the possibility of a plant with an initial capacity of 800,000 gallons.

Old water and sewage problems were brought up when Vincent Occhipinti, 163 Lake St., addressed the board.

Occhipinti complained of the recent water shortage experienced by Suncrest Highland residents. "Looping will not solve a thing," he said. "Let's cut the comedy. The problem was caused by inferior pumps."

Other residents complained of the sewer back-up in their homes, showing concern over the board's approval of the building of apartments near Lake Street and Glen Dale Road.

Occhipinti attributed the sewage problem to "too many hookups on the line. The village knows that the system is inadequate, yet it continues to allow more users."

JACK WAGHORNE, village attorney, assures Bloomington trustees Westlake cannot be brought for a referendum.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers said the water works initially were designed to serve a housing project and not a municipality.

"THE AREA WAS annexed to the village after the facilities had been approved by the county and built," Meyers said.

Referring to a lack of planning, Meyers said, "That's why the meeting is so important. We are asking the developers interested in Bloomington to come forth and help us develop a plan that will work for the future."

Problems with the clerk's office were not solved as the board would not provide a second to Ralph Johnston's motion that Mrs. Fortune LoPresti be appointed clerk until the next election.

Meyers questioned the lack of response "I thought this was all settled in the committee meeting. We discussed this for a half-hour."

"We didn't discuss anything," Trustee Paul Ahlrich said. "You told us what you wanted and we listened."

"You told us this was your choice and that was the way it was," Trustee Robert Buckles said.

"THAT'S NOT TRUE. I said this woman was my choice for the job and asked for your vote. I thought this was settled at the meeting. You didn't say anything. I can't force you to talk," Meyers said.

Meyers announced the clerk's office will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon. He said he hoped the board would seriously work to look for a new clerk to help the serious problem in the village hall.

During the discussion period Mrs. Kogut questioned Waghorne's statement on her petition.

WAGHORNE AGAIN explained there are different methods for annexation and the village used a method that does not provide for referendum.

"Don't you think the village should have asked for a vote from its citizens? The village isn't that big that it can't have any closeness," he said.

"My lawyer says I can file a petition," "I say you can't," said Waghorne.

"Well, mine says you can," Mrs. Kogut insisted.

"That's what makes law suits," Waghorne said.

Officials Want New Pool

trict," Janis continued. "If the park district has trouble collecting the $108,000 in this amount of time, the village will then agree to foot this part of the bill too."

"At a later date we would turn over the pool and its management to the park district in return for the $180,000. This plan works in business every day, when one partner may be in a financial bind."

"THIS METHOD would save us as much as 90 days and we could be sure of having a pool for the village next summer. After all, the village does not want to go into the pool business."

The only hold-up in the proceedings now seems to be the money itself. Fencil was to have the deed to the land and the $220,000 ready to hand over to the village in June. He asked for a two-month extension, which was granted, but has failed to make a positive effort since then.

"The final agreement was signed over two months ago," Janis said. "We have gone as far as we can possibly go."

"If the money and the land is not forthcoming by the Aug. 21 village council meeting, we will proceed to null and void the pre-annexation agreement with Fencil."

"We just can't wait any longer for the land. Construction costs continue to rise every day. Our new village hall, to be located on one of the six acres, has gone up $10,000 in costs because of delays."

Janis said there are other contingencies involved in the situation, setting up a chain reaction of events.

"The police are supposed to move into the new village hall, the library is supposed to expand into the old police station, but this is all contingent upon the passage of the pre-annexation agreement."

Are you willing to go as low as $1939* for a new VW?

We don't sell status.
Just a car. One that gets up to 27 mpg, hardly uses oil between changes, and goes a long way on a set of tires.

Of course, the fact that it's practical is no secret. And everybody is going to know that you're saving money. But that's the price you pay for a Volkswagen.

Council and Park Want a Pool

Money and land forthcoming, residents of Wood Dale may enjoy a new pool next spring. This situation is the outgrowth of a meeting Wednesday night between the Wood Dale Village Council and the Wood Dale Park District.

The meeting was called to discuss what would be done with six acres of land and $220,000 to be donated for recreational use by Richard Fencel. The donation was part of the pre-annexation agreement of Fencel's Brookwood Country Club to the village of Wood Dale.

Park district members and the village council agreed that five of the six acres should be used for construction of a pool the entire village could use.

The remaining acre is to be the site for the new village hall.

PARK DISTRICT members then opened

the "bargaining" session by announcing they were interested in three things:

—That the park district receive title to five acres.

—That the $220,000 donation for recreational use be turned over to the park district.

—That the pool be owned and operated by the park district.

The council said it would agree to these three requests as long as the park district could guarantee the village a pool in use by next summer.

Park district members said they could not do this, since the park district need time to either pass a referendum or use its 1½ per cent bonding power to secure the additional $138,000 that would be needed for the construction of a pool.

SEVERAL PARK members mentioned

the possibility of combining the referendum with a land acquisition program that could shoot the total bill up to $1½ million.

"The main concern of the village council," Dino Janis, commissioner, told the Register, "is that we are guaranteed a pool for next year."

"I would take 60 to 90 days for a bond referendum to pass, another 45 to 60 to design specifications for the pool, 120 days for construction, which means it wouldn't be completed until August or September of next year."

It was then suggested by Janis that the village council and the park district enter into a joint agreement in which the village would give the park district five acres of land in return for a guarantee of $108,000 to be used by the park district for construction of the pool. The $220,000 would be used by the village as its part of the pool construction.

"WITH A JOINT venture, plans could be drawn up within the next 45 days, bids could be let out and construction could then begin as early as October or November. This would insure completion by next summer," Janis said.

The village would pay the contractor the $220,000 and the park district would pay the remaining $108,000. In order for construction to begin as soon as possible, the $220,000 would be first used and the $108,000 would be paid the contractor as soon as it is collected through a referendum or bond sale.

"The agreement we worked out will also contain an escape clause for the park district."

THE MAIN CONCERN of the Wood Dale Village Council, according to Dino Janis, is that a pool is guaranteed for next year by the Wood Dale Park District. A bargaining session about a $220,000 donation to the village was held this week.

Complex Proposed

A $14 million multifamily residential development of 431 apartment units, to be located in the northwest sector of Itasca west of Route 53, was proposed Tuesday night in a public hearing held by the Itasca Planning Commission.

The petitioners, Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, a principal beneficiary of Harris Trust and Savings, is seeking approval of a pre-annexation agreement for R-3 zoning of 29 acres of land for the semi-luxury apartment complex bordering a six-acre lake. Another 17 acres, to be developed for light manufacturing in conjunction with Central Manufacturing District (CMD) are included in the planned development proposal.

The lake would be developed by draining marsh land, and around its central periphery would be five five-story, high-rise apartments and four clusters of low-rise units. An estimated 1,000 residents would occupy the apartments, designed around open space and the man-made lake.

ACCORDING TO the developers, "It is the intention of the parties to create harmonious residential development and abundant open space in keeping with the purpose of planned development provisions of the Itasca zoning ordinance."

The 46 acres already owned by Avtech are north of Thorndale Avenue, south of Crest Avenue (if extended east), east of Meacham Road (if extended south) and approximately 2,600 feet west of Route 53.

The rectangular tract of land borders the northwest sector of the industrial park of CMD and presently lies in the unincorporated area of the county. However it is contiguous to Itasca and could be annexed if village trustees approve terms of the pre-annexation agreement.

Charles Hodgkin, plan commission chairman, indicated Tuesday night the commission may decide to schedule a special meeting to review the proposal for recommendation to the village board.

BUT EFFORTS to meet in session with the trustees following the public hearing fell by the wayside when Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke attempted to round up a quorum at 10:15 p.m. Nottke found only he and Trustee Frank Atkinson were present and promptly adjourned the hearing for discussion at the next village board meeting next Tuesday.

According to Edward S. Mraz, an attorney representing the petitioners, the proposed residential development would comprise 95 one-bedroom units, 244 two-bedroom units and 92 three-bedroom units, with 15 parking spaces per apartment.

Nelson Frye, Avtech executive vice president, told commission members, "We have the technical and financial ability to develop the program, and, if we say what we will do, we will do it."

He said his firm has national representation and is recognized for its work in airport design, home construction and building of libraries and industrial parks.

WHEN QUESTIONED as to financing and proposed development, Frye replied that it would be under private financing and not from federal funds.

He said Avtech is comprised of architects, engineers and construction managers - "the nuts and bolts of the department."

Assisting in the presentation was Anthony Bonavolonta, a member of Avtech and a Roselle village trustee.

The "M Limited Manufacturing District" would be developed as a small industrial park separated from the residential properties along Thorndale Avenue by a buffer zone of multiple-family residence buildings arranged around the six-acre lake.

The development would be phased out over a three-year building program, according to the petitioners.

Favorable Reaction To Complex Seen

Planned, environmental multi family living is the proposal Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, presented before the Itasca Plan Commission Tuesday evening.

Avtech, a group of engineers and architects plans to build 431 semi-luxury units bordering a six-acre lake, as well as developing 17 acres of land for industrial purposes.

The theme of the apartments is an "environmental concept," Tony Bonavolonta, Avtech architect and Roselle village trustee, said.

"It's a simple idea, but a very effective one. All we are doing is taking the people who will be the tenants into consideration in the building of the apartments."

"WE ARE PLANNING to use a cluster system in the construction of the apartment buildings. This allows us to locate 100-foot courtyards in the middle. These areas can then be used for anything, from swimming pools to tennis courts."

"Or," he added, "they can be used as a social gathering place. Of course, the focal point will be the six-acre lake we plan to develop. This land is presently swamp land and we feel it is more desirable to put a lake on this property than to try to fill it in and use it for multi family dwellings."

"It's funny," Robert Cagann, a real estate appraiser and witness for Avtech, said, "but people are attracted to water. You would be surprised how a little water makes a great difference in the value of abutting property."

Cagann also told the plan commission the kind of rental fees the public should expect from the project, which seems to bear out his observation.

"ONE-BEDROOM apartments will probably run from $175-$180 per month; two-bedroom ones at $225 to $235 per month, and three-bedroom ones at $275 to $285 per month."

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke told the Register he received a favorable reaction from about 15 people who live near him in Wood Dale.

"These people told me they feel the project will be an asset to the village. Most of these people are in their late 40s or early 50s and are considering moving out of their houses and into apartments. Their children are grown up and they don't want to have to take care of an empty house."

"THESE APARTMENTS will have a two-fold effect they will allow us to keep citizens who desire multi-family living quarters, and they will bring more population into the village," he said.

"I'm not looking forward too much to this second effect. I was never an advocate of a 'house on every lot,' and I'm sure my fellow village residents for the most part feel the same way," Nottke continued.

He said he was not against progress or the project "I am definitely for both. I the Avtech plan is very worthwhile. It is a good example of making something desirable out of nothing. And the entire northwest sector is along the soon-to-be O'Hare-Elgin expressway, which will open up the land for industry, single and multi family residences."

However, I feel progress has to be controlled. What the village is looking for is a balance. We realize the need for industry, for apartments for single-family residential areas. But each need must be subordinated to the total need of the community. There must be a balance."

This thought will weigh heavily in the thinking of the village plan commission and its decision will be tempered by how they determine the Avtech proposal will reflect this need for balance.

To Recommend 7 Planners

Seven names were expected to be submitted at last night's Bensenville Village Board meeting as appointees to the new plan commission.

In the past, members of the plan commission were also members of the zoning board, but trustees voted last month to separate the two bodies.

Donald C. Hegebarth, 902 Glendale, was recommended to serve as chairman. Hegebarth will also serve on the zoning board. His term will be four years. His father, William, is a village trustee.

Other appointments expected are George F. Nielsen, 414 Rose, for a two-year term; Robert Agnes, 103 N. Mason, for a three-year term; James J. Madden, 1325 W. Irving Park Road, for a three-year term; Richard Arndt, 223 N. Orchard for a two-year term; John Piegore, 1033 Daniel, for a three-year term, and Robert Broderick, 455 S. Center for a two-year term.

RECOMMENDED AS secretary for the group was Mrs. Lucille Hall, 1028 David Drive.

The proposal to split the two commissions was part of the platform which Village Pres. John Varble ran on in April. He cited increased efficiency as the main reason for dividing the work load.

It is not yet known what night will be the regularly scheduled meeting date for the new plan commission. Village administrator Harold Koehler said he doubted the two boards would be meeting on the same day.

Another reason for splitting the two boards was the amount of time spent by the members in meetings. When the boards were meeting back-to-back, the business would often run until late at night.

Chairman of the zoning board is Eugene Sullivan. Members are Mrs. Arlene Benson, Cliff Zingraf, Steve Plaskon, Donald Miller and Ed Hynes.

Discuss School Referendum

A group of 14 Wood Dale residents met last night at the Oakbrook School in Wood Dale with School Dist. 7 officials to discuss the formation of a Wood Dale citizens committee. The committee, if formed, is interested in the passage of a proposed elementary school referendum next month.

Mrs. Joan Marden and Mrs. Marilyn Hanoy have been selected as co-chairwomen of the committee.

Dr. Warren B. Carson, superintendent of Dist. 7, told the group why a referendum was needed.

"BASICALLY WHAT we are planning to present before the voters is a two-fold program. The first part would provide for passage of a $250,000 bond referendum and the second would authorize a $425,000 state loan."

"The first part of the program is needed for the refurbishing of Highland School, the oldest school in the district. We would like to do away with seven of the classrooms there that don't conform with the life safety code. And the rest of the building should be brought up to par with the rest of the district," he said.

Burglary Probe

Bloomington police are continuing an investigation into two break-ins that occurred recently in the village.

A Chicago resident has been arrested and released from the DuPage County jail on $5,000 bond, in connection with a break-in and burglary at Kroll Auto Service, 153 W. Lake St., Bloomington. One man had previously been arrested and released on $5,000 bond and a third man is still being sought.

ANOTHER MAN suspected of breaking into the Rustic Barn Restaurant, 251 E. Lake St., Bloomington, and taking a check-writing machine and signed and unsigned checks, is being held in a Hazard, Ky. jail.

"This suspect is a definite tie-in with the stolen checks," Harold Rivkin, village police chief, told the Register.

"THE SECOND PART of the program is equally important. It provides for an interest-free loan from the state to build a 14-classroom addition to Westview school. This would allow us to take the seven sub-par classrooms at Highland out of existence, as well as add seven more to the district to allow for future expansion," he said.

"Several residents wondered how much it would cost the taxpayer if the referendum/loan is passed. It would cost the taxpayer who owns an assessed valuation piece of property of $10,000 about $15, or 15 cents per $100 valuation. This would be for a piece of property worth about $20,000," Carson said.

Scouts Want Paper

Boy Scout Troops 60 and 65 of Wood Dale will hold a paper drive Sunday from noon till 3 p.m. Papers should be put at the side of the road at the driveway.

If a resident needs help in carrying the papers out, the scouts will be if he places a white rag on the mailbox.

All the money made from these paper drives is used to keep the troops in equipment and finance activities.

An Eloquent Call

Sewage proposals, wage increases and county administrative facilities are not the only business with which the DuPage County Board of Supervisors is currently involved.

After the meeting adjourned Tuesday, the supervisors passed one of their more eloquent resolutions. It reads:

"WHEREAS, MAN has now landed on the moon, and

"Whereas, aging John Wayne still has the fastest draw in the west, and

"Whereas, the county board has yet to decide whether Roosevelt Road or Butterfield Road should be renamed Demolition Alley, and "Whereas, the Cubs are establishing their superiority over other contenders, and of the county board has never been adequately demonstrated.

"Whereas, the obvious athletic prowess

"NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved that the DuPage County Board of Supervisors does now challenge the elected officials of DuPage County to a five-inning softball game to be played on Thursday, Sept. 17, 1969, at Herricks Lake Forest Preserve.

"Be it further resolved that the board secretary forward a copy of this resolution to each of the elected officials at their several offices."

Jack Wall, Bloomingdale Township supervisor, added that Mrs. Helen Schmidt, supervisor from Milton Township, should be manager and Mrs. Margaret Meyers, Downers Grove, and Mrs. Ange Mahnke, Milton Township, be appointed coaches. The press will umpire, he added.

Top priority has been given to Itasca's controversial Prospect-Thorndale sanitary sewer project toward resolving a proposed contractual agreement between the village and Central Manufacturing District.

The latest action initiated by Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke was disclosed recently when Nottke instructed Village Atty. Lawrence C. Traeger Jr. "I made a promise to the new attorney for Central Manufacturing District, Jack A. Rearick, that you would phone him on Monday morning (Aug. 4) to arrange a meeting on the drawing of the new and I hope, final contract."

Nottke's instructions to Traeger, reportedly followed a July 28 meeting with CMD Pres. James F. Donovan, Rearick, and other company officials which Nottke had been attempting to arrange for the past several weeks.

ITASCA TRUSTEES had rejected previously a proposed 11-page contract offered by Atty. Robert Bremer.

The new proposal was presumably the answer to warding off a referendum election on the sewer project which initially had been approved by ordinance after some nine months of negotiation with Bremer representing CMD.

Under terms of the new contract, the Itasca board of trustees sought an alternate method of financing the $1 million project through CMD with title of the sewer rights invested in the village.

On July 24 the board met in emergency session to discuss revisions to the initial contract which had been reviewed by Traeger. But the latest amendment to CMD's proposal was again rejected due primarily to inclusion of a reported 10 per cent interest rate and "non contribution" share of CMD, according to Nottke.

THIS LATEST go-around prompted a general consensus by board members that the negotiations and terms of the revised contract appeared to be "growing further apart" and that the past nine months of study on the project proposals were all but lost.

It was also indicated that Itasca's $1 million expansion program for its sewage treatment plant currently underway, offered CMD some tangible benefits in servicing its industrial park complex bordering Ill. Rte. 53.

Donovan and other CMD officials were briefed on the terms of the revised contract by Nottke at last week's meeting.

It was reported that Donovan was sympathetic to Itasca's problems and apparently desired to have CMD pay its fair share of the funding.

According to Nottke, there had been presumably a misunderstanding on the alleged 10 per cent interest cost to the village and the "noncontribution" aspect of the proposed agreement, whatever that is.

"MR. DONOVAN'S attitude revived the CMD attitude of the past," Nottke said. "He once again gave me the fine feeling of cooperation and that CMD wanted to be good neighbors or residents of Itasca."

"We were in agreement in all phases of the project," Nottke reported, adding, "now we need merely to rely on the attorneys to put the contract in proper words and form."

If all goes well, the amended draft of the latest agreement could be presented for another review by the trustees at their Aug. 19 meeting.

But the current negotiations with CMD may not set well with the majority of the 116 residents who signed the petition calling for a referendum on the project. On the other hand, there is apparently support to get the sanitary sewer project underway while construction weather is still favorable.

FURTHER DELAYS could boost costs higher and higher — yet if agreement is reached on the latest proposal, the complex agreement could possibly be more advantageous to the village than under terms of the ordinances initially approved by the trustees.

Without the sewer project this could cramp future annexations geared to further CMD expansion and anticipated planned residential development north of Itasca.

If a referendum election had been held and passed — there would be no room for criticism. It looks like the board would prefer to take the other route and let the chips fall as they may.

Citizens Hit Conditions

Bloomington village officials got the third degree from irate citizens about well problems, sewage inadequacies and the Hoffman-Rosner development at the village board meeting Wednesday night.

The discussion from the floor, which lasted almost as long as the meeting, was encouraged by some of the action and inaction of the village board concerning the state of Bloomington.

The pump for Well No. 2 still has not arrived from the factory in Oklahoma, and nothing else was reported about the water situation.

A petition requesting a referendum regarding the Hoffman-Rosner annexation filed by Mrs. Lucille Kugot, 406 Meadowlark St., was dismissed as invalid by Jack Waghorne, village attorney.

WAGHORNE SAID the prerogative of calling for a petition falls under the provisions of another section for the annexation statute. "We annexed under 7-1-8, which does not provide for a referendum questioning the annexation," he said.

A check for $20,000 from the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. for building permits was given to the village board, after Lowell Siff, Hoffman-Rosner vice president announced units one and two were ready to be started.

Siff also promised the company would begin looping the Suncrest and Indian Lake water system, since the Illinois Sanitary Water Board has given its approval to the line. The village has been authorized by the water board to proceed with the plans for the sewage treatment plant that Hoffman-Rosner agreed to construct.

SUBDIVISION construction and sewage line construction will be done simultaneously, Siff said, even though the sewage treatment plant has not been formally approved.

"This is done in good faith on the part of the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. and the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, which has issued building permits, that the village will work on a design that will meet approval and provide the facilities needed."

Joe Pavia, engineer for Ralph F. Gross and Son, Pavia, Inc., made Ralph Gross' report.

Pavia said the village was told it "could go ahead on plans for the sewage plant," but his firm had been doing research on the capacity needed for the Hoffman-Rosner development and the rest of the village.

"There has been so much interest in annexing to the village on the behalf of other developers that we have decided to call a meeting with them to see what kind of initial capacity we'll need."

"Either they agree to put up some money for a larger sewage treatment plant, or they don't get any service."

PAVIA MENTIONED the possibility of a plant with an initial capacity of 800,000 gallons.

Old water and sewage problems were brought up when Vincent Occhipinti, 163 Lake St., addressed the board.

Occhipinti complained of the recent water shortage experienced by Suncrest Highland residents. "Looping will not solve a thing," he said. "Let's cut the comedy. The problem was caused by inferior pumps."

Other residents complained of the sewer back-up in their homes, showing concern over the board's approval of the building of apartments near Lake Street and Glen-dale Road.

Occhipinti attributed the sewage problem to "too many hookups on the line. The village knows that the system is inadequate, yet it continues to allow more users."

Village Pres. Robert Meyers said the water works initially were designed to serve a housing project and not a municipality.

"THE AREA WAS annexed to the village after the facilities had been approved by the county and built," Meyers said.

Referring to a lack of planning, Meyers said, "That's why the meeting is so important. We are asking the developers interested in Bloomington to come forth and help us develop a plan that will work for the future."

Problems with the clerk's office were not solved as the board would not provide a second to Ralph Johnston's motion that Mrs. Fortune LoPresti be appointed clerk until the next election.

Meyers questioned the lack of response. "I thought this was all settled in the committee meeting. We discussed this for a half-hour."

"We didn't discuss anything," Trustee Paul Ahlrich said. "You told us what you wanted and we listened."

"You told us this was your choice and that was the way it was," Trustee Robert Buckles said.

"THAT'S NOT TRUE. I said this woman was my choice for the job and asked for your vote. I thought this was settled at the meeting. You didn't say anything. I can't force you to talk," Meyers said.

Meyers announced the clerk's office will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon. He said he hoped the board would seriously work to look for a new clerk to help the serious problem in the village hall.

During the discussion period Mrs. Kugot questioned Waghorne's statement on her petition.

WAGHORNE AGAIN explained there are different methods for annexation and the village used a method that does not provide for referendum.

"Don't you think the village should have asked for a vote from its citizens? The village isn't that big that it can't have any closeness," he said.

"My lawyer says I can file a petition."

"I say you can't," said Waghorne.

"Well, mine says you can," Mrs. Kugot insisted.

"That's what makes law suits," Waghorne said.

trict," Janis continued. "If the park district has trouble collecting the $108,000 in this amount of time, the village will then agree to foot this part of the bill too."

"At a later date we would turn over the pool and its management to the park district in return for the $180,000. This plan works in business every day, when one partner may be in a financial bind."

"THIS METHOD would save us as much as 90 days and we could be sure of having a pool for the village next summer. After all, the village does not want to go into the pool business."

The only hold-up in the proceedings now seems to be the money itself. Fencil was to have the deed to the land and the $220,000 ready to hand over to the village in June. He asked for a two-month extension, which was granted, but has failed to make a positive effort since then.

"The final agreement was signed over two months ago," Janis said. "We have gone as far as we can possibly go."

"If the money and the land is not forthcoming by the Aug. 21 village council meeting, we will proceed to null and void the pre-annexation agreement with Fencil."

"We just can't wait any longer for the land. Construction costs continue to rise every day. Our new village hall, to be located on one of the six acres, has gone up $10,000 in costs because of delays."

Janis said there are other contingencies involved in the situation, setting up a chain reaction of events.

"The police are supposed to move into the new village hall, the library is supposed to expand into the old police station, but this is all contingent upon the passage of the pre-annexation agreement."

Council and Park Want a Pool

Money and land forthcoming, residents of Wood Dale may enjoy a new pool next spring. This situation is the outgrowth of a meeting Wednesday night between the Wood Dale Village Council and the Wood Dale Park District.

The meeting was called to discuss what would be done with six acres of land and $220,000 to be donated for recreational use by Richard Fencel. The donation was part of the pre-annexation agreement of Fencel's Brookwood Country Club to the village of Wood Dale.

Park district members and the village council agreed that five of the six acres should be used for construction of a pool the entire village could use.

The remaining acre is to be the site for the new village hall.

PARK DISTRICT members then opened

the "bargaining" session by announcing they were interested in three things:

—That the park district receive title to five acres

—That the $220,000 donation for recreational use be turned over to the park district.

—That the pool be owned and operated by the park district.

The council said it would agree to these three requests as long as the park district could guarantee the village a pool in use by next summer.

Park district members said they could not do this, since the park district need time to either pass a referendum or use its 1½ per cent bonding power to secure the additional $138,000 that would be needed for the construction of a pool.

SEVERAL PARK members mentioned

the possibility of combining the referendum with a land acquisition program that could shoot the total bill up to $1¼ million.

"The main concern of the village council," Dino Janis, commissioner, told the Register, "is that we are guaranteed a pool for next year."

"I would take 60 to 90 days for a bond referendum to pass, another 45 to 60 to design specifications for the pool, 120 days for construction, which means it wouldn't be completed until August or September of next year."

It was then suggested by Janis that the village council and the park district enter into a joint agreement in which the village would give the park district five acres of land in return for a guarantee of $108,000 to be used by the park district for construction of the pool. The $220,000 would be used by the village as its part of the pool construction.

"WITH A JOINT venture, plans could be drawn up within the next 45 days, bids could be let out and construction could then begin as early as October or November. This would insure completion by next summer," Janis said.

The village would pay the contractor the $220,000 and the park district would pay the remaining $108,000. In order for construction to begin as soon as possible, the $220,000 would be first used and the $108,000 would be paid the contractor as soon as it is collected through a referendum or bond sale.

"The agreement we worked out will also contain an escape clause for the park dis-

Complex Proposed

A $14 million multifamily residential development of 431 apartment units, to be located in the northwest sector of Itasca west of Route 53, was proposed Tuesday night in a public hearing held by the Itasca Planning Commission.

The petitioners, Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, a principal beneficiary of Harris Trust and Savings, is seeking approval of a pre-annexation agreement for R-3 zoning of 29 acres of land for the semi-luxury apartment complex bordering a six-acre lake. Another 17 acres, to be developed for light manufacturing in conjunction with Central Manufacturing District (CMD) are included in the planned development proposal.

The lake would be developed by draining marsh land, and around its central periphery would be five five-story, high-rise apartments and four clusters of low-rise units. An estimated 1,000 residents would occupy the apartments, designed around open space and the man-made lake.

ACCORDING TO the developers, "It is the intention of the parties to create harmonious residential development and abundant open space in keeping with the purpose of planned development provisions of the Itasca zoning ordinance."

The 46 acres already owned by Avtech are north of Thorndale Avenue, south of Crest Avenue (if extended east), east of Meacham Road (if extended south) and approximately 2,500 feet west of Route 53.

The rectangular tract of land borders the northwest sector of the industrial park of CMD and presently lies in the unincorporated area of the county. However it is contiguous to Itasca and could be annexed if village trustees approve terms of the pre-annexation agreement.

Charles Hodgins, plan commission chairman, indicated Tuesday night the commission may decide to schedule a special meeting to review the proposal for recommendation to the village board.

BUT EFFORTS to meet in session with the trustees following the public hearing fell by the wayside when Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke attempted to round up a quorum at 10:15 p.m. Nottke found only he and Trustee Frank Atkinson were present and promptly adjourned the hearing for discussion at the next village board meeting next Tuesday.

According to Edward S. Mraz, an attorney representing the petitioners, the proposed residential development would comprise 95 one-bedroom units, 244 two-bedroom units and 92 three-bedroom units, with 1.5 parking spaces per apartment.

Nelson Frye, Avtech executive vice president, told commission members, "We have the technical and financial ability to develop the program, and, if we say what we will do, we will do it."

He said his firm has national representation and is recognized for its work in airport design, home construction and building of libraries and industrial parks.

WHEN QUESTIONED as to financing and proposed development, Frye replied that it would be under private financing and not from federal funds.

He said Avtech is comprised of architects, engineers and construction managers — "the nuts and bolts of the department."

Assisting in the presentation was Anthony Bonavolonta, a member of Avtech and a Roselle village trustee.

The "M Limited Manufacturing District" would be developed as a small industrial park separated from the residential properties along Thorndale Avenue by a buffer zone of multiple-family residence buildings arranged around the six-acre lake.

The development would be phased out over a three-year building program, according to the petitioners.

Favorable Reaction To Complex Seen

Planned, environmental multi family living is the proposal Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, presented before the Itasca Plan Commission Tuesday evening.

Avtech, a group of engineers and architects plans to build 431 semi-luxury units bordering a six-acre lake, as well as developing 17 acres of land for industrial purposes.

The theme of the apartments is an "environmental concept," Tony Bonavolonta, Avtech architect and Roselle village trustee, said.

"It's a simple idea, but a very effective one. All we are doing is taking the people who will be the tenants into consideration in the building of the apartments.

"WE ARE PLANNING to use a cluster system in the construction of the apartment buildings. This allows us to locate 100-foot courtyards in the middle. These areas can then be used for anything, from swimming pools to tennis courts."

"Or," he added, "they can be used as a social gathering place. Of course, the focal point will be the six-acre lake we plan to develop. This land is presently swamp land and we feel it is more desirable to put a lake on this property than to try to fill it in and use it for multi family dwellings."

"It's funny," Robert Cagann, a real estate appraiser and witness for Avtech, said, "but people are attracted to water. You would be surprised how a little water makes a great difference in the value of abutting property."

Cagann also told the plan commission the kind of rental fees the public should expect from the project, which seems to bear out his observation.

"ONE-BEDROOM apartments will probably run from $175-$180 per month; two-bedroom ones at $225 to $235 per month, and three-bedroom ones at $275 to $285 per month."

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke told the Register he received a favorable reaction from about 15 people who live near him in Wood Dale.

"These people told me they feel the project will be an asset to the village. Most of these people are in their late 40s or early 50s and are considering moving out of their houses and into apartments. Their children are grown up and they don't want to have to take care of an empty house."

"THESE APARTMENTS will have a two-fold effect: they will allow us to keep citizens who desire multi-family living quarters, and they will bring more population into the village," he said.

"I'm not looking forward too much to this second effect. I was never an advocate of a 'house on every lot,' and I'm sure my fellow village residents for the most part feel the same way," Nottke continued.

He said he was not against progress or the project. "I am definitely for both. I the Avtech plan is very worthwhile. It is a good example of making something desirable out of nothing. And the entire northwest sector is along the soon-to-be O'Hare-Elgin expressway, which will open up the land for industry, single and multi family residences."

However, I feel progress has to be controlled. What the village is looking for is a balance. We realize the need for industry, for apartments for single-family residential areas. But each need must be subordinated to the total need of the community. There must be a balance."

Thus thought will weigh heavily in the thinking of the village plan commission and its decision will be tempered by how they determine the Avtech proposal will reflect this need for balance.

To Recommend 7 Planners

Seven names were expected to be submitted at last night's Bensenville Village Board meeting as appointees to the new plan commission.

In the past, members of the plan commission were also members of the zoning board, but trustees voted last month to separate the two bodies.

Donald C. Hegebarth, 902 Glendale, was recommended to serve as chairman. Hegebarth will also serve on the zoning board. His term will be four years. His father, William, is a village trustee.

Other appointments expected are George F. Nielsen, 414 Rose, for a two-year term; Robert Agnes, 103 N. Mason, for a three-year term; James J. Madden, 1325 W. Irving Park Road, for a three-year term; Richard Arndt, 223 N. Orchard for a two-year term; John Piegore, 1033 Daniel, for a three-year term, and Robert Broderick, 455 S. Center for a two-year term.

RECOMMENDED AS secretary for the group was Mrs. Lucille Hall, 1028 David Drive.

The proposal to split the two commissions was part of the platform which Village Pres. John Varble ran on in April. He cited increased efficiency as the main reason for dividing the work load.

It is not yet known what might will be the regularly scheduled meeting date for the new plan commission. Village administrator Harold Koehler said he doubted the two boards would be meeting on the same day.

Another reason for splitting the two boards was the amount of time spent by the members in meetings. When the boards were meeting back-to-back, the business would often run until late at night.

Chairman of the zoning board is Eugene Sullivan. Members are Mrs. Arlene Benson, Cliff Zingraf, Steve Plaskon, Donald Miller and Ed Hynes.

Discuss School Referendum

A group of 14 Wood Dale residents met last night at the Oakbrook School in Wood Dale with School Dist. 7 officials to discuss the formation of a Wood Dale citizens committee. The committee, if formed, is interested in the passage of a proposed elementary school referendum next month.

Mrs. Joan Marden and Mrs. Marilyn Hanney have been selected as co-chairwomen of the committee.

Dr. Warren B. Carson, superintendent of Dist. 7, told the group why a referendum was needed.

"BASICALLY WHAT we are planning to present before the voters is a two-fold program. The first part would provide for passage of a $250,000 bond referendum and the second would authorize a $425,000 state loan."

"The first part of the program is needed for the refurbishing of Highland School, the oldest school in the district. We would like to do away with seven of the classrooms there that don't conform with the life safety code. And the rest of the building should be brought up to par with the rest of the district," he said.

Burglary Probe

Bloomington police are continuing an investigation into two break-ins that occurred recently in the village.

A Chicago resident has been arrested and released from the DuPage County jail on $5,000 bond, in connection with a break-in and burglary at Kroll Auto Service, 153 W. Lake St., Bloomington. One man had previously been arrested and released on $5,000 bond and a third man is still being sought.

ANOTHER MAN suspected of breaking into the Rustic Barn Restaurant, 251 E. Lake St., Bloomington, and taking a check-writing machine and signed and unsigned checks, is being held in a Hazard, Ky. jail.

"This suspect is a definite tie-in with the stolen checks," Harold Rivkin, village police chief, told the Register.

"THE SECOND PART of the program is equally important. It provides for an interest-free loan from the state to build a 14-classroom addition to Westview school. This would allow us to take the seven sub-par classrooms at Highland out of existence, as well as add seven more to the district to allow for future expansion," he said.

"Several residents wondered how much it would cost the taxpayer if the referendum/loan is passed. It would cost the taxpayer who owns an assessed valued piece of property of $10,000 about $15, or 15 cents per $100 valuation. This would be for a piece of property worth about $20,000," Carson said.

Scouts Want Paper

Boy Scout Troops 60 and 65 of Wood Dale will hold a paper drive Sunday from noon till 3 p.m. Papers should be put at the side of the road at the driveway.

If a resident needs help in carrying the papers out, the scouts will help if he places a white rag on the mailbox.

All the money made from these paper drives is used to keep the troops in equipment and finance activities.

An Eloquent Call

Sewage proposals, wage increases and county administrative facilities are not the only business with which the DuPage County Board of Supervisors is currently involved.

After the meeting adjourned Tuesday, the supervisors passed one of their more eloquent resolutions. It reads:

"WHEREAS, MAN has now landed on the moon, and

"Whereas, aging John Wayne still has the fastest draw in the west, and

"Whereas, the county board has yet to decide whether Roosevelt Road or Butterfield Road should be renamed Demolition Alley, and "Whereas, the Cubs are establishing their superiority over other contenders, and of the county board has never been adequately demonstrated;

"Whereas, the obvious athletic prowess

"NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved that the DuPage County Board of Supervisors does now challenge the elected officials of DuPage County to a five-inning softball game to be played on Thursday, Sept. 17, 1969, at Herricks Lake Forest Preserve."

"Be it further resolved that the board secretary forward a copy of this resolution to each of the elected officials at their several offices."

Jack Wall, Bloomingdale Township supervisor, added that Mrs. Helen Schmidt, supervisor from Milton Township, should be manager and Mrs. Margaret Meyers, Downers Grove, and Mrs. Ange Mahnke, Milton Township, be appointed coaches. The press will umpire, he added.

Village Beat

Syd Jamieson

Top priority has been given to Itasca's controversial Prospect-Thorndale sanitary sewer project toward resolving a proposed contractual agreement between the village and Central Manufacturing District.

The latest action initiated by Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke was disclosed recently when Nottke instructed Village Atty. Lawrence C. Traeger Jr. "I made a promise to the new attorney for Central Manufacturing District, Jack A. Rearick, that you would phone him on Monday morning (Aug. 4) to arrange a meeting on the drawing of the new and I hope, final contract."

Nottke's instructions to Traeger, reportedly followed a July 28 meeting with CMD Pres. James F. Donovan, Rearick, and other company officials which Nottke had been attempting to arrange for the past several weeks.

ITASCA TRUSTEES had rejected previously a proposed 11-page contract offered by Atty. Robert Bremer.

The new proposal was presumably the answer to warding off a referendum election on the sewer project which initially had been approved by ordinance after some nine months of negotiation with Bremer representing CMD.

Under terms of the new contract, the Itasca board of trustees sought an alternate method of financing the $1 million project through CMD with title of the sewer rights invested in the village.

On July 24 the board met in emergency session to discuss revisions to the initial contract which had been reviewed by Traeger. But the latest amendment to CMD's proposal was again rejected due primarily to inclusion of a reported 10 per cent interest rate and "non contribution" share of CMD, according to Nottke.

THIS LATEST go-around prompted a general consensus by board members that the negotiations and terms of the revised contract appeared to be "growing further apart" and that the past nine months of study on the project proposals were all but lost.

It was also indicated that Itasca's $1 million expansion program for its sewage treatment plant currently underway, offered CMD some tangible benefits in servicing its industrial park complex bordering Ill. Rte. 53.

Donovan and other CMD officials were briefed on the terms of the revised contract by Nottke at last week's meeting.

It was reported that Donovan was sympathetic to Itasca's problems and apparently desired to have CMD pay its fair share of the funding.

According to Nottke, there had been presumably a misunderstanding on the alleged 10 per cent interest cost to the village and the "noncontribution" aspect of the proposed agreement, whatever that is.

"MR. DONOVAN'S attitude revived the CMD attitude of the past," Nottke said. "He once again gave me the fine feeling of cooperation and that CMD wanted to be good neighbors or residents of Itasca."

"We were in agreement in all phases of the project," Nottke reported, adding, "now we need merely to rely on the attorneys to put the contract in proper words and form."

If all goes well, the amended draft of the latest agreement could be presented for another review by the trustees at their Aug. 19 meeting.

But the current negotiations with CMD may not set well with the majority of the 116 residents who signed the petition calling for a referendum on the project. On the other hand, there is apparently support to get the sanitary sewer project underway while construction weather is still favorable.

FURTHER DELAYS could boost costs higher and higher — yet if agreement is reached on the latest proposal, the complex agreement could possibly be more advantageous to the village than under terms of the ordinances initially approved by the trustees.

Without the sewer project this could cramp future annexations geared to further CMD expansion and anticipated planned residential development north of Itasca.

If a referendum election had been held and passed — there would be no room for criticism. It looks like the board would prefer to take the other route and let the chips fall as they may.

Citizens Hit Conditions

Bloomington village officials got the third degree from rate citizens about well problems, sewage inadequacies and the Hoffman-Rosner development at the village board meeting Wednesday night.

The discussion from the floor, which lasted almost as long as the meeting, was encouraged by some of the action and inaction of the village board concerning the state of Bloomington.

The pump for Well No. 2 still has not arrived from the factory in Oklahoma, and nothing else was reported about the water situation.

A petition requesting a referendum regarding the Hoffman-Rosner annexation filed by Mrs. Lucille Kogut, 406 Meadowlark St., was dismissed as invalid by Jack Waghorne, village attorney.

WAGHORNE SAID the prerogative of calling for a petition falls under the provisions of another section for the annexation statute "We annexed under 7-1-8, which does not provide for a referendum questioning the annexation," he said.

A check for $20,000 from the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. for building permits was given to the village board, after Lowell Siff, Hoffman-Rosner vice president announced units one and two were ready to be started.

Siff also promised the company would begin looping the Suncrest and Indian Lake water system, since the Illinois Sanitary Water Board has given its approval to the line. The village has been authorized by the water board to proceed with the plans for the sewage treatment plant that Hoffman-Rosner agreed to construct.

SUBDIVISION construction and sewage line construction will be done simultaneously, Siff said, even though the sewage treatment plant has not been formally approved.

"This is done in good faith on the part of the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. and the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, which has issued building permits, that the village will work out a design that will meet approval and provide the facilities needed."

Joe Pavia, engineer for Ralph F. Gross and Son, Pavia, Inc., made Ralph Gross report.

Pavia said the village was told it "could go ahead on plans for the sewage plant," but his firm had been doing research on the capacity needed for the Hoffman-Rosner development and the rest of the village.

"There has been so much interest in annexing to the village on the behalf of other developers that we have decided to call a meeting with them to see what kind of initial capacity we'll need."

"Either they agree to put up some money for a larger sewage treatment plant, or they don't get any service."

PAVIA MENTIONED the possibility of a plant with an initial capacity of 800,000 gallons.

Old water and sewage problems were brought up when Vincent Occhipinti, 163 Lake St., addressed the board.

Occhipinti complained of the recent water shortage experienced by Suncrest Highland residents. "Looping will not solve a thing," he said. "Let's cut the comedy. The problem was caused by inferior pumps."

Other residents complained of the sewer back-up in their homes, showing concern over the board's approval of the building of apartments near Lake Street and Glendale Road.

Occhipinti attributed the sewage problem to "too many hookups on the line. The village knows that the system is inadequate, yet it continues to allow more users."

JACK WAGHORNE, village attorney, assures Bloomington trustees Westlake cannot be brought for a referendum.

Village Pres Robert Meyers said the water works initially were designed to serve a housing project and not a municipality.

"THE AREA WAS annexed to the village after the facilities had been approved by the county and built," Meyers said.

Referring to a lack of planning, Meyers said, "That's why the meeting is so important. We are asking the developers interested in Bloomington to come forth and help us develop a plan that will work for the future."

Problems with the clerk's office were not solved as the board would not provide a second to Ralph Johnston's motion that Mrs. Fortune LoPresti be appointed clerk until the next election.

Meyers questioned the lack of response. "I thought this was all settled in the committee meeting. We discussed this for a half-hour."

"We didn't discuss anything," Trustee Paul Ahlrich said. "You told us what you wanted and we listened."

"You told us this was your choice and that was the way it was," Trustee Robert Buckles said.

"THAT'S NOT TRUE. I said this woman was my choice for the job and asked for your vote. I thought this was settled at the meeting. You didn't say anything. I can't force you to talk," Meyers said.

Meyers announced the clerk's office will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. to noon. He said he hoped the board would seriously work to look for a new clerk to help the serious problem in the village hall.

During the discussion period Mrs. Kogut questioned Waghorne's statement on her petition.

WAGHORNE AGAIN explained there are different methods for annexation and the village used a method that does not provide for referendum.

"Don't you think the village should have asked for a vote from its citizens? The village isn't that big that it can't have any closeness," he said.

"My lawyer says I can file a petition."

"I say 'you can't,'" said Waghorne.

"Well, mine says you can," Mrs. Kogut insisted.

"That's what makes law suits," Waghorne said.

Council and Park Want a Pool

Money and land forthcoming, residents of Wood Dale may enjoy a new pool next spring. This situation is the outgrowth of a meeting Wednesday night between the Wood Dale Village Council and the Wood Dale Park District.

The meeting was called to discuss what would be done with six acres of land and $220,000 to be donated for recreational use by Richard Fencel. The donation was part of the pre-annexation agreement of Fencel's Brookwood Country Club to the village of Wood Dale.

Park district members and the village council agreed that five of the six acres should be used for construction of a pool the entire village could use.

The remaining acre is to be the site for the new village hall.

PARK DISTRICT members then opened

the "bargaining" session by announcing they were interested in three things:

—That the park district receive title to five acres.

—That the $220,000 donation for recreational use be turned over to the park district.

—That the pool be owned and operated by the park district.

The council said it would agree to these three requests as long as the park district could guarantee the village a pool in use by next summer.

Park district members said they could not do this, since the park district need time to either pass a referendum or use its 1½ per cent bonding power to secure the additional $138,000 that would be needed for the construction of a pool.

SEVERAL PARK members mentioned

the possibility of combining the referendum with a land acquisition program that could shoot the total bill up to $1¼ million.

"The main concern of the village council," Dino Janis, commissioner, told the Register, "is that we are guaranteed a pool for next year."

"I would take 60 to 90 days for a bond referendum to pass, another 45 to 60 to design specifications for the pool, 120 days for construction, which means it wouldn't be completed until August or September of next year."

It was then suggested by Janis that the village council and the park district enter into a joint agreement in which the village would give the park district five acres of land in return for a guarantee of $108,000 to be used by the park district for construction of the pool. The $220,000 would be used by the village as its part of the pool construction.

"WITH A JOINT venture, plans could be drawn up within the next 45 days, bids could be let out and construction could then begin as early as October or November. This would insure completion by next summer," Janis said.

The village would pay the contractor the $220,000 and the park district would pay the remaining $108,000. In order for construction to begin as soon as possible, the $220,000 would be first used and the $108,000 would be paid the contractor as soon as it is collected through a referendum or bond sale.

"The agreement we worked out will also contain an escape clause for the park district."

Complex Proposed

A $14 million multifamily residential development of 431 apartment units, to be located in the northwest sector of Itasca west of Route 53, was proposed Tuesday night in a public hearing held by the Itasca Planning Commission.

The petitioners, Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, a principal beneficiary of Harris Trust and Savings, is seeking approval of a pre-annexation agreement for R-3 zoning of 29 acres of land for the semi-luxury apartment complex bordering a six-acre lake. Another 17 acres, to be developed for light manufacturing in conjunction with Central Manufacturing District (CMD) are included in the planned development proposal.

The lake would be developed by draining marsh land, and around its central periphery would be five five-story, high-rise apartments and four clusters of low-rise units. An estimated 1,000 residents would occupy the apartments, designed around open space and the man-made lake.

ACCORDING TO the developers, "It is the intention of the parties to create harmonious residential development and abundant open space in keeping with the purpose of planned development provisions of the Itasca zoning ordinance."

The 46 acres already owned by Avtech are north of Thorndale Avenue, south of Crest Avenue (if extended east), east of Meacham Road (if extended south) and approximately 2,600 feet west of Route 53.

The rectangular tract of land borders the northwest sector of the industrial park of CMD and presently lies in the unincorporated area of the county. However it is contiguous to Itasca and could be annexed if village trustees approve terms of the pre-annexation agreement.

Charles Hodgins, plan commission chairman, indicated Tuesday night the commission may decide to schedule a special meeting to review the proposal for recommendation to the village board.

BUT EFFORTS to meet in session with the trustees following the public hearing fell by the wayside when Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke attempted to round up a quorum at 10:15 p.m. Nottke found only he and Trustee Frank Atkinson were present and promptly adjourned the hearing for discussion at the next village board meeting next Tuesday.

According to Edward S. Mraz, an attorney representing the petitioners, the proposed residential development would comprise 95 one-bedroom units, 244 two-bedroom units and 92 three-bedroom units, with 1.5 parking spaces per apartment.

Nelson Frye, Avtech executive vice president, told commission members, "We have the technical and financial ability to develop the program, and, if we say what we will do, we will do it."

He said his firm has national representation and is recognized for its work in airport design, home construction and building of libraries and industrial parks.

WHEN QUESTIONED as to financing and proposed development, Frye replied that it would be under private financing and not from federal funds.

He said Avtech is comprised of architects, engineers and construction managers - "the nuts and bolts of the department."

Assisting in the presentation was Anthony Bonavolonta, a member of Avtech and a Roselle village trustee.

The "M Limited Manufacturing District" would be developed as a small industrial park separated from the residential properties along Thorndale Avenue by a buffer zone of multiple-family residence buildings arranged around the six-acre lake.

The development would be phased out over a three-year building program, according to the petitioners.

Planned, environmental multi family living is the proposal Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, presented before the Itasca Plan Commission Tuesday evening.

Avtech, a group of engineers and architects plans to build 431 semi-luxury units bordering a six-acre lake, as well as developing 17 acres of land for industrial purposes.

The theme of the apartments is an "environmental concept," Tony Bonavolonta, Avtech architect and Roselle village trustee, said.

"It's a simple idea, but a very effective one. All we are doing is taking the people who will be the tenants into consideration in the building of the apartments.

"WE ARE PLANNING to use a cluster system in the construction of the apartment buildings. This allows us to locate 100-foot courtyards in the middle. These areas can then be used for anything, from swimming pools to tennis courts."

"Or," he added, "they can be used as a social gathering place. Of course, the focal point will be the six-acre lake we plan to develop. This land is presently swamp land and we feel it is more desirable to put a lake on this property than to try to fill it in and use it for multi family dwellings."

Seven names were expected to be submitted at last night's Bensonville Village Board meeting as appointees to the new plan commission.

In the past, members of the plan commission were also members of the zoning board, but trustees voted last month to separate the two bodies.

Donald C. Hegebarth, 902 Glendale, was recommended to serve as chairman. Hegebarth will also serve on the zoning board. His term will be four years. His father, William, is a village trustee.

Other appointments expected are George F. Nielsen, 414 Rose, for a two-year term; Robert Agnes, 103 N. Mason, for a three-year term; James J. Madden, 1325 W. Irving Park Road, for a three-year term; Richard Arndt, 223 N. Orchard for a two-year term; John Piegore, 1033 Daniel, for a three-year term, and Robert Broderick, 455 S. Center for a two-year term.

RECOMMENDED AS secretary for the group was Mrs. Lucille Hall, 1028 David Drive.

The proposal to split the two commissions was part of the platform which Village Pres. John Varble ran on in April. He cited increased efficiency as the main reason for dividing the work load.

It is not yet known what night will be the regularly scheduled meeting date for the new plan commission. Village administrator Harold Koehler said he doubted the two boards would be meeting on the same day.

Another reason for splitting the two boards was the amount of time spent by the members in meetings. When the boards were meeting back-to-back, the business would often run until late at night.

Chairman of the zoning board is Eugene Sullivan. Members are Mrs. Arlene Benson, Cliff Zingraf, Steve Plaskon, Donald Miller and Ed Hynes.

"It's funny," Robert Cagann, a real estate appraiser and witness for Avtech, said, "but people are attracted to water. You would be surprised how a little water makes a great difference in the value of abutting property."

Cagann also told the plan commission the kind of rental fees the public should expect from the project, which seems to bear out his observation.

"ONE-BEDROOM apartments will probably run from $175-$180 per month; two-bedroom ones at $225 to $235 per month, and three-bedroom ones at $275 to $285 per month."

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke told the Register he received a favorable reaction from about 15 people who live near him in Wood Dale.

"These people told me they feel the project will be an asset to the village. Most of these people are in their late 40s or early 50s and are considering moving out of their houses and into apartments. Their children are grown up and they don't want to have to take care of an empty house."

"THESE APARTMENTS will have a two-fold effect: they will allow us to keep citizens who desire multi-family living quarters, and they will bring more population into the village," he said.

"I'm not looking forward too much to this second effect. I was never an advocate of a 'house on every lot,' and I'm sure my fellow village residents for the most part feel the same way," Nottke continued.

He said he was not against progress or the project. "I am definitely for both. I the Avtech plan is very worthwhile. It is a good example of making something desirable out of nothing. And the entire northwest sector is along the soon-to-be O'Hare-Elgin expressway, which will open up the land for industry, single and multi family residences."

However, I feel progress has to be controlled. What the village is looking for is a balance. We realize the need for industry, for apartments for single-family residential areas. But each need must be subordinated to the total need of the community. There must be a balance."

This thought will weigh heavily in the thinking of the village plan commission and its decision will be tempered by how they determine the Avtech proposal will reflect this need for balance.

Discuss School Referendum

A group of 14 Wood Dale residents met last night at the Oakbrook School in Wood Dale with School Dist. 7 officials to discuss the formation of a Wood Dale citizens committee. The committee, if formed, is interested in the passage of a proposed elementary school referendum next month.

Mrs. Joan Marden and Mrs. Marilyn Hannon have been selected as co-chairwomen of the committee.

Dr. Warren B. Carson, superintendent of Dist. 7, told the group why a referendum was needed.

"BASICALLY WHAT we are planning to present before the voters is a two-fold program. The first part would provide for passage of a $250,000 bond referendum and the second would authorize a $425,000 state loan."

"The first part of the program is needed for the refurbishing of Highland School, the oldest school in the district. We would like to do away with seven of the classrooms there that don't conform with the life safety code. And the rest of the building should be brought up to par with the rest of the district," he said.

Burglary Probe

Bloomington police are continuing an investigation into two break-ins that occurred recently in the village.

A Chicago resident has been arrested and released from the DuPage County jail on $5,000 bond, in connection with a break-in and burglary at Kroll Auto Service, 153 W. Lake St., Bloomington. One man had previously been arrested and released on $5,000 bond and a third man is still being sought.

ANOTHER MAN suspected of breaking into the Rustic Barn Restaurant, 251 E. Lake St., Bloomington, and taking a check-writing machine and signed and unsigned checks, is being held in a Hazard, Ky. jail.

"This suspect is a definite tie-in with the stolen checks," Harold Rivkin, village police chief, told the Register.

An Eloquent Call

Sewage proposals, wage increases and county administrative facilities are not the only business with which the DuPage County Board of Supervisors is currently involved.

After the meeting adjourned Tuesday, the supervisors passed one of their more eloquent resolutions. It reads:

"WHEREAS, MAN has now landed on the moon, and

"Whereas, aging John Wayne still has the fastest draw in the west, and

"Whereas, the county board has yet to decide whether Roosevelt Road or Butterfield Road should be renamed Demolition Alley, and

"Whereas, the Cubs are establishing their superiority over other contenders, and

"Whereas, the obvious athletic prowess of the county board has never been adequately demonstrated,

"NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved that the DuPage County Board of Supervisors does now challenge the elected officials of DuPage County to a five-inning softball game to be played on Thursday, Sept. 17, 1969, at Herricks Lake Forest Preserve.

"Be it further resolved that the board secretary forward a copy of this resolution to each of the elected officials at their several offices."

Jack Wall, Bloomingdale Township supervisor, added that Mrs. Helen Schmidt, supervisor from Milton Township, should be manager and Mrs. Margaret Meyers, Downers Grove, and Mrs. Ange Mahnke, Milton Township, be appointed coaches. The press will umpire, he added.

Village Beat

Syd Jamieson

Top priority has been given to Itasca's controversial Prospect-Thorndale sanitary sewer project toward resolving a proposed contractual agreement between the village and Central Manufacturing District.

The latest action initiated by Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke was disclosed recently when Nottke instructed Village Atty. Lawrence C. Traeger Jr. "I made a promise to the new attorney for Central Manufacturing District, Jack A. Rearick, that you would phone him on Monday morning (Aug. 4) to arrange a meeting on the drawing of the new and I hope, final contract."

Nottke's instructions to Traeger, reportedly followed a July 28 meeting with CMD Pres. James F. Donovan, Rearick, and other company officials which Nottke had been attempting to arrange for the past several weeks.

ITASCA TRUSTEES had rejected previously a proposed 11-page contract offered by Atty. Robert Bremer.

The new proposal was presumably the answer to warding off a referendum election on the sewer project which initially had been approved by ordinance after some nine months of negotiation with Bremer representing CMD.

Under terms of the new contract, the Itasca board of trustees sought an alternate method of financing the $1 million project through CMD with title of the sewer rights invested in the village.

On July 24 the board met in emergency session to discuss revisions to the initial contract which had been reviewed by Traeger. But the latest amendment to CMD's proposal was again rejected due primarily to inclusion of a reported 10 per cent interest rate and "non contribution" share of CMD, according to Nottke.

THIS LATEST go-around prompted a general consensus by board members that the negotiations and terms of the revised contract appeared to be "growing further apart" and that the past nine months of study on the project proposals were all but lost.

It was also indicated that Itasca's $1 million expansion program for its sewage treatment plant currently underway, offered CMD some tangible benefits in servicing its industrial park complex bordering Ill. Rte. 53.

Donovan and other CMD officials were briefed on the terms of the revised contract by Nottke at last week's meeting.

It was reported that Donovan was sympathetic to Itasca's problems and apparently desired to have CMD pay its fair share of the funding.

According to Nottke, there had been presumably a misunderstanding on the alleged 10 per cent interest cost to the village and the "noncontribution" aspect of the proposed agreement, whatever that is.

"MR. DONOVAN'S attitude revived the CMD attitude of the past," Nottke said. "He once again gave me the fine feeling of cooperation and that CMD wanted to be good neighbors or residents of Itasca."

"We were in agreement in all phases of the project," Nottke reported, adding, "now we need merely to rely on the attorneys to put the contract in proper words and form."

If all goes well, the amended draft of the latest agreement could be presented for another review by the trustees at their Aug. 19 meeting.

But the current negotiations with CMD may not set well with the majority of the 116 residents who signed the petition calling for a referendum on the project. On the other hand, there is apparently support to get the sanitary sewer project underway while construction weather is still favorable.

FURTHER DELAYS could boost costs higher and higher — yet if agreement is reached on the latest proposal, the complex agreement could possibly be more advantageous to the village than under terms of the ordinances initially approved by the trustees.

Without the sewer project this could cramp future annexations geared to further CMD expansion and anticipated planned residential development north of Itasca.

If a referendum election had been held and passed — there would be no room for criticism. It looks like the board would prefer to take the other route and let the chips fall as they may.

Citizens Hit Conditions

Bloomington village officials got the third degree from irate citizens about well problems, sewage inadequacies and the Hoffman-Rosner development at the village board meeting Wednesday night.

The discussion from the floor, which lasted almost as long as the meeting, was encouraged by some of the action and inaction of the village board concerning the state of Bloomington.

The pump for Well No. 2 still has not arrived from the factory in Oklahoma, and nothing else was reported about the water situation.

A petition requesting a referendum regarding the Hoffman-Rosner annexation filed by Mrs. Lucille Kogut, 406 Meadowlark St., was dismissed as invalid by Jack Waghorne, village attorney.

WAGHORNE SAID the prerogative of calling for a petition falls under the provisions of another section for the annexation statute. "We annexed under 7-1-8, which does not provide for a referendum questioning the annexation," he said.

A check for $20,000 from the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. for building permits was given to the village board, after Lowell Siff, Hoffman-Rosner vice president announced units one and two were ready to be started.

Siff also promised the company would begin looping the Suncrest and Indian Lake water system, since the Illinois Sanitary Water Board has given its approval to the line. The village has been authorized by the water board to proceed with the plans for the sewage treatment plant that Hoffman-Rosner agreed to construct.

SUBDIVISION construction and sewage line construction will be done simultaneously, Siff said, even though the sewage treatment plant has not been formally approved.

"This is done in good faith on the part of the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. and the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, which has issued building permits, that the village will work out a design that will meet approval and provide the facilities needed."

Joe Pavia, engineer for Ralph F. Gross and Son, Pavia, Inc., made Ralph Gross' report.

Pavia said the village was told it "could go ahead on plans for the sewage plant," but his firm had been doing research on the capacity needed for the Hoffman-Rosner development and the rest of the village.

"There has been so much interest in annexing to the village on the behalf of other developers that we have decided to call a meeting with them to see what kind of initial capacity we'll need."

"Either they agree to put up some money for a larger sewage treatment plant, or they don't get any service."

PAVIA MENTIONED the possibility of a plant with an initial capacity of 800,000 gallons.

Old water and sewage problems were brought up when Vincent Occhipinti, 163 Lake St., addressed the board.

Occhipinti complained of the recent water shortage experienced by Suncrest Highland residents. "Looping will not solve a thing," he said. "Let's cut the comedy. The problem was caused by inferior pumps."

Other residents complained of the sewer back-up in their homes, showing concern over the board's approval of the building of apartments near Lake Street and Glen-dale Road.

Occhipinti attributed the sewage problem to "too many hookups on the line. The village knows that the system is inadequate, yet it continues to allow more users."

JACK WAGHORNE, village attorney, assures Bloomington trustees Westlake cannot be brought for a referendum.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers said the water works initially were designed to serve a housing project and not a municipality.

"THE AREA WAS annexed to the village after the facilities had been approved by the county and built," Meyers said.

Referring to a lack of planning, Meyers said, "That's why the meeting is so important. We are asking the developers interested in Bloomington to come forth and help us develop a plan that will work for the future."

Problems with the clerk's office were not solved as the board would not provide a second to Ralph Johnston's motion that Mrs. Fortune LoPrete be appointed clerk until the next election.

Meyers questioned the lack of response. "I thought this was all settled in the committee meeting. We discussed this for a half-hour."

"We didn't discuss anything," Trustee Paul Ahlrich said. "You told us what you wanted and we listened."

"You told us this was your choice and that was the way it was," Trustee Robert Buckles said.

"THAT'S NOT TRUE. I said this woman was my choice for the job and asked for your vote. I thought this was settled at the meeting. You didn't say anything. I can't force you to talk," Meyers said.

Meyers announced the clerk's office will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon. He said he hoped the board would seriously work to look for a new clerk to help the serious problem in the village hall.

During the discussion period Mrs. Kogut questioned Waghorne's statement on her petition.

WAGHORNE AGAIN explained there are different methods for annexation and the village used a method that does not provide for referendum.

"Don't you think the village should have asked for a vote from its citizens?" The village isn't that big that it can't have any closeness," he said.

"My lawyer says I can file a petition." "I say you can't," said Waghorne.

"Well, mine says you can," Mrs. Kogut insisted.

"That's what makes law suits," Waghorne said.

trict," Janis continued. "If the park district has trouble collecting the $108,000 in this amount of time, the village will then agree to foot this part of the bill too."

"At a later date we would turn over the pool and its management to the park district in return for the $180,000. This plan works in business every day, when one partner may be in a financial bind."

"THIS METHOD would save us as much as 90 days and we could be sure of having a pool for the village next summer. After all, the village does not want to go into the pool business."

The only hold-up in the proceedings now seems to be the money itself. Fencil was to have the deed to the land and the $220,000 ready to hand over to the village in June. He asked for a two-month extension, which was granted, but has failed to make a positive effort since then.

"The final agreement was signed over two months ago," Janis said. "We have gone as far as we can possibly go."

"If the money and the land is not forthcoming by the Aug. 21 village council meeting, we will proceed to null and void the pre-annexation agreement with Fencil."

"We just can't wait any longer for the land. Construction costs continue to rise every day. Our new village hall, to be located on one of the six acres, has gone up $10,000 in costs because of delays."

Janis said there are other contingencies involved in the situation, setting up a chain reaction of events.

"The police are supposed to move into the new village hall, the library is supposed to expand into the old police station, but this is all contingent upon the passage of the pre-annexation agreement."

Russ: U.S. Gloating

MOSCOW — A Soviet newspaper charged yesterday that the United States is gloating over hostilities between Russia and Communist China, manifested in another border clash this week in which both sides suffered casualties.

A Soviet provincial official called for new civil defense laws to protect Russia in case of war.

LONDONDERRY — Three hundred British troops entered this riot-stricken city in Northern Ireland yesterday and set up barbed wire barricades around the worst flashpoints to separate Catholics and Protestants whose fighting brought Northern Ireland close to civil war.

Northern Ireland Premier James Chichester-Clark told an emergency session of Parliament in Belfast the rioting was part of a conspiracy to overthrow him.

Peace Talks 'Dimmed'

PARIS — The United States and South Vietnam declared at yesterday's session of the peace talks that current military attacks by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have dimmed hopes for fruitful negotiations.

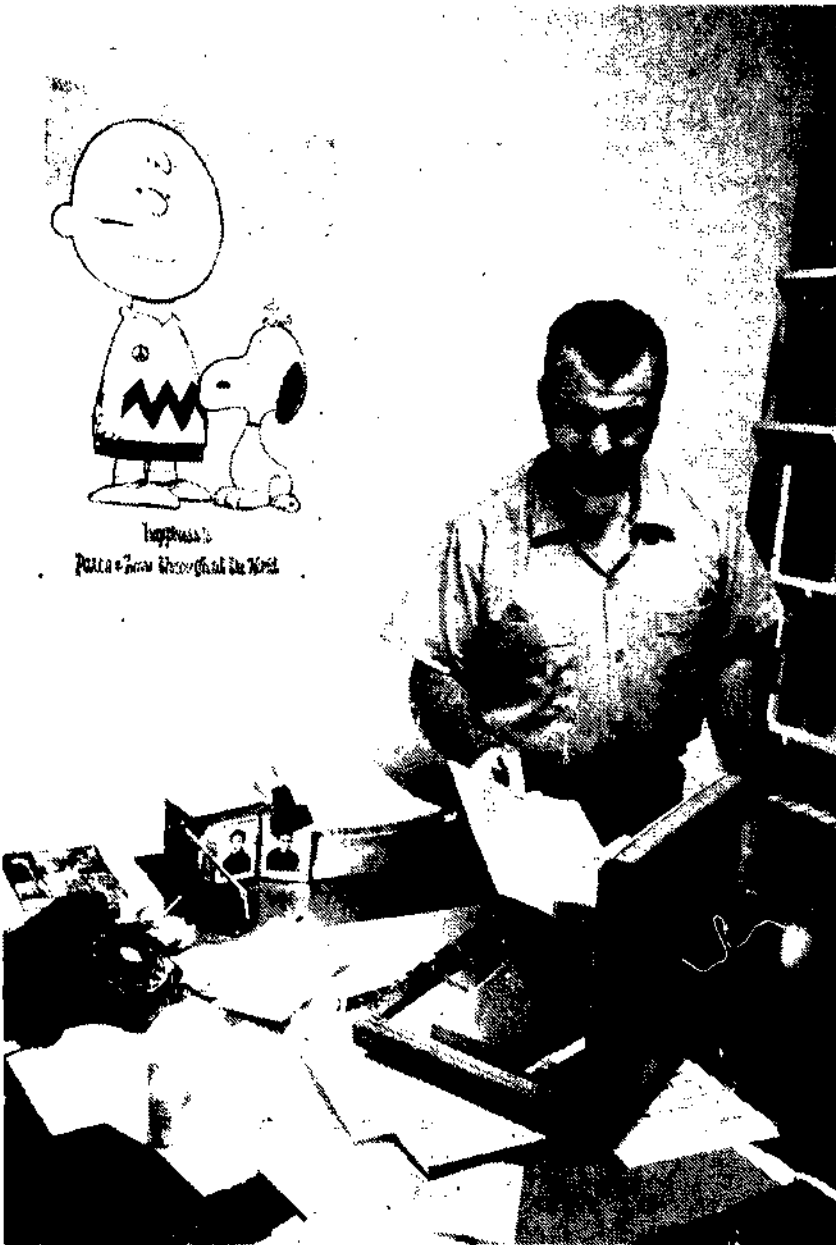

Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. negotiator, said the Communists have "been preparing systematically for a new offensive," while the United States is withdrawing 25,000 troops and contemplating additional withdrawals.

Bill Vetoes

Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has vetoed a bill which was to have given municipalities in Cook County increased control over developments in surrounding unincorporated areas.

Ogilvie vetoed HB 1249, an amendment to the "Zoning Act," because poor wording in an amendment would have reversed the intent of the law, according to Paul Hamer, Wheeling village attorney.

Ogilvie did not say in his veto message that he would approve the bill as originally written, but Rep. Gene Schlickman said the governor has "assured me of his support."

Smith Is Seeking
'Peace and Love'

by JUDY COVELLI

"Happiness is . . . peace and love throughout the world."

With this Charlie Brown motto to back him up, Thomas E. Smith has taken on the responsibility as new executive director of re-establishing and refining Community Services in Elk Grove Village.

It's a big and interesting job. When accepting the position, Smith said, "It's a challenge. I'm excited about the possibility of helping the community deal with some of its own problems."

Smith began moving into the new Community Services office Aug. 1 with the same enthusiasm. The new office is in Room 15 of the Elk Grove Park and Shop Arcade on Route 72 and Arlington Heights Road.

Smith is replacing Glenn Powell, who left as director June 15. The program has been practically inoperative since then.

AS NEW DIRECTOR, he is in the process of getting some of the programs off the ground, while at the same time trying to furnish the office and hire a secretary.

At a board meeting last week, Smith reported that he is moving into the office even though it is still being repaired by Centex Industrial Association, from whom the group is leasing the office. He said he is scrounging furniture and equipment.

"We've begun to round up equipment and office supplies, but will still have to go out and purchase some new things," he said yesterday.

"However, the office is livable, the coffee's on and the doors are open," he said.

Smith reports that he's had six or eight visitors already. "We will be happy to receive as many as will come with whatever they have in the way of problems or interests," he said.

He is now in the process of holding interviews for a full-time referral secretary with about 10 interviews completed and at least 10 more scheduled.

"I'M TAKING QUITE a bit of time in making this decision. We need a secretary, clerk, girl Friday, receptionist, assistant psychologist . . . or jack-of-all-trades kind of girl," he explained.

"THE OFFICE HOURS are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., although there will be some evening hours once we begin to get some more people around," he said.

Some programs offered to various community groups will be scheduled at night.

Bands, Clowns
At Randhurst

by BRAD BREKKE

As you entered the mall, you could hear a big brass band and the rolling of drums that sounded like your stomach at 3 a.m.

A little further in, clowns could be seen smiling from behind a mask of greasepaint that not even Barnum and Bailey's spotlight could penetrate, handing out laughs and helium-filled balloons to the kids, who kicked their heels and dragged their moms along to see the show.

The show was a miniature circus held in the Randhurst mall to celebrate the shopping center's seventh anniversary.

Apparently, quite a few grand . . . were babysitting yesterday, and while the babies were watching the tight-rope walkers, acrobats, and stuffing popcorn into their mouths, they took time out to rest on a bench and watch the crowd.

THE UPSTAIRS hallway in the mall was packed, with mothers and youngsters hanging over every available railing space to see the show. Balcons were dangling from the ceiling while janitors swept through the crowd, dancing to the music, with their large brooms.

They wore all manners of dress, from mod to hippie, grubby to casual, with a healthy amount of Madison Avenue types sprinkled in. The older kids wore shorts, sandals and sweatshirts.

"Hey ma, can I have some cotton candy?"

"Watch out you don't fall over the railing, Tommy."

"All hold hands now kids, so we don't get separated in this crowd."

"Wow, did you see that, a double flip onto a little stool."

THE CIRCUS marked the opening of Randhurst's nine-day celebration, during which circus coloring books will be given to each child.

Circus acts will perform in the mall during the celebration at 10:30 a.m., 3 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Performances tomorrow will be 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., with no Sunday performance.

"We hope to run a 24-hour program — available whenever we are needed," he continued.

One of the programs which they hope to get rolling by Sept. 1 is the family services program offered by the Lutheran Welfare Services of Illinois on a one-day-a-week basis.

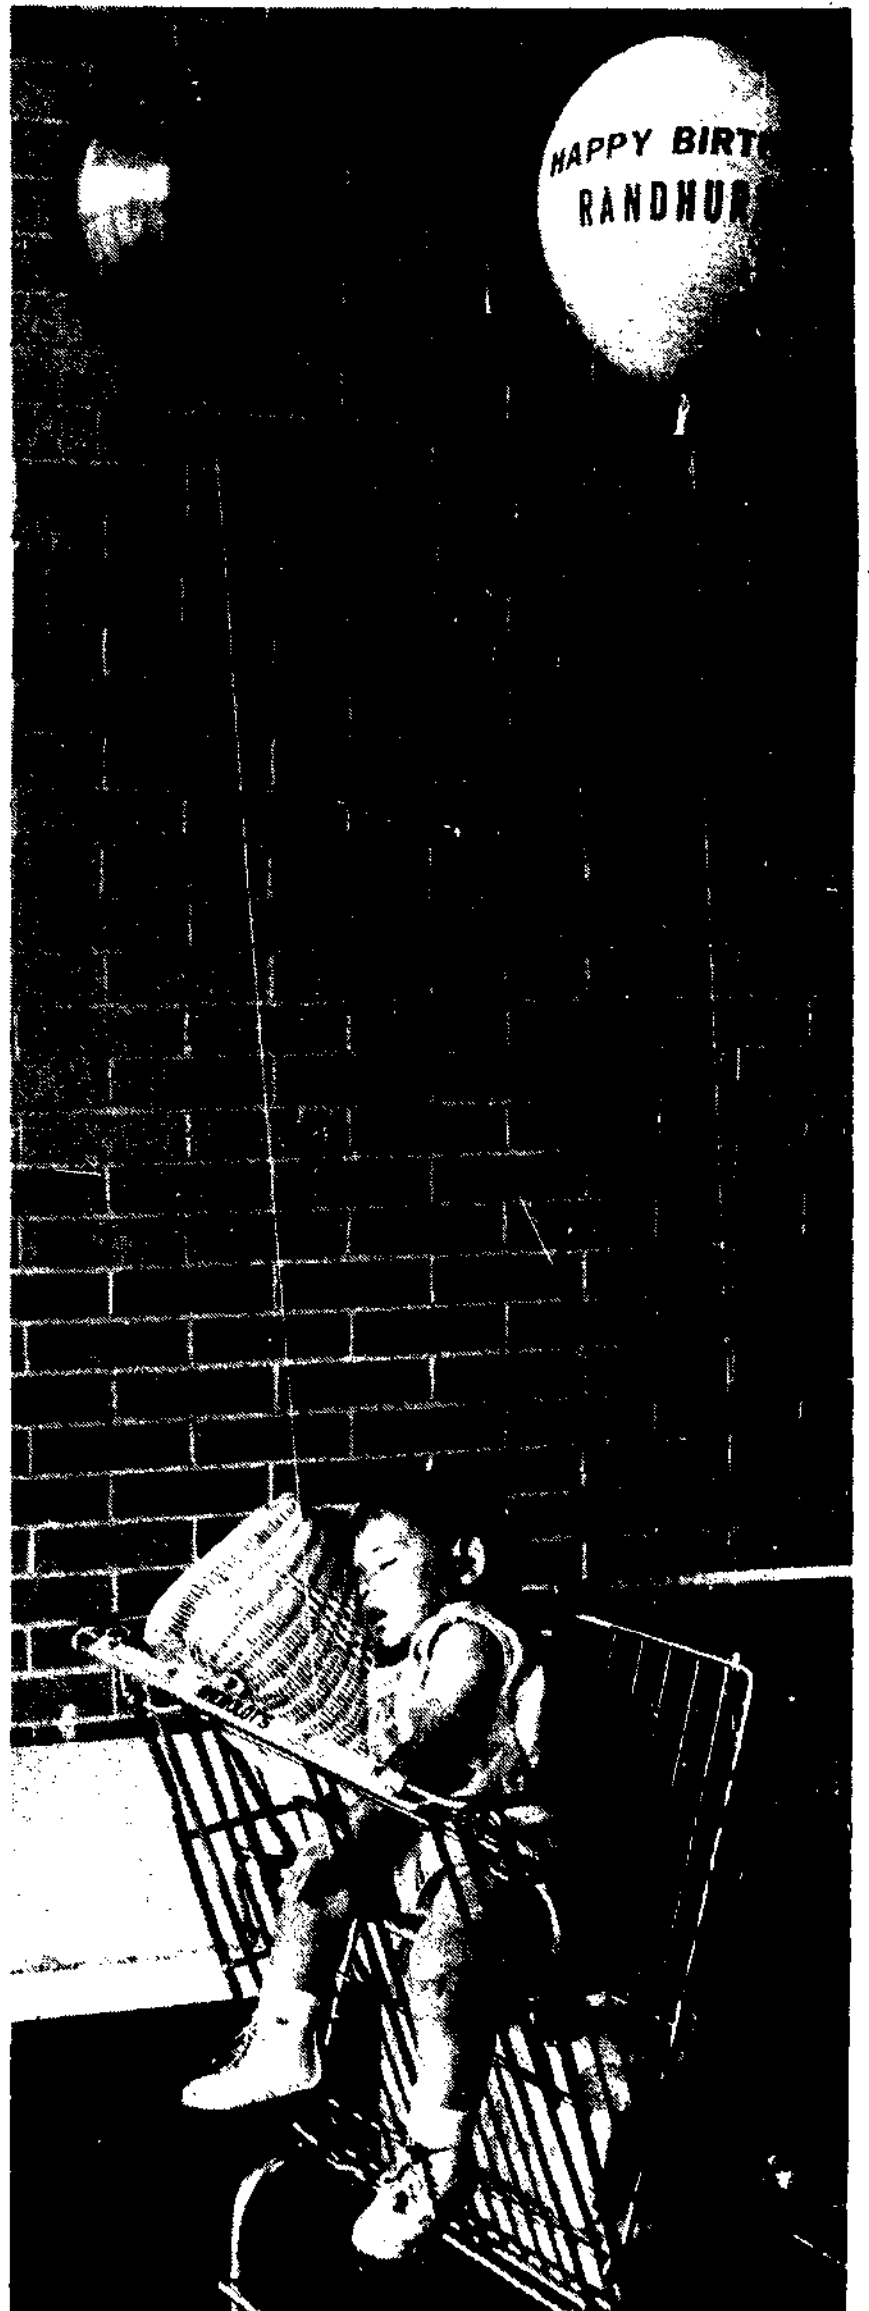

Another possible venture, according to Smith, is a workshop for teachers during the teacher-orientation week offered in Dist. 59. A marital maintenance workshop is another area which is being explored.

One of the most difficult and necessary undertakings for Smith is the forming of dialogues and discussions to bring out people in the community to determine the problems of the community. "We want to find out what people need and want from Community Services," he said.

SMITH SEES A need to continue youth programs along with family counseling. "I would like to work with alienated youth and with groups and schools to prevent them from alienating more youth in the future," he said.

Smith continued, "There is a need to reach out into the community — to get out where the action is without abandoning the traditional services for extreme cases."

ONE-YEAR OLD ELSIE Valdez, daughter of Mrs. Gloria Valdez, of Palatine, fell fast asleep yesterday in a shopping cart after she visited with the clowns and saw a miniature circus at Randhurst's seventh birthday celebration, which will run through Aug. 22.

Ogilvie Vetoes Plat Control Bill

port for the bill.

A new bill, worded more carefully, will be introduced at an adjourned session of the Illinois General Assembly in October. Hamer told Wheeling trustees Monday.

The bill, co-sponsored by Schlickman and Reps. Eugene Chapman and David Regner, was requested by Wheeling officials.

The bill was intended to amend state law so that any division of land into two or more parcels within 1 1/2 miles of a municipality that possesses an official map would have to be approved by that municipality's plan commission. The legislation would have applied only to Cook County.

UNDER PRESENT Illinois law, plan commission approval is needed only if land is divided into three or more parts. Because of this, a developer can circumvent plan commission approval by selling his land one parcel at a time avoiding appearance before any plan commission.

Such property sales without plan commission approval would be prevented by the bill as Wheeling proposed it.

An amendment to the bill was added to exclude single lots of less than one acre. This was to protect the individual homeowners in rural unincorporated areas.

However, the amendment as written by the Illinois Legislative Reference Bureau contained a confusing clause.

That clause excluded "lots less than one acre in a subdivision." Hamer pointed out that "subdivision" could be interpreted either as a division of land into parcels or as a large residential development.

SCHLICKMAN SAID a part-time employee made the error on the wording.

If the word was interpreted as a residential development, builders could still get around plan commission approval, even under the new law.

Hamer said the faulty wording is the reason behind Ogilvie's veto. The amendment with the subdivision clause went unnoticed by the legislature.

Hamer said the clause would not only have made the new law ineffective but might also have negated the existing law.

Hamer told the village board Monday that he had not seen a copy of the bill with the amendment.

"THE AMENDMENT goes beyond what was intended and the bill should be vetoed," Hamer told the Wheeling officials. Hamer will prepare a corrected amendment to be incorporated into the bill at the legislative session in October.

The intent of the bill is to give Wheeling and other municipalities greater control over both roads and developments near their boundaries.

Annex Delayed

An "economy move" that could possibly save Winston-Muss Corp. more than a quarter-million dollars was proposed Monday to the Hoffman Estates Village Board.

A change in the pre-annexation agreement with the village concerning Winston-Knolls Unit III was presented by Donald Kirk, senior vice president of operations for Winston-Muss Corp.

Unit III is a development of 470 homes bordering on Elm Road. Under a present pre-annexation agreement, a forced sewage line would have to be built 25 miles east to Algonquin and Plum Grove roads. Estimated costs for the extension are between $175,000 and $325,000.

KIRK'S REQUEST was that Winston-Muss be allowed to build a temporary forced line that would extend north to the Howie-in-the-Hills sewage pumping station at an estimated cost of $50,000.

The line Kirk proposed would be used for two or three years until the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) builds an interceptor for sewage in the Algonquin-Plum Grove roads area. The newly proposed line would then have to be abandoned for one that connects with the MSD's interceptor.

Trustee Howard Noble questioned the proposal. The annexation agreement calls for Winston-Muss to finance any sewage line extensions during the subdivision's development.

Once the area is annexed to Hoffman Estates, Unit III residents would be taxed 62.5 cents a month until the developer is reimbursed for the extension.

ALTHOUGH THE 2.5-mile extension represents a sizable additional cost, it would be useful for years to come, Noble said. He is wary of a $50,000 expenditure that would eventually fall on the village's shoulders only to be abandoned a few years later.

Kirk's proposal will be brought up with the plan commission and the public works committee before final action is taken by the village board.

NADEEN JURJOVEC, 801 Crest Ave., Elk Grove Village, recently attended a week's session at Allerton Federated Art Schools, at Allerton House, University of Illinois conference center near Monticello. The art school is an annual project of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Jaycees Go Hobo

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees and Jayceettes will conduct their annual combined social, a hobo party, at the home of Jaycee president, Hank Greenholdt, 24 Wildwood Road, beginning at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Guests are to come in hobo costumes. There will be prizes for the worst-dressed person. A scavenger hunt will be one of the highlights, along with slides of Jaycee activities throughout the year. There will be games, dancing and refreshments.

THE ELK GROVE Village Jaycees are part of an international civic organization, conducting charitable projects throughout the area. Membership is open to young men between the ages of 21 and 35, with associate membership open to men over 35. Jayceettes are their auxiliary, and membership is open to any wife of a Jaycee in good standing.

Jaycees, their wives and prospective members are invited to the party. Cost for the evening is $1.50 per person. Mrs. Greenholdt, 439-4224, has further information.

Parents To Question Board on 'Terrorism'

The father of a 14-year-old girl in Elk Grove Village reported yesterday that close to a dozen parents would be confronting the park district board at its meeting last night over what he called the "problem of gang terrorism."

Apparently, certain young teenagers have been threatened at Lions Park Pool and one girl was allegedly badly beaten last week. Another man reported that when he went to pick up his daughter, she was being threatened and he was in turn threatened.

The group will apparently be questioning the board as to why there is this problem and why no protection has been provided by village or proposed park police.

Plan Water Ballet With Movie Music

It will be "Friday Night at the Movies," at the Meadows Park pool tonight.

A water ballet with the theme centered around movie music will be presented by the Mount Prospect Park District. Swimmers from all three district pools will perform to such songs as "Moon River," "Windmills of Your Mind," and "Baby Elephant Walk."

Beginning at 8 p.m., the show will feature nine acts, two solo performances, and a comedy act. The water ballet will be performed under the direction of Kathleen Mitz. Admission is free.

Celebration In Works

A centennial celebration is in the making for Ferry Hall School in Lake Forest. The school, which has a student body of 160, will begin its fall festivities with a four-day seminar beginning Oct. 9.

Three Ferry Hall alumnae live in the area. They are Mrs. Mary McGibbeny Stewart of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Mary Jane Oliver Barr of Palatine and Mrs. Connie Novotny Walker of Elk Grove.

Cameron in Army At Leonard Wood

Army Reserve Lt. John E. Cameron of Elk Grove Village recently helped conduct the Army's Drill Sergeant Academy at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Cameron is project manager for the Bud Bailey Construction Co. when he is not on active duty.

No Simple Solutions to Pollution Control

"Air pollution control is still an infant art. Equipment for the program can't just be picked up off the shelf," Cecil Royer, senior project engineer for Clow Corp., said in Bensenville during a recent interview.

Royer was commenting on the Smoke Abatement Program which Clow initiated in November. The company is completing stage II of the three-stage project this month.

Royer said materials for the project are difficult to obtain, and added that a labor shortage complicates the program. He said he expects completion of the project by August, 1970.

CLOW HAS CAUGHT the brunt of public concern over the pollution problem, despite the fact the Illinois Air Pollution Control board approved its smoke abatement plan last November. Both the Register and the Bensenville Village Hall have received letters and calls in recent months asking what the manufacturer of cast-iron pressure water pipe is doing to solve its pollution problem.

One of the biggest complaints from citizens is the pollution abatement program is taking so long to complete. The company has been studying the problem since 1964, and began work shortly after its plan was approved by the pollution board.

One of Clow's problems is that it is difficult to work on improvements when the plant is operating at full capacity. At present, the company is shutdown for its annual two-week cleaning and maintenance period, and thus is proceeding with construction on the smoke abatement program.

The first stage of the three-stage installation is the incineration of combustibles in the smoke by "after-burning."

THE REMAINDER OF the smoke containing iron and sulfur dust then is passed through a water curtain and a wet cap. During this second stage, the larger particles, or "cats and dogs" as they are referred to, are filtered out. The gases being pulled through the stack are also reduced from 2,000 to 500 degrees. Installation of the wet caps atop the two 80-foot cupola stacks is being completed this month.

The third stage, which is the most difficult to install from an engineering standpoint, is conduction of the gases through pipes to a Venturi scrubber. Here the dust particles, which at this point are only one micron in size, are agglomerized into larger sludge particles. Thus the dust combines with moisture and is transferred from the air to water.

Here the sludge settles in the water and the clean liquid is passed out to a lake just east of the factory. The air is then sucked through a fan and out a smoke stack.

ACCORDING TO ROYER, the dust at this point has a grain loading of .05 grains per standard cubic foot of exhaust gas. This would take 7,000 grains of dust to compose one pound of solid pollutants. When the gas leaves the final filtering process, it is released into the air at a temperature of 170 degrees.

Richard Young, air pollution control officer for Bensenville, said he feels "Clow is keeping up with the time-table the state established for them."

'New Federalism' Hailed

Samuel H. Young, one of 11 GOP candidates in the 13th District Congressional race, has hailed the "new federalism" plan proposed by President Nixon as a "highly significant, progressive program."

"The decentralization of tax money, and responsibility is properly being restored to the state and city levels where they belong," Young said.

He said the plan is designed to relieve the "fiscal dilemma and frustration of local officials in meeting soaring governmental expenses." The president's program calls for the sharing of federal revenues with states and municipalities.

Ultimately, Young said, the program should "ease the local tax strain which is strangling our pocketbooks and creating serious financial burdens on all citizens."

TURNING TO the president's welfare reform program, Young said "such a plan is sorely needed to decrease the free hand-out rolls." The present system, he said "rewards idleness, and broken homes through cash bonuses."

Young referred to the aid to dependent children programs which the President has proposed be replaced with a family assistance plan. Under the new program, such payments will be restricted to able-bodied citizens who are either gainfully employed or who enroll for job training courses. The aged, blind and disabled will not be affected.

The president's welfare plan, Young said, "will give the federal government greater control over a much fairer disbursement program than has ever been proposed." The plan, he said, is fairer to both the taxpayer and the welfare recipient.

Joins Mathewson Campaign

Businessman-industrialist David T. McLaughlin, of 466 Poplar St., Winnetka, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee for the nomination of Joseph Mathewson as Republican candidate for 13th District congressman.

"I am impressed with the high caliber of those who have declared themselves to be for Joe Mathewson," McLaughlin said. "Mathewson's energetic campaigning has brought him widespread support in the western areas of the district, as well as on the North Shore," he said.

McLaughlin, vice president of U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers, Inc., has an impressive background as a community leader. He is president of the board of trustees of the Winnetka Community House, a director of the First National Bank of Mount Prospect, president of the Dartmouth Club of Chicago and a member of the board of overseers of Amos Tuck School of Business Administration, Hanover, N.H. He is also a director of the Paperboard Packaging Council and St. Leonard's Horse of Chicago.

Blacks at College

Guern Fischer, dean of guidance at Harper Junior College in Palatine told about 50 Arlington Heights Rotarians and guests yesterday noon that colleges can attract more black students if, in some cases, admissions standards are changed.

Fischer, the co-author of a Ford Foundation-financed study on black motivation for college education, explained that some colleges are now relying on subjective factors, other than College Board tests and high school records.

The soft-spoken Fischer ticked off several areas of subjective criteria for students who lack impressive high school and testing records: Evidence of handling academic work, a measure of respect for personal achievement, a sense of self-worth, and perseverance.

FISCHER AND Dorothy Knowles, co-author of the project, to be submitted this month to the Ford Foundation, interviewed blacks from four major cities, paying them $5 per interview for answering a battery of questions.

The results indicated, first, that black students, if they could do anything that they wanted, would want a specific job (24 per cent) or want to go to college (21 per cent).

Second, black students receive most of their information about college attendance from parents or counselors — but receive most information about junior colleges from personal friends.

Finally, financial pressures, for those not planning to attend college, bar 49 per cent of those interviewed.

Fischer, who will start this fall at Harper, stressed that the results of this study, limited to the black community, could have a general relationship to other similar social and economic groups in the suburbs.

However, he cautioned that broader studies, in which students from all racial social groups were interviewed, might provide more clues for the presence or lack of interest in college education.

To Inspect Navy Fleet

Alban Weber, of Evanston, one of 11 Republican candidates for Congress in the 13th District and an admiral in the U.S. Naval Reserve, began an eight-day flag orientation and inspection tour on Aug. 13 of the headquarters of the Commander of the Navy-Air Force Pacific Fleet and the Commander of the Amphibious Force Pacific Fleet.

He was one of 15 men selected by the Defense Department to conduct the inspection and is making the trip because he believes "military-industrial spending must have well-informed citizen control" through Congress.

"We will have an opportunity to look over weaponry currently and soon to be in use by operating forces in the Pacific," Weber pointed out, "and I hope to gain understanding that would serve well in future Congressional supervision of military-industrial spending."

Far Acres ORT Plans Benefit 'Scotch Bowl'

The Far Acres chapter of the Women's American Organization for Rehabilitation through Training (ORT) will sponsor a "scotch bowl" at 8 p.m. Saturday at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights.

Profits from the event will be used to buy machinery, tools and textbooks for vocational schools and junior colleges. Dinner and prizes will be featured. Tickets at $10 each are available from Mrs. Norman Katz by calling 537-1498.

Far Acres ORT includes women from suburbs in the northwest suburban area.

Franzen Joins Campaign

Roland A. Franzen, Arlington Heights business and civic leader, has been appointed chairman of the Wheeling Township congressional campaign for Philip M. Crane, Winnetka Republican.

Franzen, a veteran of many Republican campaigns in Northern Illinois, said he "accepted the Crane assignment after determining that this is the man most worthy to succeed Don Rumsfeld."

Franzen, 47, of 215 E. Orchard, Arlington Heights, recently retired from his law practice of 20 years in Arlington Heights in order to give time to public causes. The Crane campaign is his first major effort in what he calls his "new career for others."

He is a former director and vice president of the First Arlington National Bank, assistant bank examiner in the Seventh Federal Reserve District and for 10 years was treasurer of schools in Wheeling Township.

Franzen was 11th District co-manager of the congressional campaign of Henry Hyde in 1962 and the Goldwater presidential bid of 1964.

Teens Aiding Nimrod

Suburban teens are helping the campaign of 13th District Congressional Republican candidate John J. Nimrod.

"The youngsters accompany Nimrod to neighborhood meetings, pass out buttons at train stations and leave their mark on the campaign trail from shopping centers to country clubs, wherever people gather," said Mrs. Herbert S. Badal, of 711 Cherry Lane, Arlington Heights. She is coordinator of Teens for Nimrod and a campaigner.

Those wanting to join Teens for Nimrod can call Mrs. Badal at Nimrod for Congress Campaign Headquarters, 235 Ridge Road, Wilmette, 256-6400.

DOING HER OWN THING, Mrs. Betty Bristol's children put it, is being a teacher aide for the College of DuPage. A taste of teaching and working with children is offered through the teacher aide program. Her internship was this summer.

Housewife Returns to School

What does a suburban housewife with school-age children do with her time when she's had enough of volunteer work, luncheons, clubs and bridge? Mrs. Betty Bristol solved her problem by going back to school.

"My husband was enthusiastic and cooperative about my returning to school," Mrs. Bristol said. "My children were skeptical. I thought about it for a long time, investigated numerous possibilities, and finally decided upon the teacher-aide program offered by College of DuPage."

Mrs. Bristol of Glen Ellyn graduated from the program in June and is the first of a large number of teacher aides who will enter DuPage County school districts during the next several years.

A TEACHER AIDE, according to Mrs. Doris Frank, College of DuPage teacher aide coordinator, is a person who provides special classroom assistance under the supervision of a teacher.

Besides relieving teachers of many of the clerical duties such as recording grades, typing, filing and duplicating, aides help with group and individual instruction, programs, music and art.

Mrs. Bristol chose the teacher aide program for a number of reasons. First she was interested in a career in education and decided that the program would give her a "taste" of teaching, one that would enable her to transfer many credits to a four-year degree in education.

Secondly, College of DuPage provided her with courses that were close to home, held at convenient times and at low cost. Thirdly a career as a teacher aide offered her the chance for an interesting, well-paying job which had the added advantages of having the same hours and holidays as her children.

The final phase of Mrs. Bristol's training ended in June when she completed a twelve-week internship at Arbor View School, Glen Ellyn, where she worked in a variety of jobs under the direction of Principal Ronald L. Howard. During her internship Mrs. Bristol prepared materials for teachers, assisted teachers in the classroom, worked in the school office and provided individual attention and instruction for perceptually handicapped students.

MRS. BRISTOL WILL begin her career as a full-time teacher aide in September.

Howard said he plans to use the experience gained in directing Mrs. Bristol to build a strong and significant program for future student interns. As with Mrs. Bristol, he will involve them in the total operation of the school, assigning them to work with kindergarten through upper grade classes, in addition to office assignments and material and supply preparation.

"The primary function of a teacher aide," he said, "is to give a teacher more time for individualized instruction. The presence of a teacher aide during a reading class, for example, permits the teacher to work with smaller groups without sacrificing the class time for the remainder of her children.

"However, our goal in seeking teacher aides 'is not to allow us to go to larger-sized classes, but to provide better instruction for our normal-sized classes. We are not looking for bargain teachers, but for a better educational experience for our children, and the teacher aide program is taking us a long way in this direction.'"

Although she will be working full time this fall, Mrs. Bristol ultimately hopes to continue her education at the University of Illinois Circle Campus, Chicago. Now that she's completed the teacher aide program her husband is still enthusiastic about her additional education. she's completed the teacher aide program her husband is still enthusiastic about her additional education.

"My children are no longer skeptical," Mrs. Bristol said. "They think it's great, as they put it, that I'm doing my own thing."

Paper Praises Schlickman

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman's "broad appeal to younger suburbanites" makes him a co-favorite in the 13th Congressional Republican race, according to an analysis by the Christian Science Monitor.

The paper rates Schlickman and State Rep. Allan R. Johnston as having the "greatest hope of capturing the GOP nomination at this point."

In its analysis, the Monitor in its Aug. 8 edition, said, "Mr. Johnston, a long time friend of Mr. Rumsfeld, has solid support in the affluent eastern lakeshore township of the district, while Mr. Schlickman has garnered considerable strength in the growing western townships. One asset believed to be favoring Mr. Schlickman is his broad appeal to younger suburbanites — an asset that stood Mr. Rumsfeld in equally good stead."

Rain Doesn't Halt Car Top Day Event

The weatherman didn't cooperate with sunshine and clear skies Saturday, but that didn't dampen the spirit of hundreds of Nimrod for Congress supporters who gathered at Golf and Skokie roads for the gala Car Top Day.

Jack Tourville, chairman of the event, directed "car crowning" ceremonies with assistance from members of the Teens for Nimrod brigade, gaily dressed in red, white and blue costumes.

John Nimrod has received the unanimous endorsement of the Niles Township Republican Organization and of the Republican Woman's Organization of Niles Urges 'Workfare'

State Rep. Alan Johnston, one of 11 GOP 13th District Congressional candidates, has outlined his reasons for supporting President Nixon's welfare reform proposals.

After conferring with Creed Black, liaison between the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and Capitol Hill, Johnston has said, "Making 'workfare' out of 'welfare' is a concept I have suggested repeatedly in the General Assembly, particularly each time a further liberalization of our present welfare program was proposed."

"It is unrealistic to expect that welfare can be eliminated," Johnston added, "but the President has offered a new approach which should eliminate many faults of our existing programs."

Vital elements of the President's proposal, according to Johnston, are the work incentives and the education and training provisions including creation of day care centers which will embrace elements of the Head Start educational program.

"Another important feature of the President's program is revenue sharing with state and local governments. This is also a concept which I have advocated during my four terms in the Illinois legislature," Johnston said.

The family assistance provisions eliminate other inequities by subsidizing low income families regardless of whether or not the household includes a working father. Johnston said that the combination of family benefits and federal support levels should stop the migration of welfare recipients to Illinois and other states with relatively high welfare payments.

Roe Praises Nixon

Yale Roe, Republican candidate for Congress from the 13th District, has hailed President Nixon's new welfare program, pointing out that help is needed in the 13th District as well as in the large cities.

Speaking from his Wheeling campaign headquarters, Roe said, "The 13th District is known through the nation as the most affluent area in the country. What most people do not know is that there is poverty within that affluence."

"Spanish-speaking people from Mexico and Texas have settled in some of these suburbs," he continued. "Many have large families, often with as many as nine children. Irregular, low-paying employment simply does not provide enough money to cover the cost of food and housing. As a result, hundreds of children are going hungry right here in our own 13th District.

"MANY LARGE families are trying to get by on incomes of less than $300 a month. This means that after paying rent for some dilapidated dwelling, they have less than $50 a week for food, medicine, clothing, and the basic necessities of life."

Roe cited Nixon's new welfare plans as a perfect combination of compassion and incentive.

"I believe that most people want the dignity of work," Roe said. "The President's plan offers persons on relief a meaningful opportunity to learn a skill and keep a job. At the same time, it does not ignore the needy who simply are not able to work."

Roe has worked with the poverty problem as president of the New Illinois Committee, a Republican-sponsored social action organization that fought housing violations in the slums.

Eugene F. Martin OUR MAN OF THE WEEK

As announced last Friday over WEXI 92.3 FM Arlington Heights, the Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association Man of the Week is Eugene F. Martin, Mount Prospect.

Gene Martin merits this salute upon his retirement after more than 50 years of service with the Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

The honoree went to work with telephone company when 15 years old, just after the U. S. government had returned the telephone and telegraph systems to private ownership. Previously President Woodrow Wilson had ordered government control during World War I.

Gene Martin has given countless hours of service to his community in responsible roles on the village planning and zoning boards. For this devotion he deserves being named "Man of the Week."

Pen Goes to Blind

was presented to Richard Kinney, associate director of the Hadley School for the Blind.

The Schlickman sponsored bill outlaws discrimination against the blind. In making the presentation to the blind and deaf Kinney, Schlickman used a teletouch typewriter.

KINNEY, BLIND since he was in first grade and deaf since he was a sophomore in college, was the third American to win a college degree without either sight or hearing. He graduated summa cum laude from Mount Union College and was his class valedictorian.

Schlickman's bill, signed into law by Ogilvie on Aug. 6, makes it illegal for agencies supported by state funds to discriminate against the blind in hiring. The law also requires that blind people with "seeing eye," or guide dogs, be admitted to all public places. The new law further provides that the governor will annually proclaim a White Cane Safety Day to call public attention to pedestrians with such canes. The day will also be used to point out accomplishments of the blind in Illinois.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, one of 11 Republican 13th District congressional candidates, used a Braille typewriter Tuesday, Aug. 12, to present a pen used by Gov. Richard Ogilvie to signing into law a bill sponsored by Schlickman. The pen

Bateman Joins Crane Team

Ranny Bateman has joined the Crane Congressional campaign team, boosting Phillip Crane's candidacy locally.

Bateman, who has managed the last three successful campaigns in Mount Prospect, received his political baptism as a precinct worker in an unsuccessful campaign in which his cause carried only three of twelve precincts, while he carried his precinct by a three to one margin.

Crane's vast knowledge and understanding of government and his intelligent, practical, common sense approach to current problems, such as inflation and crime on the streets and campuses commanded my support," said Bateman.

$14 Million Apartment Complex Proposed

A $14 million multifamily residential development of 431 apartment units, to be located in the northwest sector of Itasca west of Route 53, was proposed Tuesday night in a public hearing held by the Itasca Planning Commission.

The petitioners, Avtech, Inc., of Chicago, a principal beneficiary of Harris Trust and Savings, is seeking approval of a pre-annexation agreement for R-3 zoning of 29 acres of land for the semi-luxury apartment complex bordering a six-acre lake. Another 17 acres, to be developed for light manufacturing in conjunction with Central Manufacturing District (CMD) are included in the planned development proposal.

The lake would be developed by draining marsh land, and around its central periphery would be five five-story, high rise apartments and four clusters of low rise units. An estimated 1,000 residents would occupy the apartments, designed around open space and the man-made lake.

ACCORDING TO the developers, "It is the intention of the parties to create harmonious residential development and abundant open space in keeping with the purpose of planned development provisions of the Itasca zoning ordinance."

The 46 acres already owned by Avtech are north of Thorndale Avenue, south of Crest Avenue (if extended east), east of Meacham Road (if extended south) and approximately 2,600 feet west of Route 53.

The rectangular tract of land borders the northwest sector of the industrial park of CMD and presently lies in the unincorporated area of the county. However it is contiguous to Itasca and could be annexed if village trustees approve terms of the pre-annexation agreement.

Charles Hodgins, plan commission chairman, indicated Tuesday night the commission may decide to schedule a special meeting to review the proposal for recommendation to the village board.

BUT EFFORTS to meet in session with the trustees following the public hearing fell by the wayside when Village President Wilbert Notke attempted to round up a quorum at 10:15 p.m. Notke found only he and Trustee Frank Atkinson were present and promptly adjourned the hearing for discussion at the next village board meeting next Tuesday.

According to Edward S. Mraz, an attorney representing the petitioners, the proposed residential development would comprise 95 one-bedroom units, 244 two-bedroom units and 92 three-bedroom units, with 15 parking spaces per apartment.

Nelson Frye, Avtech executive vice president, told commission members, "We have the technical and financial ability to develop the program, and, if we say what we will do, we will do it."

He said his firm has national representation and is recognized for its work in airport design, home construction and building of libraries and industrial parks.

WHEN QUESTIONED as to financing and proposed development, Frye replied that it would be under private financing and not from federal funds.

He said Avtech is comprised of archiects, engineers and construction managers - "the nuts and bolts of the department."

Assisting in the presentation was Anthony Bonavolonta, a member of Avtech and a Roselle village trustee.

The "M Limited Manufacturing District" would be developed as a small industrial park separated from the residential properties along Thorndale Avenue by a buffer zone of multiple-family residence buildings arranged around the six acre lake. The development would be phased out over a three year building program, according to the petitioners.

Law Will Affect State Purchasing

Tighter controls over government purchasing in Illinois will be effected since Gov. Richard Ogilvie has signed into law House Bills 2116.

Bill 2116 amends the Joint Governmental Units Purchase of Personal Property Act. It provides the State of Illinois must be included as a governmental unit to prescribe the bid letting authority. It also provides for the publishing of notices when the State of Illinois is a party to a joint agreement for the purchase of personal property.

Bill 2117 which was also recently signed, provides that the director of the Department of General Services shall be a member of the Civil Defense Advisory Council. Rep. David Regner (R-3rd Dist.) was the House sponsor for both bills.

KNOW A GOOD WAY to stir up a baseball man?

Just get him talking about the sport on a high school and college level.

We didn't realize what a touchy subject this was until we had the opportunity recently to spend some time with a major league scout, a former college fraternity brother and now a pro bird-dog in the south.

It was a congenial conversation until we made some comment about how the high school baseball season in our area, as it stands today, is a waste of time and money.

"With the weather around here in the spring," we said, "it's common for the championship trophies to be passed out not to the best teams, but to those with the fastest-drying diamonds."

He didn't laugh or even smile. He understands our problems but what bothers him about high school and college baseball is much more than just the factor of the weather.

"Unless something is done with these high school and college baseball programs," he said, "football and basketball, the glamor sports, will phase it out."

He's serious and very disturbed. Baseball men are very disturbed.

"The only two programs that are the salvation of baseball today," our friend offered, "are the American Legion and what is left of high school baseball."

"It is a known and proven fact that almost three times more boys play high school football than play high school baseball. More so, in college the ratio is 17 to 1. Is it any wonder that baseball is losing its grip on the younger generation?"

He stressed how the money sports were ruling the roost. "Years ago," he pointed out, "the school boards were made up of baseball people. Today, school boards are more interested in the money that comes through the gate for football and basketball."

"College boards and, to a larger extent, college football coaches force many better baseball players to play football, whether they prefer baseball or not. You give the athlete a football scholarship. Baseball in most colleges is only a tie-in sport. Only those who can't make the football team are permitted to be absent from spring football practice."

"All the big boys play football and all the little boys play baseball."

He's as bitter as he sounds. And he didn't stop here.

"And look at what's happened in the past ten years," he continued. "No matter what they say, every college rule that baseball has adopted has been of a defensive nature. Our rules keep the athletes in college to play football and restrict their baseball development."

"Few people know that baseball is the toughest of all major sports to play and coach. Do you realize, as a sports writer, do you truly understand that a major league baseball star cannot be produced in 50 games like a football player? It takes hundreds of games and much sacrifice of blood, sweat and tears."

We had to admit he was getting a little dramatic here but we listened. We couldn't have stopped him now if we wanted to.

"If baseball is to survive, we must do more for the high school program on a year-round basis. When a high school field is built, it should have a fence. Ninety-nine per cent of the new high schools built in my territory made no provisions for the seating of fans at their baseball fields. The opposite is true for football."

"This is ridiculous. A baseball field without a fence or seats is like a cripple without a crutch. And do the schools push their baseball? No. Where are the cheerleaders, the students?"

"Yes, I know you've had your problems with some of the national mistakes in your American Legion program here but American Legion baseball is truly our last hope. It is the best baseball program in America today. It should be promoted and helped all we can and should be fostered in every state every summer."

"If we can just set up our high school program, and our Legion play, it would be a big step in the right direction. Most of all, the colleges should be made to pay the price by giving equal scholarships to prospective athletes who want to play baseball."

He can't understand how any youngster can turn down a baseball bonus of $15,000, or $25,000, or $40,000 in order to play football.

"Baseball should investigate the house of college football and put it back in its amateur status, coaches included. It's a matter of life and death for baseball."

"Let's face it," he says. "Football mainly is eating us up — illegally."

And this all started because we commented on our weather problems in the Midwest.

We can understand his concern, and the concern of other baseball people. There is a definite need to stimulate high school and American Legion baseball, the cradle, so to speak, for the production of major league players.

Among the many problems facing Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in his assignment to restructure and revitalize baseball, one of the most important involves the formulation of a basic program to insure the development of more playing talent.

It's easy just to sit back and gripe about the situation as it stands today.

You can get stirred up when someone mentions high school or college baseball, but just getting stirred up isn't the answer.

The problem has been defined. Baseball men know what faces them. If football is "eating them up," they better quit talking and start acting.

SOMETIMES OUR TYPEWRITER just doesn't work "right."

Last week we talked about a question popped by Larry Mlyneczek, the walking encyclopedia of sports trivia in our department.

And you know what that typewriter did? It spelled out Bill Bevens as an answer when it should have been Don Larsen. We'll have to talk to management about this machine.

No, it was not Bill Bevens who pitched a perfect game in the 1956 World Series. It was Larsen, and he struck out pinch hitter Dale Mitchell to end the game.

Bevens pitched in the 1947 World Series and although he walked ten, he had a hitless game with two out in the ninth inning against Brooklyn. Then, pinch-hitter Cookie Lavagetto slammed a two-run double that nailed Bevens with a loss.

They just don't make these typewriters like they used to. Sorry, Larry.

ANSWERS TO the sports puzzlers last week:

H.T.H.W., outfielder, St. Louis — Philadelphia — Harry The Hat Walker.

K.C.H., pitcher, New York Giants — King Carl Hubbell.

B.B.O., fullback, Chicago Bears — Bullet Bill Osmanski.

Ten Years Ago...

With the first football practices approaching there was optimism in the three area camps... Arlington's "Bus" Ormsbee has a solid squad returning, including his top quarterbacks George Bork and Gene Dahlquist...

Bill Beckman was set with a top-flight group of juniors in Prospect's first varsity season, and Charley Feutz had some promising juniors to bolster a few senior hold-overs at Palatine...

Action Slated Sunday In Paddock Headliner

by PAUL LOGAN

The terrain is testing, the greens are massive, and the yardage is demanding.

These credentials alone make Palatine Hills Golf Course a most worthy layout for the 20th annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament.

However, something else may come into play when the 18-hole showdown gets underway at 9 a.m., Sunday, at the Palatine Park District course — rain.

THE GOLFERS' most hated enemy has been an unwelcome member of foursomes almost every weekend this summer, last Saturday and Sunday being no exception. So the odds of having rain or its results — casual water — around when the 19 best teams in the area tee off are very great.

However, the course seems ready for anything, according to Ralph Loneragan, manager of the 6,800-yard layout.

"It's in the best shape we've ever had it in this year," he explained. "The high grass which couldn't be cut because of the casual water is gone and the course is dry."

This is good news for the 76 amateurs who will be trying to honor their respective league by being the first to have their league name on the giant, new tourney trophy.

LEADING THE low handicappers on to the par 72 course this Sunday will be August Tamburino of the Old Orchard Scratch League's L'Nor Cleaners team. Tamburino has the impressive distinction of carrying no handicap at all!

As a team the Old Orchard entrants have a very fine total of only 14 strokes handicap. Ranking behind these hot shooters are these 18 other teams with their accompanying handicaps:

Team No. 7 of the Northwest Suburban (Y) (38), Wheeling Bank (39), Lauterburg & Oehler (39), Par Busters (51), Heights Cleaners (55), Team No. 5 of the V.F.W. Post 2149 (57), Keefer's Pharmacy (58), S & H Packaging Products (59), Wickstrom Chevrolet (60), Action Builders (61), Mt. Prospect Jewelers (62), Cake Box (67),

Borchardt's Restaurant (67), Team No. 12 of the Arlington Elks (70), Team No. 5 of Buffalo Grove (73), Chemplex of Palatine Hills (75), Team No. 7 of Pure Oil Monday (80), and Team No. 3 of Pure Oil Tuesday (93).

All of these teams, which will be teeing off between 9:00 and 11:06 a.m., will be seeing plenty of permanent water even though the skies may be clear the entire weekend. The wet stuff will be furnished by four large ponds and a creek which promise trouble on 10 of the 18 holes.

AND ACCOMPANYING the water hazards are plenty of trees and shrubs that always seem to be in the wrong places. Finally, putting the icing on this 20th anniversary cake is the ever present out-of-bounds. Half of the holes have this stroke robbing problem to contend with.

However, the whole effort is worth it because of the prizes that are being offered this year:

Engraved silver ash trays to the individuals of the top three teams, a dozen top-flight golf balls for low individual net, two free passes each for the longest driving contest and the closest to the pin contest, participation passes, and a check for $100 should anyone produce a hole-in-one.

There will be a large scoreboard adjacent to the 18th green to keep the entrants up to date on the tourney.

SHOULD GOLFERS have to leave before the conclusion of the day's play, the Paddock Publications sports bulletin phone will have the highlights. Just call 394-1700 after 7 p.m.

Five men will be representing the tournament for Paddock's: Bob Paddock, promotional director; G. A. McElroy, tourney manager; John Kebe, tourney advisor; Bob Frisk, sports editor; and Paul Logan, tourney photographer and reporter.

Palatine Hills is located on the west side of Palatine approximately one half mile off Northwest Highway. A large triangular sign marks the turnoff on the north side of the road.

THE SITE OF THE 20TH annual Paddock Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament is well marked for "hose lucky teams that have qualified for the 18 hole test on Sunday. Coming either way on the Northwest Highway (Highway 14), the large, two-sided Palatine Hills Golf Course sign is a welcome sight to golfers. This will be the first time that the two year old course will be hosting the tourney.

Elder Battles for More Than Money

by MILTON RICHMAN

DAYTON, OHIO, UPI — If you've ever been trapped in the heart of traffic the moment the light changed, with cars coming at you from both general directions, then you don't have to ask how Lee Elder feels. You know.

He feels the same way you do. Caught in the middle. Lee Elder was only one of the 142 golfers starting after the prized Professional Golfers' Association championship Thursday but there was more pressure on him, possibly, than on all the other 141 put together.

To get the whole picture you have to know that Charlie Sifford was the first black man ever to win a regular tournament on the PGA tour.

BUT THAT was two years ago in Hartford, Conn., and with the highly escalated rapid transit pace we have today his accomplishment practically falls under the reading of ancient history.

Today, Lee Elder symbolizes the black man on the previously all-white PGA tour more than Charlie Sifford. For any number of reasons.

In golf, money is never a bad place to start and Lee Elder is doing all right in that department. So far this year he has won $44,343, which happens to be more than such others as Julius Boros, the defending champ in this tournament: Gay Brewer, Doug Sanders, Al Geiberger and Tony Jacklin to name only a few. Charlie Sifford also is on the list of those Elder tops.

TELEVISION also has helped Lee Elder become known to millions.

The cameras were on him all the way when he and Jack Nicklaus waged their dramatic sudden death playoff in the American Classic at Akron a year ago. The two had to go five holes before Nicklaus won it. Elder didn't really lose. He played so well overall and battled Nicklaus so tenaciously head-to-head at Karon that he came away from the setback in much the same way Roberto DeVicenzo did when he lost last year's Masters to Bob Goalby.

Lee Elder, who is 35 and from Washington, D.C., came here without a worry in the world. He came here with his wife, Rose, after finishing third in last week's Milwaukee Open and the way he's hitting the ball, he ordinarily would have a good chance of becoming the first man of his race ever to win the PGA title.

BUT SOMETHING has happened since Elder arrived here earlier this week.

A so-called coalition of civil rights groups has threatened to disrupt play during the four-day PGA competition. The coalition, preponderantly black, insists the local chamber of commerce has devoted much more attention to this tournament than to the impoverished people immediately around it.

Lee Elder, on one hand, can feel for those people in the coalition because they are of his race and they are in need. Lee Elder, on the other hand, is also part of the so-called "affluent group" the coalition speaks out against.

"I AM CONSCIOUS of the fact I represent my race on the golf tour," Elder said, when he was asked how he felt about the coalition's threat to disrupt the tournament. "I try never to do anything detrimental because of that."

"I've talked this local issue over with my wife and she said whatever I decided would be right. What I've decided is that this is not my affair. I don't think I'll get involved. Certainly, I feel for these people, but I'm going to stay out of this thing."

Elder saved up $10,000 over five years to put himself on the tour. He worked hard accumulating the money and finally joined the tour in the fall of 1967.

HIS BIGGEST kick was that sudden death playoff with Nicklaus.

"I really got to be recognized for the first time after that," he says. "Before that, nobody knew me. They'd see me on the course and say 'Who's he? Who's he?' Now they know I'm Lee Elder."

Elder laced his golf shoes, obviously thought about the local issue some more and said:

"I just can't give up something I worked so hard for all my life."

Nobody likes getting caught out there in the middle of traffic. No matter what color the lights; no matter what color the skin.

WIND Radio to Air PGA Reports

Regular reports of the famed P.G.A. Golf Tournament, featuring the sport's biggest names, will be heard from Dayton Thursday through Sunday (Aug. 14-17) on WIND Radio, a Group W (Westinghouse Broadcasting Company) station.

Jim Gannon will air four reports both Thursday and Friday and then provide hourly reports and interviews at 15 before the hour during the Saturday and Sunday action.

Cake Box Holds Leadership In V.F.W. Twilight Golf Action

The leader of the V.F.W. Twilight Golf League, Cake Box, maintained its advantage over the rest of the field last week despite a heavily soaked Old Orchard Country Club course.

However, the lead has been cut in half by the Convenient Foods team. Presently, Cake Box has 227 points to the food men's 221.

Active Heating had a good night and moved back into third place followed by Drake Decorators also making its move.

The saturated greens seemed very welcome to five of the men who broke 40. Harvey Bartholomew (37-5 21), George Hanke (38), Bud Garmes (39), Ted Kooling (39), and Jack Peters (39-6 33), including two birdies on 12 and 11.

Team positions and points are as follows:

Cake Box	227
Convenient Foods	221
Active Heating	217
Drake Decorators	211
Nobel Insurance	199
Hughes Wall & Floor	191
Village Pipe & Cigar	188

Strong Finish by Nixon Topples Dixon for Par

Perfect weather greeted the golfers of the Northwest Suburban YMCA league last week for their fifth round of play in the season's second half.

In a hot head-to-head match Ed Nixon outshot Dick Dixon with a torrid par 35 which was good for both low gross and the low net of 32 for the evening. Nixon fashioned birdies on three holes — the 15th, 16th, and 18th on the way to his sparkling score.

Wheeling Bank Tops

Wheeling Bank nearly slipped out of the coveted first place spot two weeks ago in the Rob Roy Tuesday Night Twilight League.

The bankers lost 5 1/2-1 1/2 to Barton Stull Realtors while Fuss Engineering, presently just one and a half points behind, was whipping Team No. 11, 6 1/2-1 1/2.

Stavros of Galie Drywall had the best net score of the night with a 30 (37-7). He also captured the low gross total with the lowest golfers two strokes off the pace.

Ray Snyder carded the second best gross total with a 39 while Dixon claimed a 41 for third low gross. Steve Stadnick and Bill Kuivinen shared second low net for the night with totals of 34. The only other birdie was claimed by Harry Brodski, who duced the 12th hole.

The Tankers (captained by Dick Tank), who are better known as Team No. 7, maintained their second-half lead by taking four points from Kre-Ken Patterns, while Allen's Store for Men could only divide with Mount Prospect State Bank with each team getting three points.

Tankers Hold Equipment Issue Set at Prospect

The Tankers, better known as Team No. 7, held onto their lead in the second half of the YMCA Twilight Golf League, Wednesday, July 30th, however, Allen's Store for Men cut the lead by taking 4 1/2 points from Novak and Parker.

Although the weather was perfect only four birdies were registered during the evening's play. Ed Nixon got two of the four on the 13th and 18th holes on his way to a low gross of 36 for the night. Other birdie shooters were Max Penoller on 7 and Dick Tank on 18. Art Kruse and Dick Dixon of Allen's tied for second low gross of the night with scores of 40. Bart Kenny and Ed Nixon tied for low net with 33's while several other players had 34's.

The team standings after four nights of firing are as follows.

Registration for fall sports at Prospect High for all athletes wishing to participate in either football or cross country will be all day today. Athletes wishing to register must bring with them their physical examination cards, parent permission slips, and, in the case of football players, money for insurance.

The date for issuing football equipment has also been announced by head football coach Don Williams:

—Lettermen and seniors can pick up their equipment at 6:30 p.m., Aug. 18;
—Juniors may pick up equipment at 8:30 p.m., Aug. 18;

—Sophomores will be issued equipment at 6:30 p.m., Aug. 19;

—And freshmen may pick up their equipment at 7 p.m., Aug. 20.

Freshman football players are reminded not to buy their own shoes since Mid-Suburban League rules prohibit leather, cleated football shoes. The only allowable shoe is a cloth shoe with short rubber cleats. Freshmen can buy their shoes through the school when they are issued equipment for about $7-8.

Jewelers Lead Prospect Golf

Mount Prospect Jewelers defeated Ed and Gil's Barber Shop 6-4 and is in first place in the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League.

In other action last week, Mount Prospect State Bank defeated Ye Old Town Inn 9 1/2 to 1 1/2. Pickett Paint defeated J&B Meat Market 8-2. Annen & Busse Realtors defeated Arnold Palmer Cleaning Center 6-4. Mount Prospect Electric Construction defeated Morton Pontiac 6-4 and Winkelmann's Shell Service defeated John Mulich Buick 5 1/2 to 4 1/2.

Gene Goodman had a gross 36 and a net 27 which included three birdies. Other birds were turned in by John Hamilton, T. O'Gorman and Jack Martin. Gorman had a 34 net.
